Golden Opportunity

If dreaming of an extended building program and general improvement upon our campus aids in the realization of earnest desires, the future for STC is now brighter than ever before. The time Q. M. Smith, president, is offering to the legislature his plans for the greatest building project ever to be undertaken in the history of the school.

Enrollment is definitely on the upward trend. This shows an awakening of the populace of Middle Tennessee. Since the educational opportunities of this state rank so low among the forty-eight states, great need for improvement is ever apparent.

At present many of STC's students enter the field of teaching within and near this immediate area. If a teacher would perform his duties properly and efficiently he must, first of all, be thoroughly trained. In order to provide thorough training a certain amount of equipment (not to speak of the important role played by the instructor) per student is imperative.

According to the opinion of Mr. Smith, the time is at hand to embark upon an enlarged program. The justification comes because of the state's educational needs. Action is taken whenever a business industry outgrows its old and somewhat antiquated walls. Continuation of business is essential; if business is to continue its enlargement is necessitated. A business of a more supreme value than that of education can hardly be found. Yet the average citizen sees only the few dollars which are expended; the far-reaching and invaluable compensation is not seen. Gigantic construction projects in other fields are in progress throughout the state and nation. Why visualize an adequate and efficient educational plant for the present and future generations?

Specialization is today more pronounced than ever before in our history. Thus we perceive the highly organized competition. In order for the boys and girls to meet and cope with this competition the elementary and high school students of Tennessee are in dire need of teachers who are comparable to those of other states. This scientific and modern age demands more of a student when he enters life upon his own than that he be educated in the three "R's". Science together with invention have highly industrialized society.

The huge building project that may be for STC, Murfreesboro, is certainly fine. If the legislature fails to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity it will be doing the children of the state an injustice of no little note. With resources such as Middle Tennessee affords there is a reason or justification for the present educational status of the state.

Impounded Education

Every spring hundreds of youths in Middle Tennessee graduate from our high schools. Many of these would like to enter college but find that they are financially handicapped to such an extent that they find the procedure impossible. Others of these high school graduates do manage to enter the state supported (?) teachers colleges. They have every right to an education equal to that offered by the state university and by privately endowed universities. However, such is not theirs.

The most valuable investment this state can make for itself and its youth is in education. Contrary to wisdom, however, among the first curtailments of the state budget during the years of economical difficulties just past, was the reduction in appropriations to the state supported four-year colleges at Johnson City, Murfreesboro, Memphis, Cookeville and Nashville, and the Junior Colleges at Clarksville and Martin. In 1933 the reduction for the four-year colleges amounted to sixty-three percent of the total, making a drop from $164,000 to $56,000. Such a curtailment was entirely disproportionate to reductions made in other state expenditures. Up until 1937 such a fool-hardy practice was continued, causing a weakening of all phases of the activities of the colleges in question.

Faculties and curricula were reduced. Plants depreciated. Many activities were completely eliminated. Any clear-minded observer knows that the state as a whole suffered since the areas patronizing the colleges are enriched by the service given by those colleges.

After impoundments of about thirty percent were made, the appropriations two years ago amounted to $80,000. It is interesting to note that impoundments as a whole in the entire state budget amounted to only ten percent.

The general consensus of opinion is that the present legislature will be far-sighted enough to remedy the mistakes of its predecessors by appropriating each state college an amount of money comparable to its worth in the upbuilding of culture and citizenship among the people of our state.

PRACTICE TEACHING

- Sing a song of practice teaching, Pockets full of notes, Five-and-twenty school kids Hanging to your coats.
  - Sing a song of action; The practice teacher is it, Dodging paper wads And Thumb tacks where you sit.
  - Sing a song of misery; Sing a song of woe, Shouting, screaming voices Everywhere you go.
  - Sing a song rejoicing, Now the work is o'er, If it had been another week, It would 'a got me shore.

MORTON

Pan American Conference Backfires

Contrary to an report, in the majority of the newspapers on the success of the recent Pan American conference in Buenos Aires, this commentator is thoroughly convinced that the conference was anything but a success. At the immediate close of the conference several of the leading columnists of the country openly expressed their doubts as to the results accomplished by Mr. Hull and the American delegation. But after those first criticisms were expressed a sudden change was noticed in the newspapers.

Everything that could be said in a complimentary fashion about our delegation's efforts were printed. The actual vital problems were not commented upon. It looks very decidedly as if the administration requested certain of the leading columnists to "soft pedal" certain unforeseen reactions to our proposals at Buenos Aires.

While many of the smaller countries at the conference immediately swung into line with Mr. Hull's plans, yet there was a tremendous amount of opposition from Argentina, and unfortunately Argentina is the most powerful single country south of the Rio Grande. It should also be added that Argentina has for several years been at odds with the American government over trade difficulties so that both imports and exports with that country have been showing anything but an increase.

Mr. Hull's trade agreements have not worked with Argentina to any extent and the most annoying part of it is that Italy is gaining a tremendous foothold there, both in an economic and political sense. There has been a rather large realignment of trade in all the South and Central American countries in the last three or four years. Italy and Germany have gained in several places but not at American expense since our trade has also increased, England has not been the heavy loser in most instances.

A New and Greater European Crisis Looms

It is extremely like in this columnist's opinion that within a very short time there will be another European crisis which will make the Czechoslovakian dismemberment seem like little or nothing. A number of problems between European powers are rapidly coming to a head and all of them are very much connected.

France and Germany have signed a pact abolishing war between them forever and agreeing upon the present Franco-German frontier but this may mean very little as such pacts have meant in the past. As soon as this pact was signed Italy began a series of threats against France asking for the territories of Savoy and Nice on the mainland and the territorial lands of Corsica and Tunisia. France has taken a strong stand against these demands of Italy and has warned the British government that not one inch of French soil will be given to Italy in the form of appeasement. It is believed that Mr. Chamberlain would like France are now standing up firmly since they believed the threat of German attack has been removed by the signing of the new non-aggression pact.

In East Africa the Italians have also been threatening the French over the Djibouti railway which is on French territory, but is Italy's only entrance to Abyssinia. Here troops have been massed by both countries in anticipation of an incident. Along the borders of Libya and Algeria the same conditions exist.

Germany is making rapid expansion into eastern Europe with political control being gained over Mecklenburg and Lithuania. Along the Czech-Hungarian border fighting has been going on for days and Germany is likewise expected to shortly force a settlement of hostilities.

It is in Spain, however, that the most trouble is feared. Both the Loyalists and the Rebels are carrying on huge offensives and it is believed that if the Rebels do not make decisive gains (which looks extremely doubtful) the revolution is apt to collapse. Germany has just about decided to stop helping Franco's rebels and Italy is in so deeply that she may have to either lose all the men and money given to the rebel cause or intervene openly which would certainly bring about a state of war with France and probably England. It is most doubtful if Italy would go so far as that even with the aid of Germany which now seems to be withdrawn to a great extent.

It is this commentator's opinion that Italy will shortly have to choose between war if the present foreign policy is continued or taking a back seat and losing much. Germany is not going to help Italy pull her chestnuts out of the fire. Germany looks and is marching eastward as was her policy during the period leading up to the World War.

Blinz Speaks To Class on Management

Mr. Blinz, noted landscape artist and interior decorator, spoke to the Household management class of Miss Currier's Monday, and to a class of Miss Nelsons on Tuesday. He gave varied points and brief sketches in landscape plans.

Mrs. Blinz, home economics teacher at Tennessee College, accompanied her husband.

The Side-Lines Presents-- Gabriel Valdez

BY CHARLES LIGGETT

He was born soon after his parents came to Zacatecas, Mexico, from Barcelona, Spain. They named him Gabriel and he has blown a horn since. And that ability to make beautiful noises come from a clarinet has taken him on a rather eventful journey, as we shall presently see.

His beginning in music came as a result of President Diaz's realization that music contributes greatly toward building a strong nationalistic spirit. Every Mexican schoolboy was forced to take some form of music. Thus it was that at the age of fifteen he emerged from the Mexican Conservatory on Instrumental Music, a promising clarinetist.

Young Valdez had already decided that music was to be his work, so, with board and a dollar a day as inducement he joined the Mexican army band. For three years he followed this work, until an offer came from a circus. The circus was scheduled for a tour of the Western states and he had a strong desire to travel in the United States. He played with their band for six months while they were touring Mexico. Then a better offer from South American cities made the circus cancel the United States tour. The young man was not to be discouraged; he set out alone for San Antonio where he had friends and an offer of a job.

In San Antonio he met Carl Beck. The German liked the young Spaniard's playing and engaged him as solo clarinetist with his band. Beck took a great personal liking to him and spent much time teaching him direction. Then he made him assistant director of the band. He remained with the German band for eight years, from 1892 to 1900, years which were most profitable to the young musician.

It was during this period of his life that he met and married Molly Stewart. He tells of an amusing incident which occurred during their honeymoon. The young couple were going from San Antonio to Houston. When the conductor came for the tickets, they could not be found. With the conductor threatening to put them off the train the youthful bridegroom, in desperation, blurted out, "You can't put me off. I'm just married." He was given another chance to search for the tickets. Soon the conductor returned, grinning. In the rush of leaving the station the tickets had been left with the baggage man.

In 1901 he went to the Grand Opera House in New Orleans and remained for a year as solo clarinetist. Then the lure of army life again caught his attention and he held it since. He went to Houston, as instructor in the First Regiment Band, Texas National Guard. After five years there he was transferred to the First Tennessee Infantry Band, located at Chattanooga. Another transfer came, this time to Nashville. His days of travel were over, for Nashville has been his home since.

In Nashville Mr. Valdez has been an important figure in the musical life of the city. Besides directing the various infantry bands for the past thirty years he has played solo clarinet for the Nashville Symphony Orchestra, directed the state fair bands, given numerous park concerts, and organized and directed many bands in and near Nashville. The fine work which he has done in shaping STC's band is well known. That he took a small struggling band and developed it into its present excellence might be considered somewhat of a miracle were it not for a statement he made. "Musicians are not born," he said. "It is possible for anyone to learn to play well if he is willing to spend the necessary time in practice. I have seen people who could not whistle a tune become excellent musicians."

It was most interesting to notice the ease with which he carries on his work and the great affection which his students evidence toward him. One moment he was bending over the shoulder of a beginning drummer, patiently explaining a difficult passage in the music; the next he was swapping banter with a student almost hidden in the convolutions of a bass horn. Everywhere the students seemed to be having fun. More than this they were learning music.

Although I never got very far past the "Home Sweet Home" stage, he almost convinced me that I should drag out my rusty cornet and take another blow at the thing.

comodate the department of education, including psychological laboratories, clinical laboratories, supplies and materials illustrative of the work of the department, and facilities for a part of the laboratory school (now Training School) for directed observation and teaching of student teachers.

"A new dormitory for men that would accommodate 100 men would be a welcome addition to the college," the report continued.

The student activities building, the college president said, would consist "of facilities for college cafeteria, lunch room, post office, book store, publications rooms, and offices for the dean of men and dean of women."

Raiders Take First SIAA Conference Tilt 41-31

If the Court Pleases...

The freshmen won the ball game against the Baker Boys of Woodbury Friday night, not because they outscored the Cannon Countians and Wormy Jones, but because I gave it to them. The actual score was as Charlie Miller had it on the score board. 53-49 in favor of the Baker boys. The official book, which I kept through the game had the running score right, but there were six points too many listed in favor of Roger Brewington.

In the helter-skelter substitution of men, many of whom never reported to me, I was kept in a complete daze. The score book was too small or there were too many substitutions for some of the frosh had to be listed in the margin or any blank space on the page. Two of these men, McDonald and Adamson who scored six points were in the group. In checking the running score to the individual points during the fourth quarter, I failed to count McDonald and Adamson's points, as they were small ones obscurely hidden on the outskirts of the page, thus checking up six points short in the individual score. Since only "Brew" and Mac Carter had scored any in the last half and I knew that Mac only had scored two field goals and since many times in the game I could not see the floor because of frosh substitutes standing in front awaiting their whistle, I assumed that "Brew" had tallied the six markers. Giving them to him ran his total to 23 points when he actually scored only seventeen.

So, naturally when he checked over the book, Coach Freeman found the six points of the two subs, which ran the total to fifty-five. So the frosh say they won the game. . . and they did because the home book is the official one.

I have kept score books and timed games since I was in high school and have worked three tournaments. This is my first negative committal. I do not feel that it is necessary to state that it was an error, for certainly I would not steal a ball game from the Woodbury boys, boys whom I have known many years longer than any one in these parts.

I am sorry that it happened for as it stands, both teams won and that is against the favorable balance of something or other. To avoid another mishap, I would advise my successor to get a score book that will list more names or have the squad cut.

The only difference between Corrigan and myself is that he is getting paid for reversing matters and I ain't.

(Signed) John Bragg

Student Government Adopted By Pupils Of Training School

Much enthusiasm is being shown among the students of the Training School for the adoption of Student Government. The work is being carried on under the supervision of Mr. Simpson. Present plans consist of studying the question of student government, the need for it, and the drawing up of a constitution.

As it is now considered, it will include only the Junior High School, but if the plan is found satisfactory and applicable, it will expand to include all the grades of the school.

Trumpet an Old Instrument

One of the oldest of instruments, the trumpet was first used in the orchestra by Monteverdi. At that time crooks were added; these affording changes of key. Bach and Handel also employed this hand type. Our valve trumpet, perfected in the last century, says a writer in the Chicago Daily News, is unable to reproduce high and florid passages of the early music. Possessing three valves, which rapidly alter the keys, the construction of the instrument involves a tube, 3/4 of an inch in diameter, cylindrical rather than conical, in shape, and its length of 56 inches is doubled back upon itself.

Pins in Wishing Well

Wishing wells are common in many parts of Britain, the usual custom being to drop a pin into the water while you make your wish. The most famous one is at Upwey, in Dorset, though there is no legend regarding its origin. Here you must walk three times round the well before dropping your pin.

SPORT SCOOPS

By GEORGE PARRISH

When one accustoms himself to the nerve-racking noises of the editorial room of any small city daily and suddenly switches to the quiet, still, but far from non-progressive life that goes with the average college newspaper, his mind is suddenly thrown into oblivion.

Without those thousand-and-one noises to accompany him as he glides nonchalantly across the keys of a typewriter, he is inclined to forget that there ever was such a thing as a sports page, or even a newspaper to slave for in order to further establish its existence.

This is my first attempt to write a column for the Side-Lines. Doubtless to say, I'm licked at the beginning. There doesn't seem to be any single thing to write about.

Between Thanksgiving and January of most any fiscal year, local sports events of any great importance, suddenly take a nose dive into the nearest man-hole and remain untouched. It's their way of taking a vacation, just as you and I do annually.

But after removing the cover of the nearest man-hole we glean from its depths a few short items which I shall endeavor to pass on to you.

Coach Charles (Bubber) Murphy, the coach-playing tutor who graduated from this institution last June, comes up with the No. 1 alibi of the season. . . . it seems that Murphy's Goodlettsville High cagers are resting at the bottom of the heap in the Nashville Interscholastic cage case. . . . Mentor Murphy says it's no fault of his own because they just don't grow hardwood sharks out in his neck of the woods. . . .

George Curry, the adjective-slinging lad who dishes out an abundant supply of basketball dope for The Rutherford Courier, has sorta half-way abandoned the local sportsworld for the Tennessee legislature halls here of late. . . . Curry, a former student of this institution, is a page downy there. . . . Coach Danny Bass's Joelton High lads are really making a name for themselves in Mid-State cage circles of late. . . . It can be reliably said that Bass' cagers have already set their eyes on a Regional tourney berth. . . . Bass, a former hardwood and football player here at S.T.C., introduced six-man football into Davidson county last fall. . . . Here's more power to you, Mammy. Jaybird Hamblen, another S.T.C. graduate who entered professional baseball circles last summer, seems to be doing his part at Isaac Litton of Nashville these days as a terrific pace in Mid-State cage warfare. . . . Hamblen is assistant coach. . . . He played professional ball with the Blytheville, Ark., club last summer. . . . He is the property of the New York Giants.

Several S.T.C. athletes intend to enter the Middle Tennessee Golden Gloves tournament to be staged in Nashville the latter part of this month. . . . Included in the group are Paul Christmas, Dave Battle, and a few others. . . . Tommy Hudson has indicated that he will not enter this year. . . . Clarence (Shorty) Campbell is teaching in Georgia, according to information handed us the other day. . . . Emmett Kennon, former Blue Raider footballer, is working at a Nashville packing plant. . . . Kennon served as editor-in-chief of the "Midlander" last year.

Size of Columbus' Ships

Of the ships in which Columbus discovered the Americas, the Santa Maria was the largest. The length on deck was 86 feet 3 inches, the tonnage 252; the Pinta had a length on deck of 82 feet 8 inches, the tonnage 161, while the Nina had a length on deck of 79 feet and tonnage 171. Tonnage figures are in terms of modern weight.

Eat Clay in India

In certain parts of India eating is very common, partly to give "flavor" to food, and partly to produce a "full feeling" inside. In California the Pomo Indians mix clay with acorn meal and the peasants of Sardinia mix earth with their food.

Celtics Leave Gym Intact

By JOE BORTHICK
The long awaited basketball schedule is published elsewhere on this page. Since its first appearance in one of the Nashville papers quite general discussion has been aroused. Not only is this true within the student body itself but also such is very often found on the street corners often town.

In general this discussion is concerning the strong schedule that has been arranged. Some think that the schedule is "too stiff" for our squad. At the same time others argue such is what is needed.

Certainly a successful completion of the present schedule would give much credit to our squad and school. Since the athletics of this school are definitely on the upward trend it is the opinion of this writer that STC should engage in strong competition, not only in basketball but in other sports as well. Present hardwood material found at STC certainly justifies an enlarged schedule. For the past eight seasons I have personally noted STC's athletics. From one time to another the basketball material has been good. Yet the present squad holds more possibilities than any other recent squad.

There is something in the word "Celtic" hardly found in any other word relating to basketball. When it was announced that the STC gym would be the scene of action for the famous New York team, practically every student on the campus began offering some comment.

The game itself was a real show. Numerous were the people who expressed themselves as having seen their most enjoyable basketball game. Discussion of the Celtics and their performance on Saturday night continued until the "wee hours" of the morning.

There could have been an exhibition of how he could rush down the floor for his opponent, play the spot, and flip the net without so much as touching the rim of the basket. If you can't still hear the roar of the crowd from this play just assume it has died out by this time.

Mackie has decided he can't get the tip-off over Banks (that is when Pat Herlihy holds Banks high into the air). . . . Here's hoping that Sam Smith hasn't decided to change his life's work from being a "guard" going around with his head high in the air just remember that he scored two points against the Celtics.

Frosh Still Rampaging; Defeat Woodbury 31-20

Coach O. L. (Nooby) Freeman led his frosh cohorts eastward on Highway No. 70 Saturday for a successful invasion of Woodbury. The final score was 31-20 over Coach "Red" Yergan's high schoolers.

The Cannon Countians were set for Willyou Roger Brewington and his scoring habits and held him in check for the first half. With this situation at hand, Coach Freeman center who can flip a long arch from center as easily as "Alley Rat" Agate can shoot a marble. The boy with the "Samsonic" wrists took second honors in the scoring meek with nine points. The fact that he was held to a lone field goal in the last half by the Freemanites gave the freshmen easy sailing. They were pressed in the first half with that portion ending 13 to 10.

The frosh score ran their total for two successive nights to 86 points. If they hold this pace they will break the record of the Rats of 936-37 who averaged 43 markers a game for the season.

Coach Freeman used fifteen men in the game.

Tea At President's Home Introduces New Instructors

President and Mrs. Q. M. Smith were hosts at an afternoon tea Saturday to introduce Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Midgett and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Abernathy to the members of the STC and Training School faculties.

The President's home was attractive with arrangements of yellow and white chrysanthemums. At the refreshment table a bowl of yellow rosebuds and yellow and white chrysanthemums rested on a central mirrored plaque. Silver mint containers were placed at each end of the table.

Members of the faculty assisted in receiving the guests and in serving refreshments.

FOLLIS-CORWELL WED

Frances Follis and Kermit Corwell were married Christmas Eve at four o'clock at Russellville, Ky.

Frances is a sophomore at STC and active in the art and athletic departments. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Follis of Tallahoma.

Mr. Corwell is the son of Mr. V. P. Corwell of Westmoreland, and teaches in the elementary school there. He has attended David Lipscomb, TPI, and STC.

The couple will reside in Westmoreland at the completion of the bride's sophomore year at STC.

Miss Virginia Steele of Nashville visited Lura Oakley Hunter Sunday afternoon.

Ruth Tittsworth will return to her home town, Shelbyville, Saturday for a short visit.

TOPIC ANNOUNCED

The topic of the business men's Bible class of the First Baptist Church next Sunday morning will be "The Supreme Possession," J. Murfree O'Brien, president of the class, announced this week.

Name Olga Has Two Meanings
The name Olga has two origins, each of which gives it a different meaning. The Teutonic origin carries the meaning "holy" and the Slavonic "gracious." Either gives an Olga something to live up to, says Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. St. Olga, Tenth century, was the wife of Igor I and after his death ruled Russia for 20 years as regent for her son. She was baptized at 75 but was unsuccessful in her efforts to introduce Christianity into Russia. Queen Olga of Greece, grandmother of King George, died in exile in Italy during the days of the Greek republic.

Rubber From Poinsettia
The poinsettia is listed among the plants from which rubber can be obtained.

Constitution and By-Laws of The Associated Student Body of State Teachers College Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Article I

- Sec. 1. The name of this organization shall be The Associated Student Body of State Teachers College, Murfreesboro, Tennessee.
- Sec. 2. The principal purposes of this organization shall be:
  1. To unify all students and organizations under one general control.
  2. To aid in the internal administration of the school.
  3. To give the students actual practice in a democratic form of government.
  4. To develop in the students self-discipline and social responsibility.
  5. To promote in all ways the best interests of the school.
  6. To aid in the social, extra-curricular, and disciplinary realms.
- Sec. 3. All students, both resident and day, shall be members of this Association.

Article II

- Sec. 1. There shall be three separate and distinct divisions on the government of the student body, known respectively as an Executive Department, a Legislative Department, and a Judicial Department.
- Sec. 2. The Executive Department shall consist of a President and a Vice-President, elected by the ASB, in a manner prescribed by law, from the Senior Class; and a Secretary, a Treasurer, an Attorney-General, and such other administrative officers as shall be provided by law, to be appointed by the President and ratified by a majority of the Congress.
- Sec. 3. The Legislative Department shall consist of a unicameral body called the Congress. The members shall be elected annually by classes in a manner prescribed by law. The Congress shall meet during the first and third week of each month, the day to be fixed by law, and at any other time upon the call of the President of the ASB.
- Sec. 4. The Judicial Department shall consist of a Supreme Court, a dormitory council for women, and a dormitory council for men, and such other inferior court officials as shall be created by law.

- 1. The Supreme Court shall consist of 2 seniors, 2 juniors, and 1 sophomore. They shall be appointed for a term of one year by the President of the ASB and confirmed by a majority of Congress.
- 2. The Dormitory Council for Women shall consist of seven members, 2 seniors, 2 juniors, 2 sophomores, and 1 freshman. These shall be elected by the women of the dormitories. Laws and By-Laws of the council shall be vested in a separate constitution for Dormitory Women.
- 3. The Dormitory Council for Men shall be organized upon the same plan as the Dormitory Council for Women.

Article III

- Sec. 1. All officers elected by the ASB, appointed by the President of the ASB, or elected by the classes, must have an average grade of not lower than C.
- Sec. 2. The President of the ASB shall be from the Senior Class and may be either a man or a woman. He shall be recognized as the ranking officer of the ASB. He shall preside at all student assemblies. He shall be responsible through his associates in office, to see that all laws of the school are enforced.
- Sec. 3. The Vice-President shall be from the Senior Class, and may be either a man or a woman. He will preside in the absence of the President, and act as non-voting chairman of Congress.
- Sec. 4. If the President of the ASB is a man, then the Vice-President shall automatically be a woman, and vice versa.
- Sec. 5. The Secretary shall perform the duties customarily attached to that office, and such others as shall be assigned by law.
- Sec. 6. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised by the ASB and pay such money out upon order of the President when such expendi-transactions must be kept by the Treasurer in such a manner as prescribed by law.

Sec. 7. The members of the Congress shall number thirteen, elected by classes: four from Senior, four from Junior, three from Sophomore, and two from Freshman. The Congress shall comprise the final law-making body of the ASB. This body shall elect a recording secretary from their number, who will be entitled to vote and speak from the floor. This body may originate laws and make its own laws and by-laws, as well as consider recommendations made to it by the President of the College, or Faculty, or President of ASB. A majority vote will be required to pass or repeal any law or rule. A majority of the members of the Congress shall constitute a quorum. Bills may be introduced by any member of the Congress. All bills, before becoming law must pass two readings, and at least five days must elapse between the first reading and the final passage. Congress shall make ample provision for acquainting the President of the College of all bills. Voting shall be viva voce, provided that, on any matter before the Congress, one member may demand a standing vote, and three members a roll call. Contested elections to membership in the Congress shall be decided by the Congress.

Sec. 8. The Supreme Court shall be the final judicial organ of the ASB. Time of meeting, conditions of appeal from Dormitory Councils voting, and such other administrative matters shall be determined by law.

Sec. 9. The Dormitory Council shall be devoted to considering matters of local dormitory interest. It shall deal with matters of minor violations of dormitory rules.

Article V

- Sec. 1. Election of all executive officers shall be held during the last month of the Winter Quarter. All candidates must have at least a C average, and stand high in citizenship.
- Sec. 2. Candidates receiving a majority of votes shall be declared elected.
- Sec. 3. Counting of ballots and all other matters pertaining to the elections shall be determined by law.
- Sec. 4. Election of succeeding Congressmen shall be held during the last month of the Winter Quarter. These elections shall be held in class meetings. Freshman Congressmen shall be filled at that time. The elections shall be subject to the same rules as the Winter elections.
- Sec. 5. Where a vacancy occurs in an elective office, an election for filling such vacancy must be called by the President of ASB within thirty days. All other vacancies shall be filled by the President of ASB and approved by a majority of the Congress.

Article V

- Sec. 1. This constitution, or any part of it, may be repealed or amended by a three-fifth vote of the students present, and a majority of the Congress.

Article VI

- Sec. 1. The veto power of all laws shall be vested in the President of the College, or some person delegated to act by him, but shall be used within a period of five days after the passage of the law.
- Sec. 2. All committees and organizations shall continue in their present status unless otherwise stated in this constitution.

Article VII

By-Laws

- Sec. 1. The President of the ASB may remove from office all students appointed by him to positions of responsibility. In the case of Supreme Court members an approval of two-thirds of the members of Congress is necessary.
- Sec. 2. The Congress may impeach, try, and remove from office for neglect, or any other acceptable reason, anyone holding an elective position in the ASB, including one of its own members.
- Sec. 3. The Congress shall pass all laws and fix the penalties for their violation. The Congress shall be responsible for giving due publicity to these rules, and laws.
- Sec. 4. The Associated Student Body shall publish from time to time a handbook containing all the rules of the school, the penalties, and other information about the school helpful to the students.

Article VIII

- Sec. 1. The workings set out herein will begin immediately upon their ratification.
