"Madwoman" Opens Thursday Night

Lipson Speaks November 17

Dr. Leslie Lipson, distinguished political scientist and author, will lecture at Middle Tennessee State University, Thursday, November 17, on the subject, "The Great Issues of Politics," Dr. Norman L. Parks has announced.

Dr. Lipson, a member of the faculty of the University of California, will speak under the auspices of the MTSU Political Science Department, at 10:50 A.M. in the university auditorium. His lecture will conclude a special series made possible by a grant last year of the S & H Foundation.

In addition to the main lecture, to which the public is invited, he will also give two small auditorium speeches, also open to the public.

Previous speakers in the series called "Civic Responsibility in a World in Crisis" were Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court, Dr. John Stoessinger of New York University, and Dr. Edward C. Banfield of Harvard University.

Dr. Lipson, a native of England, was educated at Oxford and Chicago. He headed the department of political science of the University of New Zealand from 1939-1946, then came to Swathmore for three years before joining the University of California faculty at Berkeley in 1950. For eleven years he has served as director of studies of the Atlantic Institute at Paris, last year serving full time in this capacity while on leave from California.

He is a long-time guest lecturer at the National War College in Washington and the Air War College, Montgomery, Ala. He represented the United Nations in Rio de Janeiro in 1953 under the Technical Service Administration. He has been visiting professor at Columbia, Stanford, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Hawaii.

Distinguished as both a humanist and political theorist, Dr. Lipson is a prolific writer of articles and books. Among the latter are THE DEMOCRATIC CIVILIZATION, THE POLITICS OF EQUALITY, and THE AMERICAN GOVERNOR. He is best known for his theoretical work, THE GREAT ISSUES OF POLITICS.

In his major address at MTSU, Dr. Lipson will explore the permanent political issues which have confronted Western man and the alternative responses today. Joining the political science department in sponsoring the address will be the MTSU Associated Student Body and the Pi Gamma Mu, social science honorary fraternity.

MADWOMAN ON THE MOVE!!

As Mel Black, (the Streetsinger) croons this old French Murzurka George Clinton, (Dr. Jardin) exclaims the evils of the world to Terri Mosely — the apprehensive Mademoiselle Gabrille. He warns of Senators with empty baby carriages, talking hot water bottles, and presidents with gold bricks in their greedy grasps. The Mademoiselle attentively listens.

This is only a trio of the multi-starred cast of "The Madwoman of Chaillot" which is in final rehearsals for her November 17 opening performance. Cast and crews hurriedly add last minute touches to one of the most ambitious undertakings ever attempted by the Theatre department. "Madwoman" is directed by Dorethe Tucker with technical direction by Clayton Hawes.

Don't miss "Madwoman" when she appears on the MTSU theatre stage November 17, 18, 19 at 8:00 P.M.

Vets Club To Hold Auditions

Once again it is that time of the year when the MTSU Veterans Club stages its annual Talent Show and Beauty Contest.

Auditions for the show will be held Monday, November 21st, from 1:00 to 5:00 P.M. in the Dramatic Arts Auditorium. If you are interested in appearing in the show please contact Charles Morhouse at PO Box 3984.

Prizes of $25.00, $15.00, and $10.00 will be awarded for First, Second, and Third places respectively.

Home Ec Career Day Set For November 22

"Home Economics Career Day" has been set for Tuesday, November 22, 1966. At this time, high school students are given the opportunity to visit our campus and orient themselves with the home economics program at MTSU. The AHEA chapter has invited 1,560 students and teachers from the surrounding Middle Tennessee area to attend this event.

There will be a program in the Dramatic Arts Building with registration beginning at 9:00. This is followed by a luncheon held in the Student Union Building. By attending these activities, further interest in home economics is promoted and a better understanding of campus life is achieved by these high school students.

Students Urged To Vote For Outstanding Prof.

Each student at MTSU has some teacher who has proved especially efficient and helpful. This teacher should be nominated for one of the three $1,000 honorariums made available by the Loan, Scholarship and Development Foundation of the University.

Nomination of any instructor who teaches as much as six hours and who has been on the faculty for a definite period may be made by any student or alumnus. All such nominations should be made out on the form printed below. Although a space is left for the signature of the one making the nomination this is not required to validate the nomination.

Shortly after January 1 a special committee will review all the nominations that have been made by alumni, students and faculty. From this list of nominations the three to be honored will be selected.

Homecoming Commended

I should like to take this opportunity to commend the students of MTSU for their fine performance during the weekend of homecoming, 1966. A fine parade, a 33 to 0 victory, and a unique dance combined to make the best homecoming I can ever remember, in spite of inclement weather. The theme, Happiness is—certainly came true in 1966.

The parade the biggest and best ever, was only to be slowed down by the weather. Congratulations to the seniors for their tremendous float. But at the same time, I should like to extend my sympathy—a million dollar float—a thirty-five dollar 1st prize. It is one of the purposes of this letter to encourage a prize worthy of entry. Perhaps an entry fee would help make the prize a little closer to reality.

What needs to be said concerning the game other than "Who's right?" The spectators are not to be condemned—many people have a phobia about sitting in the rain. However, the Raiders are certainly to be complimented on a fine T. V. performance. Also to be commended are the cheerleaders who gave their wholehearted support throughout the game.

Thirdly, hats off to the Toys — Dr. Feelgood Shindig. But more important hats off to the students who so generously contributed to the Senior Class project. MTSU enjoyed another first—a big name entertainment dance, because the students displayed a sincere desire to have a better than ever Homecoming dance. Congratulations students—Homecoming '66 was great!

Womack Thanks YTB

To the Editor:

Senator-elect Howard Baker, Jr. has asked that his personal gratitude and his deepest appreciation be extended to the students of MTSU who helped him in his recent campaign. Since it would not be possible to thank everyone, I would like to express my appreciation to all those connected with the MTSU-YTB organization and for the service rendered on a job well-done. I would also like to express appreciation to those who worked against us for their courtesy during the campaign and their spirit of co-operation now that the election is over. With such a spirit, all emerge victorious.

Thank you,
Paul Womack
Chairman, MTSU-YTB

playing to be admitted at a cheaper rate. This action on the part of Tennessee Tech could eventually cause all OVC schools to raise their prices to the visiting teams' student body. I certainly hope that the officials at Tennessee Tech realize the financial burden they are not only placing on students from M.T.S.U. but could also lead to students in all the OVC schools. I will continue to contact the officials at Tennessee Tech in an effort to obtain cheaper rates for our students.

Congratulations to Frank Victory for being selected by the coaches as A.S.B. Player of the Week in M.T.S.U.'s Homecoming victory over Murray State.

GOP Gets New Blood; Demos Must Recoup

Now that the elections (with one exception) are all over but the shouting, perhaps it would be permissible to venture a few personal opinions about the outcome of the various races.

There are many aspects of this political year which are strange and ironic. At the same time that responsible elements are regaining control of one of the major parties nationally, Alabama and Georgia revert to a level of politics which make one wonder if the past century has ever elapsed. This was a year of sharp contrasts and this year's events will be analyzed for many days to come.

Even though many issues were batted around — chiefly the Viet Nam war, civil rights, and inflation — many of the campaigns centered largely around personalities. Many new faces came to the fore nationally and some of the old ones stayed. The Republican Party won out in the race to develop new leaders. They produced Charles Percy in Illinois, Edward Brooke in Massachusetts, Mark Hatfield in Oregon, and Howard Baker in Tennessee. At the same time, they retained such old stand-bys as George Romney of Michigan, Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, James Rhodes of Ohio, and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. Also contending for national recognition is New York mayor John Lindsay. Richard Nixon gained much prestige from the elections as well.

These are the leaders who were practically driven out of the party and off the national scene in the disaster of 1964 by the ultra-conservative faction. Despite actor Ronald Reagan's victory in California, Republicans have proven that they want moderates and liberals as their leaders and men who will not alienate huge sections of the voting public.

I think the elections this year did both parties a great deal of good. Two years ago when the Democrats swept to crushing victories in every phase of government, people wondered if the two-party system would survive. Last week's returns have answered that question. The Republicans have received new blood at a time when they desperately needed it and party control has more or less been returned to responsible leaders. On the Democratic side, there will be much good to come out of this campaign even though they lost 48 House seats, three Senate seats, and several governorships.

The same people who counted the Republicans out after 1964 are now making the mistake of forecasting a dim future for the Democratic Party. Such gloomy speculations are unrealistic. The Democratic Party retains solid control of the House and the Senate, a majority of governorships, most state legislatures, and the presidency. Is this such a weak position? After the huge net gain two years ago, everyone expected a good many losses this year. It would be unnatural for one party to have such massive control for an extended period. Things have merely returned to normal as most foresighted observers had anticipated.

Smart Democrats can profit from this year's events. Many have learned, some too late, not to rest on their laurels. Others now see that the Democratic Party also needs some new personalities — young, vigorous, and alert — to assume leadership positions. Who knows what '68 and '70 will bring?

I think members of both parties are gratified to see the two party system prove that it is still a viable, healthy institution. With a revived and capable opposition party, Democrats will have to stay on their toes and compete actively to retain their power. Everyone recognizes competition as a healthy situation. No prudent person, especially Democratic leaders, would want it otherwise.

The last few elections have confirmed and strengthened my faith in the American public. The whole system has passed some crucial tests and the people have proved that they are capable of deciding the issues and choosing their leaders. Our parties can take calamities like 1964 and still remain as effective political institutions.

The contrasts remain however. We see within minutes of each other the very moving, articulate acceptance speech of Massachusetts' Negro Senator-elect and on the other extreme, the fiasco as two conservative arch-segregationists struggle for the governorship of Georgia. Could a political system afford such contrasts and survive extremist elements if it were not workable and strong?

I find this year's election results thought-provoking and, with notable exceptions, extremely gratifying. Despite its many opportunities to falter and pressures to make it fail, our democratic two-party system continues to prove its effectiveness and its ability to function in the most demanding situations. At such moments, especially in this season of Thanksgiving, I am truly grateful to be an American. — T.P.

Due to a technical difficulty the 'Death of God' program will not be presented by the Socratics on Thursday evening as planned.

MTSU freshman Bob Forsythe was also among those students and faculty members taking part in Murfreesboro Little Theatre's production of the "Caine Mutiny Court Martial." The SIDELINES regrets that his name was left out of last week's article.

The Student's Voice

With mid-semester exams over, we can continue to increase our activities for the student body. An event of importance coming to our campus on Tuesday night, December 6, will be The Lettermen in concert. The Lettermen are considered a tradition at M.T.S.U. as well as other college campuses in the South. With the Lettermen returning to our campus with their popular songs and a new show, we expect an excellent performance.

Final awards that were given for the Homecoming activities from the Associated Student Body Government are as follows:

FLOATS
1st Prize — Senior Class
2nd Prize — Church of Christ Group
3rd Prize — Circle K
CARS
1st Prize — Newman Club
2nd Prize — Wesley Foundation
DORMS (BOYS)
1st Prize — Judd Hall
2nd Prize — Sims Hall
DORMS (GIRLS)
1st Prize — South Monahan Hall
2nd Prize — Miss Mary Hall

These awards will be distributed to the winning organizations as soon as possible. I would like to congratulate everyone who helped make our Homecoming a success. To insure future usage of trailers, chairs, grass, and other materials, please be sure that all equipment is returned.

Special recognition and thanks should be extended to Martha McDaniels, Bud Morris, Pete Atchley, David Rohde, Tom Forrester, Kittie Myatt, Suzanne Pyle, Betty Strong, Nelda Mantooth, Chuck Brewer, Lou Baker, and other students who helped in making the Queen's Float.

The A.S.B. with the cooperation and assistance of the Gift-

Pax Company were able to distribute FREE approximately 1200 Gift-Paxs for females. The Gift-Paxs for males will be distributed at a later date.

The Associated Student Body Screening Committee met on Thursday, November 10, and recommended to the Faculty Screening Committee that the Delta Phi Gamma, a social SORORITY, and the Socratics Club be recognized as an integral part of Middle Tennessee State University. On Thursday, November 3, the screening committee made the same recommendations for Sigma Tau Omega, a social FRATERNITY. The members of the A.S.B. Screening committee are Bill Boner, Chairman, Martha McDaniels, Larry Blick, Kittie Myatt, David Rohde, Judy Bawcum, and David Hornick.

On Tuesday and Thursday of last week, the President, Speaker of the Senate and Speaker of the House of the A.S.B. served on the Faculty Disciplinary Committee. The student representation on the committee assist in voicing opinions and beliefs to the faculty members. The student representation do not have a vote in the final decision of the disciplinary action to be recommended to Dr. Cope who has the final sanction of the action to be enforced.

Last week your president contacted officials at Tennessee Tech to find out why M.T.S.U. students were having to pay $2.50 for a student ticket; this is the same price non-students must pay also. In the past M.T.S.U. has charged T.T.U. students $1.25 to see the game at Murfreesboro while Tech has charged our students $1.50 per ticket at Cookeville. It has been customary in the past for students attending away football games in which their team is Miss Catherine Clark, director of MTSU's Todd Library, is one of the busiest people on campus. She has been at MTSU since 1946. Her staff is composed of 10 librarians, 9 secretaries, and 50 to 60 student assistants.

Miss Clark was born and raised in Murfreesboro. She was graduated from Tennessee College, and received her bachelor's and Master's from Peabody. She collects rare books, and one of the most interesting ones she has is SELECTIONS OF HYMNS. It was printed in 1823 in England and has a fore-edge painting of Edinburgh Castle. Fore-edge painting is a process whereby a picture is painted on the edges of the pages in such a manner that it cannot be seen except by placing the closed pages at a forty-five degree angle.

Since she has been at MTSU,

Miss Clark has seen the library grow from occupying Mr. Murfree Hall to a large building of its own which houses 1,330 volumes and 1,000 periodicals. Microcards and microfilms are among the latest editions to the Todd Library. A curriculum laboratory equipped with state approved text books, courses of study, and other material has been added, making a total of 3 reading rooms. The Tennessee Room, where material by and about distinguished citizens of our state is kept, is also a new addition. Last year 1,600 people a day made use of the MTSU library. The Sidelines Staff would like to thank Miss Clark for services to MTSU.

Inter-Presidents Meeting Tonight

There will be an Inter-President's Cabinet meeting next November 15 at 6:00 p.m. in room 201 of the S.U.B. The main purpose of this meeting will be to make the final plans for our campus wide Christmas Project. We hope that the club presidents have had a chance to meet with their clubs and will have some idea as to how much the clubs is planning to contribute to this program. We have already talked with some of the groups and are pleased with the enthusiasm that the students have for this project.

Raiders Out, Eagles In

By JIM FREEMAN

In what has to be considered the upset of the year in the OVC, East Tennessee State defeated the Raiders, 12-0, and in doing so cost them:

- (1) Any part of the OVC championship,
- (2) A spot in the top ten small college polls this year,
- (3) Any more consideration for the Grantland Rice Bowl.

All that is left for the Raiders now is to try to keep intact Coach Murphy's record of not having finished lower than second in the OVC since 1954. A loss to Tech would drop them into a tie for third place with Austin Peay and Eastern.

The fiasco at Johnson City was easily MTSU's poorest effort of the year. That, plus the fact that East Tennessee played their best game of the year, was enough to pull the Bucs through.

The fine effort on East Tenn.'s part was no accident, however. They had scouts at SEVEN of the Raider's first eight games. They had every play that Middle Tenn. had used eleven years, whether it gained or lost, and in what situation it was used.

The long hours of preparation certainly paid off. It was a much-needed gain for the Buccaneers. It gave them something to look forward to next year after the dismal 3-6 record this season. It's too bad they had to win at the expense of Middle, however.

I suppose every quarterback is entitled to one bad game per year, no matter how good he is. Billy Walker certainly had his against East Tenn. Walker completed only four of 18 passes for a total of 47 yards. This is well below the standards he usually rings up.

In Walker's defense, however, it must be said that East Tenn. never gave him much of a chance to throw. The fired-up Buc defense threw him for losses seven times, forced him to run for yardage on other occasions, and made him hurry the throws that he did get away.

The most amazing thing about the Buc defense was the fact that they were able to stop big Larry Mathews, too. Usually when a team is able to completely throttle one phase of MTSU's attack, they leave themselves vulnerable in another area. Not so with the Bucs. They stopped the Raiders cold in every way. This is the result of the fine coaching of John Bell, who is the new head coach at ETSU. He went to Johnson City from Georgia Tech, where he learned defense under Bobby Dodd, an old hand at that sort of stuff.

EAGLES SLIP IN BACK DOOR

It's hard to believe, but Morehead is the 1966 OVC football champion. The Eagles just sorta slipped up on everybody (except us) and played just good enough to win. The feeling here is that Morehead certainly didn't have the best team, maybe not even one of the best three. They won their OVC games by scores of 14-3, 30-9, 21-10, 13-7, 12-7, and 21-19. Any of the last three, against East Tenn., Western, and Eastern, could have gone either way. Tech coaches have also indicated that they felt Morehead was lucky against them. Lucky or not, they won six of seven games in an extremely well-balanced league, and can claim, at least, the best won-lost record in OVC play.

FRESHMAN - VARSITY GAME

Next Monday, November 21, will be the first annual freshman-varsity basketball game here at MTSU. This will match the best varsity team in many moons with the best-ever freshman squad. To make things a little more even, Tommy Brown, the transfer from Tennessee State, who won't be eligible until next semester, will play for the frosh.

Tickets are now on sale at the Student Union Building, or from any Booster Club member. They are also on sale at several places downtown. Prices are 50¢ for students, and $1 for adults. Surely, everyone has at least a half dollar's worth of school spirit, so let's prove it by going to the game and supporting our basketball teams.

THIS AND THAT

North Dakota State, the number one small college team for the first six weeks of the season (according to the wire services) has dropped their last two games, 36-0 to San Diego State, and 41-14 to State College of Iowa.

Look for East Tenn. to be tough in a couple of years. They had eight Freshmen among their first 22 players.

Game time for the freshmen-varsity game is 7:00 p.m., but if you want a little extra entertainment, get there in time to watch Tommy Brown warm up. You will be in for quite a treat.

After the game, there will be a big pep rally in the gym for the Tech football game, so don't leave early.

Bucs Eliminate Raiders 12-0

A fired-up bunch of East Tenn. Buccaneers, having everything to gain and nothing to lose, pulled the OVC upset of the year by downing heavily favored MTSU at Johnson City last Saturday night. The loss eliminated the Raiders from the OVC title race, and gave the 1966 crown to Morehead.

East Tenn. carried the fight to the Raiders right from the start, and beat them in every phase of the game. Statistically, ETSU had the edge in everything except punting.

The first play served as an omen to the Big Blue. It was a pitch-out and pass play that covered 24 yards and caught the Raider secondary flat-footed.

Middle Tenn. stopped this drive, but was unable to move the ball, and punted to the Buc 44. From there ETSU drove to a touchdown with the aid of a first down on a 15-yard penalty. Tailback Benny Lemon scored from the five, and the Bucs led, 6-0.

In the second quarter, MTSU drove to the Buc 44 (their only venture into enemy territory in the first three quarters) but fumbled on the next play. ETSU recovered on the 49 and then drove 51 yards for their second score. Freshman quarterback Mike Young pushed into the end zone from one yard out and ETSU led at the half, 12-0.

After a scoreless third period, the Raiders threatened early in the final stanza. They drove to the Buc 27, but FOUR straight passes were incomplete, and East Tenn. took over. The last pass, which looked like a sure touchdown, was knocked down at the last minute on a beautiful play by Freshman Al Guy. Had MTSU scored at this point, the complexion of the game could have changed drastically.

The Raiders never came close after that. In fact, in the last two series of downs, they never crossed their own 30 yard line.

This was the second OVC loss for the Raiders against four wins. They have one game remaining, with Tech at Cookeville.

East Tenn. has finished their season. They were 2-5 in the OVC and 3-6 overall.

BOB HLODAN (23) is about to be halted after a short gain in ETSU's 12-0 win over the Raiders in Johnson City last Saturday night. Ron Overbay (15) is the ETSU player about to lower the boom.

AROUND THE OVC

TENN. TECH-15

The Gov's from Austin Peay are a lot like "Moon Shine." They get tougher to keep down with age. As the season gets older, APSC becomes more impressive. For the second time this year they played the role of spoilers. Earlier they shocked our own Blue Raiders 13-7. They took Tenn. Tech 20-15 despite an OVC record-breaking 51 yard field goal by John Swords, a 225 pound freshman. Regardless of the strong wing at his back, I'd hate to see this boy kick when he gets some experience.

As always John Ogles was the man grinding out the yards. This week he carried 26 times for 105 yards and two touchdowns. The Gov's were also aided by another circus catch, this one by Ron Parsons that eventually provided the margin of victory. WESTERN-35 BUTLER-7

Western used their more experienced soph quarterback Mike Egan to spark Western to a 35-7 victory. John Vance, the freshman starting quarterback was unable to move the ball and was replaced by Egan at the beginning of the second quarter.

Egan promptly threw a 50 yard scoring aerial to Jim Old. Egan scored the second the third TD's himself on runs of one and two yards respectively.

The Butler Bulldogs lone tally came on an eight yard pass play from quarterback Dick Carando to Steve Sadler. Carando added the extra point.

The Hilltoppers are now 4-5 for the season and finish up against winless Murray at Murray.

EVANSVILLE-14, MURRAY-12
Murray's winless Thoroughbreds came close to getting in the win column with a 14-12 loss to the Aces of Evansville. The only difference in the score was two PAT's that went astray. Murray did not score at all until late in the 4th quarter, then their spirited rally fell just short. The Thoroughbreds scored on a one yard run by Terry Croom and a 61 yard pass play from Toby Thomason to end Wayne Wilson.

Murray's last chance to get into the win column will be next week in an OVC battle with Western Ky.

Debaters Now 16-2

MTSU debaters lost one match at the Western Kentucky Invitational tournament — but that was when Bob Freeman and Gary Bickford, the top affirmative team among 15, lost to Murray State, the top negative team in the finals for the championship.

David Walker's team now has 16 wins against two defeats. Among the victories last Saturday at Western were wins over Bradley, University of Georgia, Western Kentucky, Ursuline and David Lipscomb.

Cross-Country Team Ranks 14

Middle Tennessee's fine cross-country team traveled to Wheaton, Illinois this past weekend for the National Small College Cross-Country Meet. Middle Tenn running without their number two man, placed 14th out of some 40 teams.

Two other OVC teams, Tech and Eastern, placed 15th and 16th to give the OVC a strong representation.

Charlie Dahlgren was MTSU's best man as he grabbed 36th place in a field of about 400.

Team winner was San Diego State. Western Illinois was second and Eastern Michigan was third. San Diego was defending champions.

The individual winner was Bob Fitts of Courtland (N. Y.) State. He covered the four-mile course in 19:41.8.

The cross-country team has one more meet—the big one; the OVC in Richmond, Ky. Mickey Haddock, the boy who missed the meet last Saturday, will be ready this weekend as the Raiders attempt to dethrone Eastern for the conference crown.

Clothes Cues

By Regina Jones

Flowing fabrics and frills give a feminine look for a dressy dress, looking especially nice when set off by a neat dark suit, worn here by Bill Landers. Suzette Lee chose this style from the Colonial Style Shoppe because of the graceful swing of the chiffon overdress and the rows of tiny ruffles swirled around the hemline. As a member of the Sweetheart Court of Chi Alpha Pi fraternity, Suzette is likely to have many occasions when this would be the ideal dress.

Bill selected this suit at Pigg and Parsons, and his excellent taste is evident. Not only is the suit handsome, but its quality and tailoring are of the best. What more could you desire? Only that it be practical, and practical it is — suitable to be worn for almost any occasion. Bill must surely be an example of good dress for the other officers and members of Chi Alpha Pi.

BILL LANDERS and SUZETTE LEE were told what they could do rather than everything they cannot do. Have you ever compared the standards set up for the M.T.S.U. male with that of the feminine gender? I do not hesitate to say that girls require more care than the boys, but I do not refrain from saying that the Raider women are treated unfairly, disrespectfully, and superfluously like ten year old children. Any girl who would like to express their opinion is welcome to do so through the SIDELINES.

Girls Of MTSU

By Barbara Ellen Everett

For many years now, there has been a theory around Raider land that the fair maidens of M.T.S.U. are treated unfairly. The attitude that seems to be prevalent around the M.T.S.U. campus and around Murfreesboro seems to be "Beware of the M.T.S.U. maids." Why?

When a girl comes to our campus she usually walks in the door of the dormitory with a suitcase in one hand and the book of Coed Codes in the other. From the time she is a freshman on into the oncoming years she is faced with a "You will not do this, you will not do that" situation. The room she pays to live in is in no manner her own. The University reserves the right to barge in her "private" quarters at any time they desire. She cannot live where she chooses even though her grades could be perfectly good. It doesn't matter if the finest living quarters in Murfreesboro are available; she cannot live there unless it is University approved. This is perhaps the most reasonable rule of the group, unless you stop to consider how few living quarters are approved.

Has anyone ever stopped to think that the girls would respect their coed codes more if they

The Roving Raider

By Barbara Ellen Everett

"Train a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it," so says the Good Book. From the time of the establishment of M.T.S.U. until today the field of education has been stressed and promoted. The field of education is composed of people who work to train the minds of youth to be academically alert, and spiritually strait. A teacher is a great instructor only if he too has been properly taught. M.T.S.U. daily trains future teachers for the unlimited fields where instructors are required. There are Raiders teaching from one end of the country to the other.

We feel it a necessity to recognize two ROVING RAIDERS from the education department. Both graduated from M.T.S.U. in wheel chairs. Though they were physically handicapped, they participated actively in the school glee club. Their names are Virginia Joy Bragg, and Ione Youngblood. Today they are active teachers at McMinnville City High School. They are supervising teachers for our M.T.S.U. student teachers.

These women undoubtedly have outstanding characters spiced with determination and a will to achieve. For these reasons we proclaim them among the ROVING RAIDERS.

Strange Prophecy

James Scott Kithe
I met the man whilst planting in Tennessee, he being the farmer who lent me the land by which I could put my apple seeds under the soil. He was purely a strange one, like as the dream he was constantly telling me about.

"Applesour," he did say to me 'most every morning. "I'm telling you my dream holds the truth that is, and like I'm knowing, I'm going to just up and disappear."

"See here, Mr. Ray Bohnnam," I'd always have to tell him, "I'm obliged to you for giving me this land for my purpose, but I can't go listening to your nonsense. Men don't just disappear into the air. It ain't written for things to happen that way."

He seemed always sure of himself, saying, "You young pup! Got no respect for an old man, you ain't. I said it'll happen and you'd best expect it will. I know what I know. I'll be gone soon. Me and this wrecked body of mine will just vanish!"

"To where?" I'd ask.

He'd never know.

"When?" I'd ask.

He couldn't say.

So, I'd just have to shoo him away so I could work my seeds. Felt sort of bad about it, he being such a nice man that'd let me use his land and all, but I couldn't waste my time listening to a lot of hog-wash. I had work to do, and the season was getting by.

I seen him walking out across the field to me one morning when I was 'most done with my planting, and I somehow knowed what he'd say. I sort of felt like he was going to tell me he believed that was the day and sure enough...

"Today's the day, Applesour," he informed me.

"Day for what?" I asked, knowing what he meant.

"Why . . . the day I'll go, of course!"

"Go where, Mr. Ray Bohnnam?" I asked, really hoping he'd just go away.

"I'm going to disappear," softly, as a whisper, he said it.

"Don't be ridiculous."

He didn't say nothing; just looked at me with a knowing look in his eyes. Then, that knowing look widened until his eyes were bulging, like he'd seen something I couldn't . . . something scary.

"You ain't going to disappear," I assured him.

He didn't seem to hear me.

"Where would you go to?" I asked.

He didn't seem to hear me.

"Don't be ridiculous," I said again. He was shaking from head to toe.

"Don't be SCARED!"

He was gone. Sweet Lord, my witness . . . he was gone.

So, I grabbed up my sack of seeds and got myself off his property real fast like; heading out for no place in particular. Reckon I couldn't find myself to whistle for a while, though.

San Francisco Tries An All New Approach

The battle waged by students against their school administrations has been one of using a different means to accomplish a common end. That is — to win a greater voice in running their schools and in determining the course of their education.

One of the most progressive and original of these efforts has been the Experimental College at San Francisco State College. The school opened formally this fall with a three-day long jam session with psychedelic - style lighting. The first classes followed. They are similar to regular college classes, but with one difference: ANYONE can teach a course in ANY subject as long as he can persuade other students to join him.

The surprising aspect of this is that San Francisco State can give regular college credit for these courses. The president of the State College has said, "The Experimental College seems to be a serious and constructive business. It may provide some breakthroughs in curriculums and teaching methods."

The theory behind the new institution is that there will be no wasted time or space — that is, learning will be built into it. The students will not be forced into anything. Student Body president Jim Nixon said, "If you get the sense of what you want to build, rather than just fight what is there, you can go to the college, take what is useful in it and avoid hostilities."

In other words, the student's interests will change from griping to building.

Perhaps the college will survive, and maybe it will pass away as have all the sit-ins, stand-ins, and protests. If, though, it does survive, it could become one of the most important phases in the evolution of American education.
