Tau Omicron Gain Twenty

by Jean Massey

The Tau Omicron, sponsored by Dr. Berry and Miss Buleah Davis, initiated twenty members following a dinner in Dining Room B of the Student Union Building.

The Tau Omicron was organized in the fall of 1931 with seven charter members. Its purpose is to bring into closer fellowship a group of the highest type of girls for mutual help to each other and their Alma Mater, to promote scholarship, and to uphold standards and ideals of the college.

Membership, based on high character, excellent scholarship, and outstanding leadership, is open for junior and senior girls, who are voted in the organization. The members of the group include the officers: president, Joan Simpson, vice-president, Ruth Ann Ford, secretary, Carolyn Callis, treasurer, Jean Fahlin, program chairman, Jane Pyle, and publicity chairman, Geneva Reed, Margaret Vaughan, and the new members, Doris Anderson, Brenda Beard, Carolyn Boatright, Ann Cantrell, Billie Faye Casey, Dianne Doris, Barbara Elmore, Lucille Faulkner, Carole Fry, Carolyn Gwaltney, Betty King Hughley, Cherrie Annette Keel, Barbara Meeks, Beverly Montgomery, Sue Murphy, Amelia Parham, Nancy Rushing, Carol Sanford, Sally Smith, and Betty Westmoreland.

The society maintains a loan fund which is available for a worthy girl of junior and senior rank.

Each spring a luncheon is held to which alumni members are invited. There are now around 400 members, most of whom are engaged in educational work in Tennessee and surrounding states.

This year the first T. O. daughter was initiated, Carolyn Gwaltney, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Travis Gwaltney.

The Story Of The Dull Little Cedar

Once upon a time, long ago, but not so exceedingly long ago, there lived, in a scintillant forest with sparkling trees, a dull little cedar. And every night as the rosy stars passed by the pale purple sky, the dull little cedar would cry sincere tears. And on a Thursday night when the wind wasn't blowing, you could hear his little tears falling with tiny splats into the tender pine needles. Sob, oh sob, he would say, but all the other trees would just laugh. And in the mornings when the cherry sun would come up with a cautious, lingering motion, all the other trees would shine in valuable colors such as red, and yellow, and lavender, and tender purple, and sterilized white, but the dull little cedar tree could only stand and look green. He looked green because he was green. It was a horrible color and all the other trees laughed at him. To be conforming, he looked ridiculous standing in the beautiful forest and simply looking green.

But this was not why the dull little cedar was crying. He could stand the mockery handed down so graciously by the other trees. He did not mind being laughed at because of his silly green color. No, the dull but proud little cedar could stand being humiliated by his own kind, but it was truly something more than that. The snow had begun to fall; it drifted down in a lazy, sinuous movement, falling in dark clumps and sinister piles against the trunks of the trees. But this was not to say that the snow was bad. No, in fact, the snow was beautiful. It formed a bright chilly base for the beautiful trees and the forest was almost as splendid as something that a man might have made. This was, in fact, the trouble: the man.

Every year, shortly after the snow collapsed about the forest, tracks began to appear. They would run in confused circles, leading first to the base of this tree, then to the trunk of that. They tramped down the clumps of snow, they stirred up the mud, they broke the ice that blanketed the stream. They, in reality, disturbed everything. But that is not to say that this was bad. It was, in contrast, enjoyable. For the man would bring a heavy sharpe instrument in one hand and a roll of wire in the other. And he would wander about in deepest thought and choose from the bright and colorful trees. It was similar to a beauty contest, for the trees would all stand proudly with their chest out. They would each try to display the better figure or the brightest needles. It was, in fact, Christmas, and these were Christmas trees, and these were men obsessed with the true spirit of love and good cheer. They were truly entranced with Christmas sincerity as they went about the trees cursing and fighting as to which had found what when.

This was what made the dull little cedar cry, for it seems that among men there is a preference of color. It did not matter what was the tree's origin, he was green and that was that. And the jolly old men said it aloud so that the dull little cedar could hear, and then they would laugh as he bent in shame.

And time went on, as it always does, and the dull little cedar was no longer a dull little cedar. He was a splendid tree. His coat was soft and pleasing to the touch. He had an agreeable form with delicate branches that were exceedingly pleasing to lean against. But he was still green. And because of his horrid color, the men still refused him.

Then came the day that the superintendent of the nearby Sunday School class bought the land and it was to be cleared to make room for a gigantic chapel. All the trees were to be cut down but one, and it would be transferred to a nearby school and would remain there for Christmas after Christmas. On Saturday, the students would come and would get their choice. On Sunday the land would be cleared, and the chapel built in time for service that night. All the other trees screamed in the wind and called one another names that were not agreeable to the younger trees. In fact, they even fought and tore their branches so great was their selfishness and their desire to survive. The green tree simply said his prayers and went to bed.

The next day the children came and they were funny children that wandered about with their hands outstretched and they did not look at the trees but touched them instead. They were, to be truthful, blind.

Need I say more? The blind children picked the green tree because he was so splendid to the touch. To the little blind children who cared only for tenderness, and sincerity, and love, and inner qualities that do not really matter, this seemed the best tree, for they did not truly believe that trees had been made of different colors.

1963 Summer Geography Trip Plans Underway

Ambitious plans have been made for the 1963 summer geography field trip at Middle Tennessee State College.

The geography department, under direction of Dr. Ed Baldwin, started the popular addition to the summer curriculum four years ago. This year a 39 day tour of Europe from June 6 to July 14 will take students and others who wish to make the tour without credit to the British Isles, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy, France, Spain, Portugal.

Points of historic and geographic interest will be visited with side trips available to other areas. As much as four days will be spent in some areas, such as Rome, Paris and London.

In past years the MTSC tours, which offer six semester hours credit on either the undergraduate or graduate level, have reached into Canada, Mexico and Hawaii and all of the continental United States, but this is the first trip abroad. The tour will be made largely by air.

The Spirit of Christmas

By Elizabeth Allen

Did you ever receive a Christmas card or see an advertisement which read "Merry X-mas"? Have you ever stopped and thought about this or was it just read and forgotten?

If you have thought to any great length about this, you probably came to the conclusion that this was a rather "odd" way to write Christmas because Christ's name was left out. We do celebrate Christmas to commemorate His birthday. This season of the year should be a time of giving, but the emphasis that business people have placed on it tends to commercialize Christmas more. Christ was given presents on his birthday and later Santa Claus was originated as a mythological character who gave good children presents on Christmas, but today the present giving aspect of Christmas seems to have become the most important.

We walk down the streets of a large city, even before Thanksgiving, and we see the people, especially businessmen, have already begun decorating for Christmas. There is nothing wrong with Christmas decorations, but they are used today as a means of drawing them to certain places of business in the hope of selling them something.

To a lot of people Christmas is a time of year when they will receive presents and nothing more! There is absolutely nothing wrong with giving presents as a token of love or affection for someone, but a majority of people give presents because they feel they are obligated to do so. In my opinion, Christmas has lost its true meaning and significance as a time of benevolence and charity. Christmas as many people see it, is nothing more than this. They do not stop and think why we celebrate Christmas nor do they care.

Have you ever read a child's letter to Santa Claus? It may have read:

Dear Santa,

I want a new doll, a doll house, and a lot of new toys. Also I want a new tricycle and a lot of furniture for my doll house . . .

If you will observe, the main words in this letter are "I want". Are we guilty of teaching our children that Christmas is a season of wanting rather than celebrating Christ's birthday and giving out of love. Maybe that is the problem with our society today. We were all taught to want more and more each Christmas and to be very disappointed on Christmas morning if we did not receive these things.

Since we are in the midst of the Christmas season, let us all remember what Christmas really is and when we go home for the holidays, take with us a spirit of Christmas that is truly a spirit of Christmas.

Our Brotherly Love

High-power salesmanship is underway, "No money down — six months to pay".

Wonder how much to spend on Uncle Joe, He won't give me a thing, the so-and-so.

Streets are crowded — everybody shove, What's happened to our brotherly love?

New Year's comes and the money's spent, I sometimes wonder where Christmas went.

Book Review Naturalism Is World By Which Bill Lives

By Carol Luna

All This And Heaven Too by Rachael Field is the moving novel of Henriette, who became the governess in the ill fated Pecislin household. The tragedy of the murder of the Duchesse courses Henriette's name to be linked with a scandal which skyrocketed across two continents.

Because of the scandal involved Henriette comes to America, this is the second section of the book and is the most delightful. Here Henriette falls in love with and marries, Henry Field, the youngest of three remarkable brothers. The book portrays the history of the time and I think the author does a very good job in portraying Henriette's feeling.

The title All This And Heaven Too came from a statement of Henriette's husband which came to have deep meaning for her. "All this and heaven too," showed Henriette's happiness with her husband and the work they had created for themselves, and it also shows that there is a heaven too.

By Vickie McComb
"I guess naturalism is the world by which I try to live. I don't like to wear tie clips or anything else that hampers the free and moving world around us. The confined and stiff are the cold and unapproachable. I don't believe in restraining one's emotions. If an individual feels tears coming, let them flow. Early pent up emotions may lead to permanent confinement in a mental institution."

This is the philosophy of life from Bill Hunter, a junior art major from Lebanon.

Bill is a member of the Art and Drama Clubs, Alpha Psi Omega work. Dramatic Fraternity, and the Wesley Foundation. His freshman year he was on the SIDELINES staff. He is now secretary of Phi Epsilon, an off-campus fraternity, and he is on a department scholarship for the Biology department, where he is an artist. His off-campus job is layout artist for the Courier Printing Company of Murfreesboro.

Since drama and art are closely related fields of self-expression, Mr. Hunter feels that working in these fields aids him to understand his experiences with more mature understanding and being an artist, he can put more feeling into his work.

MTSC Fashion Shots

By Ernestine Harris

Holiday festivities have begun for the fashion-conscious MTSC co-ed.

Featured is a semi-formal dress perfect for holiday parties. The color scheme of red and white is exceptionally good this season.

White satin brocaded material is used in this creation. Other fabrics in wide use for festive occasions are velvet, satin, and silk organza.

Modestly scooped neckline enhances the beauty of the costume. The plunging back has remained a seasonal style. The square neckline is seeking its return to formal wear.

The straight lines of the skirt are traditionally popular. The bell-shaped and A-line skirts are being shown in fashion magazines such as Vogue and Glamour.

Long tapered sleeves give the wearer a formal appearance. Placing a close second to this type of sleeve is the three-quarter length sleeve.

The frock is distinguished by a cummerbund of a contrasting color. Contrast of texture is also presented by the use of red velvet.

A cluster of dangling pearl earrings is used as the model's single jewelry accessory. Hair ornaments such as velvet and satin bows and jeweled clips are popular modes of bringing attention to holiday hair styles.

The red satin shoes worn by the model completes the color accent. Gold and silver kid, tapestry, and jeweled effect will be noticed on the well shod feet for formal occasions.

Junior Carolyn Gwaltney of Murfreesboro typifies the under-stated elegance of the season. Among her honors and activities are president of Home Economics Club, membership in Tau Omicron and Kappa Sigma honor societies, and business manager of the Midlander.

CAROLYN GWALTNEY

Ramblin' With The Raiders

by Steve Bebb

Bitterly cold nights and the smell of popcorn always remind me of our greatest spectator sport—basketball.

MTSC opened the schedule last week with an 86-77 overtime triumph over Florence State on the losers court. To the fans who suffered through last year's dismal campaign, there were some signs that this may be a more enjoyable winter. And, with a little luck, it could be memorable!

In the first half of the opening game, MTSC opened a wide gap over the tigers, leading once by fifteen points. The Lions fought back in the second half to knot the score at 59-59, then leapt ahead by six points. With nine minutes remaining, Florence began to freeze the ball. At this point, most of us were ready to throw in the towel, but this never-say-die Raider quintet just kept plugging until, with 48 seconds remaining, Florence led 75-73, and MTSC had the ball. Ten seconds elapsed before Bill Martin was fouled by an eager Lion. Even though he was high score for the night (24 points total) Bill had experienced his troubles at the free throw line. He calmly dropped in two to tie the score and Florence missed a last second attempt. The overtime period was all Blue, as Phillip Jones scored seven straight points. The final count was 86-77.

However, the results do not show all the reasons why the outlook is bright. With Joe Baker and Phillip Jones blocking out under the boards, Bennett Jent and Larry Stewart were really hauling in the rebounds. This was something last year's club never learned. Of course, all Raider fans were delighted with the play of guard Bill Martin, but even more hope lies in the fact that there is a little bench strength. When Martin fouled out, Dan Midgett replaced him, scored four points and stole a crucial pass in the overtime period.

I have always played hunches. Every week during football season, I predicted upsets for various reasons, but I had my days explainable. Most of the time I was wrong, but I had my days. Now I think I'll play a hunch. I believe the Raiders will win over half their games, and possibly place in the top three of the OVC. Admittedly it is not completely on the material at hand, but some intangibles like . . . spirit. This will be a team that gives 100% effort all the time. And I also have a hunch that Joe Baker is going to have a fine year. Why? I don't know. It is just a feeling.

TYPING AT RANDOM

Those hunches I played every football week-end usually cost me a dollar.

George Dykes was named honorable mention Little All-American. Injured much of the season, George was still the most dangerous receiver in the OVC—and maybe in the country.

Some of the best basketball games in this area will be played immediately before the varsity games. Coach Ken Trickey has done a fine job with the freshman team and they deserve our support.

Speaking of support, have you joined the Booster Club!

Last year, it was almost unpardonable to date a buddy's girl (even if she wanted to be dated) but things have sure changed! If you don't believe me ask Jim Harvey, Jerry Allen, and Jack Buchanan.

Someone said that Charlie Reder had suddenly developed an interest in girls basketball—especially in last year's state changes!!!

A lot of Raider fans were disappointed with the selection of the All-OVC team. Billy Joe Evans should have been awarded a first team berth, and there just isn't a better fullback anywhere than Dave Petty.

That local radio announcer sure had a good time with Ron Wilmouth's name during the MTSC-Florence State tangle. He pronounced it Wil-muth by the whole game.

Have you gone by to see the Totem Pole?

Bill Stokes' Raiders Win First Season Game

Florence State Teachers College was nosed out during an overtime last Monday night in an 86-77 decision that went to Middle Tennessee. This marked the Raiders first game under direction of Bill Stokes, new head coach.

Florence State had a five-point lead but six minutes left on the clock but Middle Tennessee pulled into a 75-all score at the end of the regular time.

The Raiders scored 11 points in the overtime—seven by guard Phil Jones.

Joe Edwards and Jim Ledbetter tied for scoring honors among Florence players with 18 points each.

Bill Martin of Middle Tennessee was high man for the game with 24 points.

Middle Tennessee slightly out-distanced Florence in field goal percentages, hitting 44 per cent to 43 per cent for Florence.

Edwards led Ledbetter rebounders with 14 and Ledbetter rebounded nine for the Lions. Middle Tennessee's Bennett Gent handled 11 rebounds while teammate Larry Stewart took care of 10.

Raiders Lose In First Home Game

Inability to hit foul shots cost MTSC a loss in their first OVC basketball game of the season. The Austin Peay State Governors used 21 foul points with 24 field goals to defeat the Raiders 69-66 Thursday night in a game in which MTSC fired 6 more field goals than the visitors, but cashed only 6 of 18 free tosses.

The Raiders frosh defeated the Austin Peay Yearlings 95-90 in an overtime game that saw Chuck Finley hit 35 points.

Monday evening the Western Hilltoppers invaded the Raiders cage with the freshman game beginning at 6:00. Tuesday night at 7:00 the freshmen engaged the Murray first year men in a single game.

In commenting on the Austin Peay loss Coach Bill Stokes stated that he was well pleased with the rebounding work of Larry Stewart who copped 16 board chances. Phil Jones led the Raider scoring with 18 points while Larry Stewart hit 13 and Joe Baker and Bill Nichols 10 each.

Following the Western game Monday night the Raiders will go on a Florida road trip that will find them playing Rollins College at Deand on December 14, and then meeting either Stetson or Presbyterian in the first round of the Hatter's Invitational Tournament on December 15.

Intramural Bowling Given MTSC Student Response

by Jean McDonald

MTSC is working in connection with the Murfreesboro Bowling Lanes to give four weeks of bowling lessons to any students interested in being on a league.

There is free bus transportation from the gym to the lanes every Monday through Thursday at 4:00. The bus returns to the gym at 6:00. At the present there are about 100 students participating in the lessons, with 50 going each day since each group goes twice a week.

After the Christmas holidays a mixed league will be formed with two boys and two girls on each team. Transportation and shoes will be provided. The rates have been cut to thirty cents a game. Anyone may join the league, even if the individual has not been taking the lessons.

DECK THE HALLS

When you think of Christmas gifts you naturally think of Marlboro cigarettes, leading seller in flip-top box in all fifty states—and if we annex Wales, in all fifty-one—and if we annex Lapland—in all fifty-two. This talk about annexing Wales and Lapland is, incidentally, not just idle speculation. Great Britain wants to trade Wales to the United States for a desert. Great Britain needs a desert desperately on account of the tourist trade. Tourists are always coming up to the Prime Minister or the Lord Privy Seal or like that and saying, "I'm not knocking your country, mind you. It's very quaint and picturesque, etc. what with Buckingham Palace and Bovril and Scotland Yard, etc., but where's your desert?" (Before I forget, let me point out that Scotland Yard, Britain's plain-clothes police branch, was named after Wally Scotland and Fred Yard who invented plain clothes. The American plain-clothes force is called the FBI after Frank B. Inchcliff, who invented fingerprints. Before Mr. Inchcliff's invention, everybody's fingers were absolutely glassy smooth. This, as you may imagine, played hob with the identification of newborn babies in hospitals. From 1791 until 1904 no American parent

... Some of them well over eighty ever brought home the right baby from the hospital. This later became known as the Black Tom Explosion.)

But I digress. England, I was saying, wants to trade Wales for a desert. Sweden wants to trade Lapland for Frank B. Inchcliff. The Sweden is that Swedes to this day still don't have fingerprints. As a result, identification of babies in Swedish hospitals is so haphazard that Swedes flatly refuse to bring their babies home. There are, at present, nearly a half-billion unclaimed babies in Swedish hospitals—some of them well over eighty years old.

But I digress. We were speaking of Christmas gifts which naturally put us in mind of Marlboro cigarettes. What could be more welcome at Christmas time than Marlboro's flavor, Marlboro's soft pack, Marlboro's flip-top box? What indeed would be more welcome at any time of year—winter or summer, rain or shine, night or day? Any time, any season, when you light a Marlboro you can always be certain that you will get the same mild, flavorful, completely comfortable smoke.

There are, of course, other things you can give for Christmas besides Marlboro cigarettes. If, for example, you are looking for something to give a music lover, let me call to your attention a revolutionary new development in phonographs—the Low-fi phonograph. The Low-fi, product of years of patient research, has so little fidelity to the record you put on it that if, for instance, you put "Stardust" on the turntable, "Melancholy Baby" will come out. This is an especially welcome gift for people who have grown tired of "Stardust".

Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night.

The makers of Marlboro cigarettes, who take pleasure in bringing you this column throughout the school year, wish to join old Max in extending greetings of the season.

Dave Whiteaker Presents Interesting Basketball Facts

These tidbits gleaned from Dave Whiteaker's publicity releases from the Louisville Courier Journal disclose some interesting facts about the opening of the basketball season and the windup of the football play.

Bill Stokes has moved up from the number two spot to succeed Ed Diddle, Jr., as head coach of the undermanned Blue Raiders. The varsity squad includes just nine players. Reserve guard Eddie Hobson quit and 6-4 forward Ken Peek tabbed for starting duty, has been sidelined indefinitely for health reasons. If Peek returns, it won't be until after more tests have been run at Christmas time.

Only two of the top six scorers return—6-7 seniors Bennett Jent and Bill Nickell, who operated from the double pivot last year. Jent averaged 9.7 points, Nickell 7.6. Between them, they accounted for 341 of Middle Tennessee's 922 rebounds last season.

The other returning lettermen, forward Joe Baker and guard Ron Wilmouth, were used sparingly last year.

Newcomers hold the key to the Blue Raiders' rebuilding. They are a pair of junior college graduates—6-3 guard Larry Stewart, a two-year star at Itawamba (Miss.) J. C. and 6-2 guard Bill Martin, who made the all-Kentucky J. C. team while playing for Paducah J. C.

Two other strong contenders for starting roles are prize soph guard Dan Midgett, a 15.7 frosh scorer who seems to have recovered from a leg ailment, and 6-2 guard Phil Jones, who missed last season's play because of a knee operation. Jones and Martin also are star base-ballers.

Soph Bob Reneau (6-6) appears a year away but could provide relief help at an inside spot.

Graduation took top scorers Paul Holland (14.1) and Ed Newton (11.1), along with Jack McCauley and Paul Dailey. Dwain Jones was an unscheduled casualty.

Petty Second in O.V.C. Rushing

O.V.C.-games rushing leaders underwent some drastic changes in the final week as Middle Tennessee's sophomore fullback, David Petty, soared to the number two spot with 317 yards in 68 trips. Middle Tennessee halfback Charlie Rice also made a big jump, to fourth in the final rushing standings.

Raiders Lead Conference Offense

Middle Tennessee, which led the Ohio Valley Conference in team offense in 1961, did it again in 1962, no matter which set of statistics you follow.

Middle Tennessee led both in all-games and conference-games offense this year with marks of 264.4 and 286.0, respectively. The Blue Raiders shared the 1962 championship with Morehead, Eastern Kentucky and East Tennessee, all winding up with 4-2 records.

Western Kentucky won the all-games team defensive title for the second year in a row, shading Middle Tennessee by less than a yard (198.8-199.7).

All-O.V.C. Football Team

Rounding out the first team were Middle Tennessee and George Dykes.

Heading the second team vote-getters was Middle Tennessee tackle and co-captain Wayne Winters.

(Chittum) and Dykes have a year of eligibility remaining so both will be gunning for their third all-conference rating next year.

(Foltz) displaced Dykes as the top pass receiver, taking 25 tosses for 353 yards and four touchdowns. Dykes, troubled by sprained wrists, caught 17 passes for 297 yards and four tallies, finishing strong.

Named to honorable mention from MTSC are Ends Jerry Allen, Halfbacks, Charley Rice, Jim Harvey, and Jackie Pope.

Most underrated player, Charley Rice, 175-pound Middle Tennessee halfback from Nashville.

Most improved player, Jackie Pope, 165-pound junior halfback for Middle Tennessee. Best blocking back, David Petty, Middle Tennessee; also best defensive block.

Others receiving votes in superlative balloting included Raiders: best linebacker—Billy Joe Evans, Middle Tennessee center; best offensive linman—George Dykes, Middle Tennessee; best defensive lineman—Billy Joe Evans and Calvin Short; most underrated player—Teddy Morris and Jim Harvey.

According to the coaches, the best pro prospects in O.V.C. football are (Ernie DeCourley) and George Dykes, 200-pound junior end for Middle Tennessee.

Survey Of Year Shows Success

Coach Charles "Bubber" Murphy can review his 1962 football season with much satisfaction. Although eleven of his fifteen previous years as head coach for Middle Tennessee State have produced teams with better won-lost records than the 1962 Blue Raiders' mark of 6-4-0, few teams have excelled their performances.

A quick survey of the season concludes:

Although the Raiders were 4-2-0 in Ohio Valley Conference play, this was good enough to share the championship with East Tennessee, Eastern Kentucky and Morehead State. This was the best balance ever shown in the league.

Middle Tennessee played with only five seniors on the 42-man squad, finishing the season with one freshman, five sophomores, and two juniors in the starting lineup.

In their six wins this season, the Raiders outscored their opponents 128-8, including four shut-outs.

MTSC closed their season with a 20-0 victory over Tennessee Tech, marking their first win over the Eagles since 1957. (The teams tied 21-21 in 1959).

Middle Tennessee came through with their best performance of the season in their finale against Tennessee Tech. Sophomore fullback David Petty rolled to 127 yards in 23 carries for his "greatest" game of the year.

Senior halfback Charlie Rice gained 82 yards in only five carries to close out his collegiate career. Rice averaged 6.1 yards per carry with 360 yards gained over the 1962 season.

Junior end George Dykes padded his All-Time MTSC passing record. The 6-3 flanker from Oak Ridge has caught 44 passes for 1,018 yards, 12 touchdowns, and 3 conversions during his two years on the Blue Raider squad.

Bob Brooks, sports publicist for the college, and Jimmy Jaskson, MTSC bursar, will return to their homes this week after undergoing surgery. Mr. Jaskson has been in Vanderbilt hospital, Mr. Brooks at Rutherford.

Girls' Dorms Prepare For Christmas Season

NORTH MONOHAN By Carolyn Hale

The co-eds in North Monohan have been in good spirits for the past week. This is accredited to the beautiful weather and the fact that mid-semester exams are over.

Good luck to the girls doing their practice teaching this half. They are: Misses Ball, (Queenie) Smith, Crosslin, McPherson, Bonney, Beasley, Carney, Brown, Millsaps, Loach, Scott, Sherrill, Pyle, Jones, Durham, and Faults.

Congratulations to Sandra Bart and Linda Army. They finally "hooked one." Yes, they will be married before February.

It is rumored that the D.D.'s have been seen with a group of boys — Is this right, Elmo?

Everyone please notice some of the lovely decorated windows in N. Monohan. Christmas lights and trees, some even have missiletote. Looks like all of the girls have the Christmas spirit.

Betty DeWitt has been sitting up till all hours doing self-portraits. Betty can't you find anything else to paint?

The "serving circle" girls are still congregating in Liz Frye's room every afternoon — not serving, but playing bridge.

Everyone go to the basketball games. Support your team. All of us will be there, how 'bout you?

SOUTH MONOHAN by Marcia Emmert

The report from the Deep South this week is that several girls have been making dolls resembling the boys in Jones Hall. No, they haven't slipped their cogs; these dolls were made to stick pins in!

It seems several unidentified males have been answering the phones in Jones by simply picking up the receiver and leaving it off the hook. How helpless can a person feel? Being left "hanging" on the end of a phone is pretty exasperating, especially when phone calls also cost our hard-earned money.

The high cost of living is really bad for us college gals. Patsy Climer took a cab to the shopping center for sixty cents, and two hours later when she took one back, the price was seventy-five cents. Who says the cost of living isn't rising. Carolyn Russell knows how to beat such problems. She rates enough to be chauffeured back to the dorm by the Murfreesboro Fire Chief. Speaking of the Fire Chief, Elizabeth Stubblefield almost sent him on another wild goose chase. It seems that there was so much smoke pouring from a certain room on first floor, that she thought the dorm was on fire.

Shirley Hemontolor has a loaded camera and has been known to be dangerous. She is skilled in taking candid pictures suitable for use in blackmail.

NOTICE: To all fortune tellers, horoscope readers, and ouija boarders, a new cult of those interested in the world beyond was formed not long ago in South Monohan. Some amazing facts of the future have been revealed through the magical powers of the ouija board. The question most frequently asked of the spirit of the ouija board is "When will I get married?" Carol Roberson was so elated when she learned that she will get married on July 4, 1964, that she proceeded to pass out suckers. These marriage predictions seem to have had some effect—Bari West and Jane Powell eloped not long ago.

Good-bye for now from the Southern Belles of South Monohan and MERRY CHRISTMAS!

SOUTH LYON

by Sandras, Millsaps and Wynne

The total mass of South Lyon is already adding poundals (guess who's taking Physics). Too many birthday cakes!" The traditional party and birthday wishes were given Susan Clark, Sharon Barrett, Cheryl Crutcher, Betsy Disbrow, Mary Lou Finney, and Sandra Wynne in the past few weeks. It seems there are two birthdays a week in SLH—my it is aging fast!

It has been rumored around the Dorm that several girls journeyed to other college campuses for their Homecomings. Vandy Homecoming seemed to appeal to Carol Frey and Gayle Tincher. Lou Dotson, Joan Hancock, Rosemary Leahy, Judy Karlovic found U. T. Homecoming of interest. Tell us about those "Frat" parties, girls!

Haircuts, permanents, shampoos, and sets are in order for all the girls at South Lyon. It seems we have two beauty shops in our dorm. Appointments can be made any time with Mademoiselle Carol Frey on third floor or Mademoiselle Jean Hatfield on basement floor. Join the group and have a new hair style this fall. We have a bit of advice for Karen Thompson—the lavatory drain is not the place for your contacts, please find some other place to keep them. Patsy Kean never seems to have a spare minute. Could it be that her boyfriend keeps her too busy typing his debate cards?

It seems that counselors Jane Gaylon and Carolyn Gilley of first floor are having a hard time controlling their tempers. Could it be that first floor has been a little noisy this past week?

Everyone at SLH is beginning to feel that we have a new resident. It seems that Gail Gray at South Monohan spends three-fourths of her time in South Lyon. Right Gail?

Well, there's no doubt about it, South Lyon has a majority of leaders. During the past weeks three girls from our dorm were nominated for Freshman Class Officers. Congratulations go to Susan Clark, Linda Cline, and Gail Marks as nominees. A second congratulations go to Gail Marks who was elected Secretary, and Susan Clark who was elected Treasurer.

All the hostesses and monitors of South Lyon surely do appreciate Mrs. Phifer. Not only is she a wonderful housemother and person, but she makes the best fudge and divinity this side of Betty Crocker's kitchen.

NORTH LYON by Brenda Grubbs

At our last dorm meeting we elected dorm officers. It seems that second floor has been fixed with some shrewd politicians, for they took every office except one — reporter. Jane Hasty from Goodlettsville was elected songleader. Two Lawrenceburg girls were elected as officers: Betty Boner is our treasurer, and Fran Davidson is our secretary. Elenor Brandon from Lewisburg is our vice-president. Betty Saunders, after giving a hilarious "political speech," was elected president.

Although third floor is not gifted with shrewd politicians, I think everyone will agree that it is gifted with some unique artists. The girls on third have gone "all out" in decorating their hall and balcony. The huge red bells hanging from the ceiling and the silver Christmas tree (donated by Judy Batson) may not be conducive to studying, but they certainly inspire the spirit of Christmas!

Our new officers have planned a Christmas party for December 12 after closing hours. There will be an exchange of gifts, singing, skits, refreshments—everything but boys! The party will be concluded with a Christmas devotion planned by Elenor Brandon.

The girls in North Lyon and our house mother, Mrs. Francis Bowden, wish to all of you a very merry Christmas and a prosperous new year.

LYON

by "Perky" Gregory

There are many Christmas decorations filling the front doors of the rooms as the girls are looking forward to the Christmas holidays which are only a few days away.

Shortly before the Thanksgiving holidays we elected our dorm officers for the following year. Each one of the following girls is to be congratuated heartily and given all the help possible in the year to come here in Lyon Hall.

Those elected are Judy Smith, President; Mary Carter, Vice-President; Sue McCuiston, Secretary-Treasurer.

I failed to write the thanks of all the girls in Lyon to Sue Justice, Peggy Caples, Linda Anderson, and all the other girls who did so much on our dorm decorations during the homecoming festivities.

We plan to have a Christmas party in our dorm. We hope each of the girls will join in the holiday spirit and make our party the best ever. Terry Jackson will be heading our party committee, so we're all sure it will be a lot of fun and one to be remembered.

The girls on second floor sincerely hope our monitor, Andi Gerth, makes a speedy recovery from her illness and will be able to come back next semester.

The gang in old Lyon wishes to say so long until next issue. Au Revoir to this year, as the Frenchmen would say, I'll see you then, too.

Beroeans Hear Spiritual Music

The Christian Student Center Chorus from Nashville presented a very fine program of spiritual music at the Beroean meeting, Tuesday, December 4. Some of the selections were "How Great Thou Art"; "My God and I"; "Bond of Gilead"; and "Fairest Lord Jesus."

The CSC Chorus is composed mostly of students from various colleges and universities in Nashville. Sixteen members of the chorus under the direction of Henry Arnold, a member of the faculty of David Lipscomb College, were present.

Following the singing, there was a panel discussion on spiritual singing. Members of the panel were David Gregory, Henry Arnold, Judy Parks, Vincent Doan from CSC and Amelia Parham, Janell Golden and Joe Smith from MTSC. Dr. Norman Parks served as moderator.

Refreshments were served to the group after the discussion. This meeting gave the group an opportunity to make new friends and re-new old acquaintances.

Dandridge Hyde, junior, was shot in the right thigh by a companion on a hunting accident last week. The accident occurred near College Grove. Mr. Hyde was able to return to school Wednesday of this week.
