ASB Scholarship Winners Revealed

Ten Associated Student Body Scholarships were recently awarded to MTSU students according to Dr. Belt Keathley, director of Student Aid. Each of the scholarships is in the amount of two hundred dollars.

Associated Student Body Grant and Scholarship Fund recipients are Clara Lillian Beard, a junior English major from Franklin; Brenda Ann Buckner, a senior from Tullahoma majoring in business education; Carol Ann Dewey, a junior Pre-medical technology major from Pensacola, Florida; Maurice David Dilick, a senior from Murfreesboro majoring in physics; John Rumsey Horne, a junior physical education major from Nashville; George Chester Jackson Jr., a senior from White-well majoring in accounting; Manting Peter Lau, a sophomore mathematics major from Hong Kong; Jerry Wayne Shannon a senior from Hixon majoring in mathematics; Michael Stanley Waggoner a sophomore art major from Nashville; and Rita Frances Wells, a junior from Lewisburg majoring in business education.

The Associated Student Body Grant and Scholarship Fund is established from the Associated Student Body Agency Account. All money in excess of twenty-five hundred dollars in the ASB Agency Account is used for scholarship grants. Recipients of the scholarships must be a sophomore, junior or senior with a minimum cumulative quality point average of 2.15. Consideration is made for one foreign student in the ten recipients by the Loan and Scholarship Committee. A definite financial need must be present for the recipients of the scholarships.

Public announcements was made in the SIDELINES asking for applications for the ASB Grant and Scholarships well in advance to inform the student body.

Alumni Accept Homecoming Invitations

By Nancy Griffin
The Alumni Association has mailed letters to the 8500 MTSU alumni in an attempt to inform them of the upcoming alumni weekend for the weekend beginning Nov. 3.

In the letters are enclosed cards on which the alumni are to state the activities in which they would be interested. A chart is kept in the alumni office of how many alumni will participate in the myriad of activities planned over the weekend.

According to Dr. Pittard, quite a few of the cards have been returned and mail is picking up with the approach of the Homecoming weekend. Many of the alumni have already made reservations in local motels and hotels.

Activities scheduled for the weekend start on Friday, Nov. 3, with bridge games for the women and golf for the men. The swimming pool will also be available between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m. At 5:30 p.m., there will be a barbecue at the "Raider Command Post" on the MTSU picnic grounds.

A preview of the 1967-68 Raider basketball team for the students and alumni is slated for 6:30 p.m., followed by the vocal duo of Jack and Sally Jenkins at 8 p.m. A bonfire and pep rally will be provided for the entire campus after the show.

Saturday will be equally as active, with an early breakfast scheduled at 7:30 a.m. in the High-Rise cafeteria. Following the meal, the alumni will be given a tour of the new science building and the first floor of the High-Rise dormitory. The Homecoming parade will follow the tour, and a buffet will be served in the Student Union building from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Also during this time, the classes of 1939, 1949, and 1959 will hold their reunions.

The Homecoming football game will be followed by a tea dance in the Tennessee Room of the SUB. The last event of the active weekend will be the Homecoming dance for students, faculty, and alumni.

Bragg To Talk At BSU Vespers

Mr. John Bragg, Representative to the Tennessee Legislature and owner of Murfreesboro's Courier Printing Company, will speak at Vesper Services of the Baptist Student Union. The topic of the 6 p.m. talk this Wednesday will be "The Christian Has a Debt to Society."

"This topic grows out of Rep. Bragg's personal concern that citizens, especially Christians, become more active in community and governmental concerns," Rev. Henry Ramser, BSU Director, stated.

Jerry Hannah, president of the BSU, reports that Professor Clayton James of the MTSU Sociology Department will be the featured speaker on Oct. 25. "Racial Inter-marriage" is his topic. Ramser comments, "The religious and sociological implications of this touchy problem will be explored by this expert sociologist."

JOHN BRAGG

JOSH WHITE, JR., first in this year's Big Name Entertainment series, is scheduled to perform Thursday.

Josh White, Jr. Performs Thursday

Josh White, Jr., a popular entertainer in the field of folk music, will appear on the MTSU campus in the Alumni Memorial Gym, Thursday at 8 p.m.

Tickets are on sale in the ASB office this week for $1.25 per student.

White's appearance will mark the initial concert of the Associated Student Body-sponsored big name entertainment series for the school year.

White opened his career in show business at the age of four and studied during his early years at New York's Professional Children's School. During weekends and summers, Josh, Jr. developed his own style in increasingly frequent performances with his father.

As a versatile performer, Josh, Jr. has played dramatic roles in five Broadway shows, most recently, "Only In America," and "The Long Dream." He has also appeared on a number of American television programs, and has been viewed on both the BBC and Granada networks. He recently appeared on the Scandinavian Tele-

Placement Office Urges Application

Seniors and graduates students are now advised to register immediately with the Placement Office in order to establish a permanent file and to participate in monthly interviews with prospective employers. Following registration, the students will receive notices of available positions and the monthly interview calendar.

The Placement Office offers the student an opportunity to explore the various career fields and to meet the recruiters from business, education and government who visit the campus each year.

The Placement Office is located in Room 210 in the Administration Building.

John Bryan

Linda Cook

Students Slate Senior Recitals

Linda Cook and John Bryan will present their senior recitals on Thursday, October 19, at 8 p.m. in the DA auditorium. Miss Cook will sing, and Bryan will play the piano.

Miss Cook will make her vocal selections from the works of Purcell, Puccini, and Mozart. Included in Bryan's part of the program will be selections from Beethoven and Debussy. Bryan is a student of Mr. Ray Bills.

All music majors are required to give a final thirty minute performance before graduation. All other music majors are required to attend recitals.

Goff To Lead Davis Rifles

Gary Goff, 20, Murfreesboro junior, has recently been elected as commander of the MTSU Sam Davis Rifles Drill Team. Goff is a two year letterman with the drill team.

A junior in the ROTC Advanced program, Goff was recently awarded a two-year Army ROTC Scholarship. He was the recipient of the Sophomore Leadership Award and an ROTC Commendation Ribbon at Awards Day ceremonies last Spring.

Goff is an active member of the Lambda Psi Fraternity and the Track and Sabre Club, the social organization of the ROTC Department.

Applications Being Taken For Shipboard Semester

College and university students wishing to study and travel during the spring 1968 semester may apply now for admission to World Campus Afloat — Chapman College, the world's only shipboard campus.

Thirty interdisciplinary scholarships, of $1,200 each, are available to junior year students who will attend the 1968 spring study voyage to South America, Africa, and Europe, according to Netter Worthington, Director of the Division of International Education which administers World Campus Afloat.

The scholarships will be awarded on the basis of grade point average and recommendations, Worthington said.

Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight tonight.

Candidates for the interdisciplinary scholarships must request consideration for the stipend in a separate letter when applying for admission. Recipients will be notified by Nov. 15.

Eighty liberal arts courses are offered aboard ship in a one-semester transfer program. While at sea, students attend classes six days a week. The shipboard academic program is supplemented by pre-arranged in-port activities related to course material.

Worthington explained that the floating campus, in addition to regular upper and lower division liberal arts courses, offers this junior year scholarship program "to give the upper division student a breadth of knowledge, via first-hand experiences, of the contemporary world that can enrich continued study in his major field.

The scholarship program, therefore, is designed for the jun-economics, art, religion, anthropology, literature, science and psychology.

Each semester approximately 500 students and 70 faculty and staff members from throughout the U.S. participate in Chapman's educational voyages.

For further information, students may write to World Campus Afloat — Chapman College, Orange, Calif. 92666.

Judges Selected For Band Contest

High school bands from the middle Tennessee area will converge on MTSU's campus Oct. 28 for the Competitive Marching Contest. Approximately twenty bands will participate in the Parade of Champions.

Judges for the contest are: Kelley Love, Starkville, Mississippi; Roy Buesser, Louisville, Kentucky; F. C. McClure, Florence, Alabama; Don Robertson, Scottsburg, Indiana.

FORREST RAIDERS ON MANEUVERS

Forrest Raiders Display Black Berets With Pride

The stark realism of war again reverberated in and around the city. In a remote part of the district the woods crackled with small arms fire and the air was filled with cries of "attack" and the screams of the "wounded." As the firing subsided, shadowy figures began to appear through the smoke and haze of battle on the "enemy position." The "enemy" withdrew and the shattered hill was organized, the wounded were cared for, the ammunition redistributed and names called to see who was missing. The shadowy figures settled down to wait for the counter-attack they knew would come.

Was this a scene from the jungles of South Vietnam? No. This setting will be observed many times throughout the coming year in and around Murfreesboro. The Forrest Raiders, a counter-guerilla unit sponsored by the Military Science Department, are conducting field exercises to gain practice experience and knowledge that they will need as officers in the United States Army.

During the year the Raiders will complete training in small unit tactics, patrolling, airborne training, hand-to-hand combat, survival, physical conditioning, bayonet training, map reading, heli-borne operations, river crossings, ambushes, counterambush, and rappelling. This is the type of training that tests the mettle of the man. This is the story of the men who wear the black beret.

To be a Raider is a way of life to which he must become accustomed. The mode of warfare has changed radically in the past twenty years. Today's soldier must continually improve his stamina, fortitude and alertness in order to meet the challenges which the world has placed before him. The Forrest Raiders offer one way for the ROTC cadets of MTSU to meet the challenge.

WHAT IS THE BLACK BERET AND WHAT DOES IT STAND FOR? It is a symbol of hard work, long hours of dedication and, at times, pain as softness gives way to muscles. The black beret is an integral part of every Raider. It is his badge of honor.

The Raiders derive their name from Nathan Bedford Forrest, a daring Confederate cavalry leader who led a raid against Union forces in Murfreesboro during the Civil War.

The Raiders are commanded this year by Cadet James R. LaFevor of Murfreesboro. He is assisted by Cadets William Lappin, Herbert Logan, Phillip Davidson, George Donegan, and Hollis Mullins. Raider candidates that are undergoing qualifying training for awarding of the best are: Thomas P. Johnson, Gary L. Petty, Danny F. Dent, George R. Nichols, Gary L. West, Larry D. Moore, Gregory O. Peck, Larry R. Thomas, Robert D. Blair, Bill Torrence, Wayne D. Nelson, Billy D. Useton, Clyde Delvin, Frank L. Routson, Newton M. Harris, Patrick O'Neil, Don L. Heubschman, Mike L. Heubschman, Danny G. Holder, David L. Harbin, William B. Smith, Robert H. Lambert, and Albert D.

Daffron.

Of the Forrest Raiders it has been said: "With all the training the Raiders receive, they never lose sight of the two goals they most firmly believe in — patriotism and physical conditioning."

vision Network during a tour there.

Evidence of Josh, Jr.'s entertainment value is indicated by his placement by the 1965 Billboard Poll of Colleges and Universities, as the eleventh most popular attraction in his field.

Through the years, his style has increasingly differed from that of his father, yet Josh, Jr. is quick to admit the debt of technique he learned from his father in the early years of apprenticeship.

ASB President Paul Womack, who previewed Josh White, Jr.'s performance at the SUSGA Convention last year commented on his performance as "exciting and entertaining."

Graduate Assistants Lead Double Lives

"It's a way to finance your education," was the reply heard most often when MUST teaching assistants were asked how they like going to school and teaching at the same time.

Teaching assistants, commonly called "graduate assistants," are graduate students who teach in order to finance their work on a master's degree.

MTSU has 53 such teaching assistants. Of these, 43 are in the School of Arts and Sciences, and the rest are scattered among the various other schools.

Dr. Clay Tucker, Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, explained how graduate students become teaching assistants.

"Each year," said Dr. Tucker, "we put out a bulletin which will announce which departments have assistantships available for the year, and we invite applications." In order to qualify for an assistantship, a student must have had a "B" average in his major subject during his undergraduate studies. Likewise, Dr. Tucker explained a student must maintain a "B" average in his graduate studies in order to continue in the program.

Dr. Tucker noted that the majority of these students have never taught in high school or elementary school. "Ten per cent, at most, have done any teaching," he said.

A full assistantship pays $2,000 a year. An assistant must pay fees like any other student, with the exception that the out-of-state fee is waived. While on the program, a student cannot take and teach more than a combined total of sixteen hours a semester.

For the most part, teaching assistants teach two to three courses of their major subject area on the freshman level. A few do specially assigned jobs other than teaching, and a few teach sophomore courses.

Teaching assistants are closely supervised by their directors, who meet with them twice a week to discuss their classroom experiences.

Dr. Richard Peck, of the English department, explained the purpose of this supervision: "We try to keep their teaching on a par with the teaching of the regular faculty teaching of the regular faculty members."

Allan Walton is a history teaching assistant from Signal Mountain. "I like being a teaching assistant," he said, "it's a good chance to start a college teaching career." He cited another advantage of the program—the fact that he was near the age of his pupils, and this led to a better understanding between student and teacher.

Betty Jean Hall of Lebanon observed, "It's not as hard for me as it might be for some others because I've taught high school for five years."

"It was necessary for me to do this," said Eldean Aune of Nashville. "I don't have much spare time, but I enjoy it."

Tony Pendergrass of Murfreesboro expressed the belief that "being a graduate assistant is a strange dichotomy by which one can be driven out of his tree by students and teachers at the same time. Nevertheless, it is a necessary interim and does provide an opportunity to move gradually into the teaching profession."

Leonard Tidwell noted that most people looked upon his position as one of "being paid to attend school."

James Gannon of Murfreesboro teaches both a large class and a small class, and he noted that it is easier to communicate with a smaller group. About the assistantship program he said simply, "I enjoy it."

"I think it is a good experience," was the way Sara Talley of Nolensville put it. She also said she enjoyed a status similar to that of the ordinary faculty members.

There are many advantages to being a teaching assistant, among them teaching experience and status, but the greatest of all is the money.

"It's a way to finance your education."

All Hail Paula Mae! Remember Her Well

Thursday of this week, nominations will be made for the 1967 Homecoming Queen. The nominations will take place in assembly at 11 that morning in the Dramatic Arts Auditorium.

Last year, in the election of a May Queen, Paula Mae Pigg won a sweeping victory over all human opponents. Her nomination, it was stated by her supporters, was done for a specific purpose: to protest the degree of ever-present student apathy existant here.

Those who supported Paula Mae cited several evidences of this indifference: In the nominations for "May Queen" last year only ten people were present; of these, there exactly no girls! in the Associated Student Body election prior to Paula Mae's candidacy, less than 40% of the eligible voters had exercised their right to vote.

How about student apathy this year? Of course, there is always a degree of apathy present everywhere. To expect otherwise if foolhardy.

Did Paula Mae prove her point? We shall see Thursday.

From the Editor's

Point of View

By Cheryl Allen

Last Tuesday evening students here had the opportunity to experience a "first" for Middle Tennessee State. "Club Night," a project sponsored by the Associated Student Body, was held in order to familiarize students with the purposes of the various campus organizations.

It is my opinion that this event was executed with such enthusiasm as to warrant its becoming an annual affair. This seems advisable for several reasons.

Initially, it would really eliminate the need for the freshman handbook concerning campus activities. The deleting of this expense would also give the ASB a little more money for other projects. Furthermore, the handbook, as printed in previous years, was in most cases not at all up to date; and Club Night gives the student a chance to see accomplishments of recent times and projected functions.

As each club had responsibility for its own display, the information presented was accurate and usually featured those things which the club members themselves felt were the most important aspects of their club. Perhaps, in this way, the actual purposes of the club were more specifically described than in a handbook designed for the same purpose. In addition, a person considering membership in an organization had available to him a member of that organization to answer any questions.

The extent of variety evidenced by the displays was surprising. It ranged from the typing of blood by Lambda Tau members to singing and dancing by the Orchestra Club. The histories of some organizations were available in pictures and-or print.

There was a high degree of organization though the event was quite nonrestrictive and informal. Clubs concerning the same interests were grouped in a specific region. For example, all the religious groups were located in the same general vicinity. As the evening progressed, the College Young Democrats and the Young Republicans, seated side-by-side, exchanged ideas of political philosophy and predicted the outcome of the 1968 election.

The most important aspect I feel an annual Club Night would promote is "involvement." More people are caught up in the excitement of the situation and, hence, contribute more to their organizations and school.

The amount of time and work spent on the planning, publicity, and execution of Club Night is intestimable. Speaker of the House Mel Black, co-ordinator of the event, certainly deserves applause as do House members and club presidents for supporting the idea.

To the Editor:

I wish to express my appreciation for your feature about the TENNESSEE FOLKLORE SOCIETY BULLETIN in The SIDELINES of October 4. Even so modest a publication as the BULLETIN, however, requires the interest and encouragement of those who are not formally connected with it. That is to say, it could not function without the help of Dr. Peck, Chairman of the English Department, and of administrative officials.

Most important of all, perhaps, is the care and attention to the make-up on the front covers and the interior format given by Mr. Jim Booth and his assistants in the MTSU Print Shop.

Ultimate credit must, of course, go to the society membership for its active support.

Sincerely,
Ralph W. Hyde.

Bulletin

Nominations for Homecoming Queen will be Thursday at 10:50 a.m. in the D.A. auditorium. Any senior girl with a 2.2 average is eligible for nomination.

To Co-eds:

Certainly I understand your plight, however, it is beyond you to question the authorities of our beloved administration. You see, they are responsible for you and all your actions; and your leader (referring to our dean of women) feels that what is good for her, taking into consideration outdated value systems, can be appropriate for the young ladies of our institution. Admittedly, there is virtue to many of the actions which a person entrusted with so-called "responsibility" must carry out.

When you arrive at MTSU, your parents are no longer the beings whom you ask for advice. Please don't whimper, girls. Your new advisor is the dean. But the minute a complication arises, watch how quickly this over-bearing responsibility shifts.

Now, I grant to Dean Hampton that someone should help in making decisions on campus, but not dictate. IS there morality involved in wearing a mini-skirt? Yes. Because your activities and actions, whether you wish to grant it or not, affect each other in daily life.

Ladies, when Dean Hampton tells you something that you disagree with, let her know immediately—Exist!

Dean Hampton, I ask you to be honest from now on in dealing with each and every student, because you haven't been with me. Now, I realize that it is hard to generalize from a particular incident, but two plus two gives me four (which to you might be five); and I feel the people of this campus should be treated in a more refined manner.

Without disrespect,
Alfred C. Dodson

To the Editor:

In regard to several letters printed in the Oct. 12 edition of the SIDELINES concerning cursing, alcohol and our students at ball games I would like to say that I don't drink myself; but I do date several boys who do. To my knowledge I don't know of any male or female students who have bothered other people by their drinking. I have seen several people at games making complete idiots of themselves without having one drink.

Also, I feel sure that this complaint was directed to the sorority and fraternity organizations on this campus. This was most obvious because they make up approximately 2-3 of the spectators at ballgames.

There was also a letter concerning cursing at ballgames. May I please remind this person that we are not a church - supported school, but we are a University of the State. This person had put three black spaces in front of DAMN on the cheer "Hotty Totty." May I inform him it only needed two blank spaces. The words are BY DAMN, nothing more.

I think it is very sad that some people at this school cannot accept the growth of this university. I would like to suggest two ideas for the unfortunates. First, visit a U.T. or Vanderbilt game and then compare them to ours. Second, if you cannot adjust to university life as it is, find a more conservative school, if this is possible.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"BUT THE STUDENTS ON OUR CAMPUS ARE HARD WORKING AND RESOURCEFUL — OUR FACULTY IS DEDICATED AND HAPPY — WHERE HAVE WE FAILED THEM??"

Candid Campus

The topic for this week's Candid Campus is: "Would you support a two dollar student government fee?"

BILL LEWIS: No, because the ASB already has a budget. If the budget and door receipts of entertainments don't pay for the ASB, it's sloppy and I see no reason to support sloppy management.

MR. CRAWFORD: Where I went to school at the University of North Carolina, we paid a large fee. This included govern-ment, sports and publications. If I were a student, I would prefer to pay a fee di-rectly to the people involved.

I would prefer to pay a fee di-rectly to the people involved.

WAYNE THYMM: I think it would be worthwhile. They don't have enough money as things stand now. I think they would use it for what was best for the students.

JOHN NAPIER: Yes, but it would depend on what it goes for. I would like to see bigger entertainment and better sports equipment.

SANDRA CAN-TRELL: I think there is in our tuition now a fee covering football and other sports events and some money for the ASB. If the present budget doesn't cover this, the stu-dents who go to entertainment should pay. Not everyone enjoys big name entertainment, so they don't go. Those who go should pay.

dents who go to entertainment should pay. Not everyone enjoys big name entertainment, so they don't go. Those who go should pay.

DAVID MAJOR: I think it would be a good idea. I'm certain the ASB could put the fee to good use.

RUTH IRWIN: I think it would be worth it so the ASB can have the programs it wants.

TREADING LIGHTLY

by Bill Peters, managing editor

I'm sure that everyone is aware of the fact that MTSU is indeed a small community, with many personalities and ideas meeting in the common institution of education. In other words, it's the same idea as the "melting pot" concept, regardless of the truth or untruth of such an idea.

The real idea being this all is not to expound on the "glories" of the idea, or the valuable education to be learned from meeting people — I'll leave this idea to the politicians, etc. My point deals with toleration.

When you really stop to analyze it, the guy who grows the beard may not be as weird as you first thought. As a matter of fact, he may be very much like you some-where beneath all that hair. By the same token, the guy who wears grubby blue jeans to class may not be rebelling against the world — he might have an equitation class later in the day.

Toleration is the key to understanding and, consequently, progress. Toleration, above all else, welds the university community into a tight unit, capable of understanding. It's very easy to mis-understand people to make the initial attempt, meeting them half-way. That's where the problem stems, brother.

It's true, the beard and the blue jeans trick can easily be associated with the weirdo — but remember, it's his face and his beard, and as far as I am concerned it's his kick. To each his own.

Quarterback's Game

BY PHIL HICKS

For years past, many people have said that football is a quarterback's game. In a large percentage of the time, the outcome of the game is based on the play of the quarterback. This theory was once again proven during the Murray Kentucky-Middle Tennessee game this past week-end. If you failed to attend this game, you missed one of the most superb examples of passing shown here in many years.

Larry Tillman, a junior quarterback for Murray, rewrote four records in the Ohio Valley Conference record books. He threw four touchdown passes for one record. He completed 28 of 51 pass attempts for two more records and his total passing yardage was 425 yards. A record which stands for itself is the fact that out of 51 pass attempts, not one was intercepted.

DICKIE THOMAS

The front five defensive players, ends Phil Watts and George Claxton, tackles Frank Victory and Bobby "Tiny" Langford, and middle guard Rodney Hayes are the only players who have done consistently well in our first five games. They held Murray to only 3 yards on the ground.

As seen by everyone, Pat Morrison played, what I think, the best game of his college football career. He gained 104 yards on 14 attempts for a 7.4 yard average.

Another player who did exceptionally well was Mallory Elrod, an offensive guard. Mallory's line blocking was consistently strong. Incidentally, Mallory is out for football for his own enjoyment, as he is not playing here on scholarship help.

For the first time in the history of the O.V.C., M.T.S.U. is resting in the cellar of the O.V.C. standings. If something doesn't happen soon, MTSU might also have its first losing season since 1939.

Dickie Thomas, a second-string quarterback for Middle Tennessee, also exhibited an impressive showing as he entered the game and engineered an M.T.S.U. drive which resulted in a touchdown. He ran the ball five times for 48 yards.

Thomas received a standing ovation for his outstanding play when he left the game with a knee injury. Luckily, it was not the knee which had previously been operated on.

It seemed to me as if the whole offensive team responded more when Thomas replaced Billy Walker at quarterback. After he entered the game, it took only six plays to score.

Raiders In OVC Cellar

Shoddy pass defense and a sputtering offensive effort, plus the brilliant play of Murray quarterback Larry Tillman led to MTSU's fourth loss of the season and dumped them into the OVC cellar.

Riddling the Raider secondary for 28 completions in 51 attempts for 425 yards and four touchdowns, Tillman broke four OVC records with his performance.

He put Murray on the score board with 10:24 still remaining in the first quarter when he hit Harvey Tanner with a perfect strike for 42 yards and a score. Murray struck again later in the same period on a 27 yard field goal by Richard Rasser.

The Racers continued to probe MTSU's pass defense weakness in the second period. A pass from Tillman to Tanner put the ball on the two, and two plays later Hake scored to give the Racers a 17-0 halftime lead.

MTSU finally scored with 7:36 remaining in the third period on a one yard plunge by Larry Matthews to make the score 17-7.

Murray came right back, however, covering 68 yards on two pass plays to take a 23-7 lead. The Racers got still another touchdown a few moments later when Tillman once again found Tanner open and hit him for a score. The third quarter ended with the Kentuckians holding a 29-7 lead.

Dickie Thomas entered the game at this point at the quarterback post and proceeded to move the Raiders down the field for their second score. Thomas got the marker on a one yard plunge.

Getting possession of the ball once again, the Thomas-led Raiders quickly moved to midfield. Thomas was hurt on the next play and saw no further action. Walker came in, picked up one first down, and then the drive fizzled.

Murray racked up one more score before they were through however. Tillman (who else?) passed (how else?) for his fourth touchdown with 43 seconds left in the game, an eight yarder to Young. This made the final score 35-14.

The Air Force doesn't want to waste your Bachelor of Science Degree any more than you do.

B. Sc. Those letters have an impressive sound.

But they won't be so impressive if you get shunted off into some obscure corner of industry after you leave college. A forgotten man.

You want activity. You want to get in there and show your stuff.

All right. How do you propose to do it?

If you join the United States Air Force you'll become an expert fast.

The Air Force is like that. They hand you a lot of responsibility fast. Through Officer Training School you get a chance to specialize where you want...in the forefront of modern science and technology.

Suppose, for example, you wanted to become a pilot and serve as aircraft commander on airplane crews. You'd plan missions and insure that the aircraft is pre-flighted, inspected, loaded and equipped for the assigned mission. You'll be trained to fly exciting aircraft.

Just examples. There are so many more.

Wouldn't it be pretty nice to enjoy officers' pay and privileges? And serve your country, as well? Also, you get retirement benefits, 30 days' paid vacation, medical and dental care.

B. Sc. Very impressive letters. Now, do something with them.
