

Christmas 2,000 Years Old, Yet Always New

It is most difficult to say anything novel about Christmas and its meaning. Everything of importance that can be said may be found in the accounts of the Nativity given in the Gospels.

In the first place, Christmas is the time for joy. Smiles on all faces are indication of the exuberance inside. Children are just waiting for the big day when Santa will arrive, and the students at STC are just waiting for the big day when school will close so that they may go home to make bustling preparations for Christmas dinners and family festivities.

Christmas trees in all three dormitories indicate that Christmas is a time for the giving of tin whistles, dolls, and toy kitchen sets to the roommate or to somebody else. Of course, everybody knows ten cents worth of the spirit of giving is as good as a million dollars worth, so carefully saved dimes are going like hot cakes and the most self-centered person has finally lost himself trying to do something for somebody else.

In the large cities, organized charity bands are squeezing money from the rich so that the hungry poor may have full stomachs for at least one day, and the middle class is rushing pell-mell from shop to shop buying something for somebody else who is doing the same thing. After gifts are purchased, the surplus will probably go for gasoline, firecrackers, and whiskey.

Then the day itself will get here. A big Christmas dinner naturally consists of turkey, cranberries, and fruitcake, plus a lot of rich side dishes sufficient to upset the digestive system of an elephant.

Why go on? All know how Christmas is celebrated. What they don't know is how Christmas should be celebrated. What are you going to do Christmas?

Home Ec Members Initiate Thirty Freshmen Girls

Thirty freshmen were initiated at the monthly meeting of the Home Economics Club on December 19. Ruth Allison, Quindal Collins, Clarice Miller, and Ailene Kerr took part in the candle-light ceremony. Jane Starbuck represented the spirit of Home Economics.

After the initiation ceremony, Jennie Mae Mitchell gave an interesting talk on her trip to the National Home Economics Convention held last summer in Pittsburgh.

Tea was served in the dining room, which was made colorful by decorations. Seated at the table was Miss Currier. She was assisted by Evelyn Reynolds, Edith Swafford, and Mary Frank Holloway.

Ruth Willis will enter Peabody College after the holidays. Fay Stone spent the week end with her sister, Louise Stone, at Lyon Hall.

Frances Connelly of Wartrace was the week end guest of Sara Webster. Ailene Shelton was the recent guest of Mary Tom Wilson at the home of Mrs. Webber Eearthman.

Faulkinberry

Frank Faulkinberry, president of the Freshman class, was born in Decherd, Tenn., November 12, 1921 and moved to Murfreesboro where he attended both elementary and high school.

While in high school Frank distinguished himself along literary and athletic lines. For three years he played brilliant football for Central, winding up his career as co-captain.

Along the literary line he was outstanding in debate, winning the state declamation contest in 1938. Previously he had won the state Latin tournament held in Nashville.

Story Of Nativity Presented By Music Department

The story of the Nativity in pageant form was presented by the music department in the College auditorium, Sunday afternoon, December 11, at five o'clock.

Preceding the pageant the glee clubs sang the anthem, "Glory to God in the Highest" and Bates Miller sang "King Ever Glorious" by Adams.

During the pageant the glee clubs, accompanied by the orchestra, sang: "O Come All Ye Faithful." The

Sigmas Bring Four Novices Into Group

Plans Are Completed For January Banquet At Polk Hotel

Detached Members Are Invited To Be Present

On Wednesday evening, December 7, the Sigma Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Frazier on South Boulevard to hold initiation ceremonies for four new members. The new members are Charles Liggett, Bruce Sartor, Edward Fox, and Mortimer Cohen.

Plans are complete for the holding of a club banquet at the James K. Polk Hotel on the evening of January 4. All members of the club who are now detached from the school are cordially invited to be present, as the purpose of the occasion is to welcome back all the members who took an active part in the organization in previous years.

Blows And Knots Fail To Dampen Soph Outing

In spite of the severe blow administered by the Dramatic Club play practice, and the knot John Bragg received on his head by bumping the top of the truck, the Sophomore class party, held at the Boy Scout camp, was quite a success.

The decorations consisted of absolutely nothing except some cots around the wall and meal on the floor to make it slick for the jitters of the "Sophisticated Moron" class. Just in case you don't know what that means, it's Greek for Sophomore.

The function opened with music furnished by Pat Sutton, Cliff Hage-wood and Petey Dill. After several numbers were played, dancing was begun which lasted until Charlie Finch, the colored cook, yelled "soup's on!" It wasn't soup at all, but instead it was hamburgers and coffee. And were they delicious?

Bob Sarvis and Doris Hall provided amusement for the party by showing every step from the "Charleston" to the present day "shag".

Jimmy Blair sent all the girls to their seats by his terrific skill at the crokinole board. Strong Arm Mackie, with a brace on his knee, showed the crowd a few neat tricks about how to handle a crokinole board.

Dixon Merritt Addresses Press Club Members

Publication's Banquet Is Attended By Forty-Seven

Veteran Newspaper Man Recalls Past For Listeners

Dixon Merritt of Lebanon, nationally famous newspaperman, spoke to forty-seven members and guests at the Press Club banquet held at Williams' Tea Room on Thursday evening, December 8.

Briefly and dramatically Mr. Merritt told of thirty-seven years of newspaper work which began with a job as a reporter on the Nashville Banner.

Stating that a man was old when he began reminiscing, the small, white-haired man, whose name is listed in "Who's Who in America," told of work with such men as Eddie Guest and Irvin S. Cobb.

He laughingly stated, "Irvin Cobb had a mind like a rain barrel lined with pitch—everything he ever heard stuck to it. This was a hindrance to Cobb as a reporter but helped to make him famous as a writer of fiction."

As a writer of humor Merritt will long be remembered. In recognition of his ability in this field he was at one time president of the Newspaper Humorists' Club. "Writing humor is the most serious task I have ever undertaken," he said. "The writer is the fool and the public is the court, just as in the case of court jesters in ancient times." John Paul Gilbert, president of the Press Club, acted as toastmaster.

Student Christian Union Christmas Program

The Student Christian Union met Tuesday evening, December 7, in the auditorium. An interesting Christmas program was presented by the entertainment committee.

The meeting opened with the singing of "Silent Night" by the entire group. Margaret Cox recited a poem suitable to the occasion. Mary Lane and Ruth Tittsworth sang "O, Little Star of Bethlehem," accompanied by Coe La Jeune Royster at the piano. Mildred Suddarth told a story, "The Other Wise Man."

The program was concluded with the singing of "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing" by the assembly.

A. C. E. Meets

The A. C. E. met with Miss Mary Frizzell, club sponsor, Tuesday night, December 6. Louise Raider gave an interesting discussion on how to make Christmas toys. Miss Frizzell presented each member with a collection of Christmas poems.

The New American Empire SOUTHWARD HO!

By CHAS. P. MORTON Once again America is going down to the sea in ships with eyes turned toward Central and South America. Vast markets are waiting for our manufactured goods and bountiful raw materials are open to us in return.

Our government realizes these possibilities for extension of trade and for defense purposes. Recently the policy has been to correct certain errors which have been hurting both trade and good will. And this "good will" business is the keystone of our trade agreements.

For the last decade our shipping lines have been steadily losing both trade and passengers because of the slowness of our ships. Italy and Germany with their fast vessels have been gaining at our expense. Mr. Roosevelt's advisors felt that this was a major problem which must be met swiftly and skillfully. Rapidly a new shipping line was set up with three new modern and speedy vessels flying the flag of the "Good Neighbor Line."

There is little or no doubt that this line is subsidized by the American government to compete with Italian and German ships. We are hoping to recapture much of the cargo and passenger trade. At the present time more Americans go southward on these vessels each year than go to Europe, and likewise many South Americans come to the United States.

Student Union to Begin Work in Winter Quarter

Executive Committee Approves Tentative Constitution; Miller Makes Appointments; Elections Set For January

The Student organization movement, which has created more campus interest than any one thing in the last few years, is soon to become an established success. After much effort, the student constitutional committee, appointed by Charlie Miller acting in his capacity as President of the Student Body, drew up a tentative constitution.

In a joint meeting of the faculty executive committee and the student constitutional committee the entire matter was discussed. After much constructive discussion, the faculty committee went on record as voting in favor of student government. It was decided at that meeting to have certain legal technicalities in the tentative constitution changed by the constitutional committee with the assistance of Dr. Sims and Mr. Judd of the Social Science Department. These technical problems were solved after several hours of discussion.

The changes in no way affected the intent of the first constitution, but in many ways made it more practical. At the present time, the constitution is in the hands of Mr. Frazier, member of the faculty executive committee, who will put it into proper literary form.

In drawing up this constitution the committee received help from many of the leading colleges of the country as to how their types of student government operated. As soon as our constitution is checked as to style, copies will be sent to those colleges in order that they may see, as many of them requested, how our constitution was drafted.

Charlie Miller has prepared a list of appointments which is to be submitted to the Student Congress shortly after the opening of the Winter Quarter. Elections for the thirteen members of the Congress will probably be held in the early part of the second week after the Christmas holidays.

The list of appointments by Miller are as follows: Supreme Court members, Seniors, William "Sandy" Hoffman and Jennie Mae Mitchell; juniors, Sam Smith and Ruby Morrow; sophomore, Dick Mullins; Attorney-General, J. W. Borthick; Chairman for organization of Jones Hall Council, William McCrory; Secretary of ASB, Bruce Sartor; Treasurer of ASB, Frances Brown.

The Associated Student Body organization will start functioning immediately after the election of Student Congress.

IS Girls Give Musical Program

Bridges, Hollis Present Brief Concert

The music department of STC presented the first formal concert of the season in the College auditorium in the evening of Thursday, December 8. The entertainment was pronounced a decided success by all who attended.

Under the capable direction of Mrs. Aultman Sanders, who also acted as concertmaster, the orchestra began the program with the sonorous "March Militaire," by Saint Saens. After a round of applause, the orchestra continued with the light and sparkling "Amayllis," a French folk dance reminiscent of the gaiety and color of the French court. The lingering notes of the "London-derry Air," an Irish folk tune, completed the first portion of the program. The only criticism that might be made of the orchestra is that the strings are overshadowed by the strong brass and wind sections.

The nucleus of the orchestra then formed an ensemble to accompany the joint glee clubs, with Miss Saunders as director. The familiar Russian folk tune, "Volga Boatman," was followed by Ditchmont's "Banjo Song," and he youthful, "You're in Love," by Rudolf Friml.

The Men's Glee Club next rendered "Come Join, and Sing," by Wick, and a novelty number of Wolfe entitled "Shortenin' Bread."

The Girls' Glee Club sang the romantic "Southern Moon," by Strickland. The boys in the background refused to hold their voices in check any longer, and so the "piece de resistance" of the evening was the singing of the charming "Waltz Chorus" from Gounod's "Faust" by both groups.

The evening's entertainment was concluded by the singing en masse of the Alma Mater.

First Concert Rated Success

Entire Music Group On Program

By ANN GRIFFIS A group of girl students from the Training School presented a musical program in chapel on Monday, December 12. Mrs. W. G. Manson was in charge. Margaret Cox of STC furnished the accompaniment at the piano. One of the girls did a tap dance in the Piccadilly style to the tune of "Stop Beating Around The Mulberry Bush."

The chapel program on Friday, December 9, was a fashion show of the styles of past decades. The presentation was created and directed by Jennie Mae Mitchell, who furnished an interesting and humorous running comment on the various costumes.

On Wednesday morning, December 7, two of the outstanding students in the music department provided the entertainment. Tom Hollis, bass, sang the plaintive number "Waterboy" and followed it with "Rosary." Frank Bridges, accomplished pianist, played the ever-lovely "Liebestraum" of Liszt and "Waltz in G Flat" by Chopin.

This is examination week, so the "Side-Lines" was made up in a hurry, but we hope every one reads it carefully. (It may be your last contact with civilization until after Christmas.)

The schedule for the Winter Quarter is printed so that everybody can prepare his program of studies for recopying on registration day.

The main news story this time is one that should have been printed several weeks ago. It tells how student government has finally been put into effect.

If you don't like this paper, just let us know. We like to hear people gripe and then watch them relax while someone else makes the improvements they want.

Basketball at STC Moving Upward

By J. W. BORTHICK

Opinions differ greatly; frequently the reason for such is a slight misunderstanding. I suppose these two statements have little bearing upon the subject for immediate discussion. Yet as the same time some introduction to "Sonia" Hendrix and John Dixon is desirable.

In 1931 John Dixon and "Sonia" Hendrix, two of Middle Tennessee's greatest high school football coaches, were teammates here at STC. No doubt their loftiest dreams at that time failed to portray the height of fame to which they were to rise in the football world.

I say during the past season because the book is closed: all the entries have been made; the ledger has been balanced. Most of the entries are on the side of the assets (speaking of Shelbyville and Lawrenceburg); very little is charged up to experience.

There must be some reason for the recent accomplishments of these two Middle Tennessee heroes. Those who recall the college days of the early thirties know that the immortal Coach Faulkinberry steered the course for the STC team at that time. He was a man; his ideal was to produce men. Coaches Dixon and Hendrix caught a spark of this fire and it has been fanned into a burning flame in their own teams. All their opponents realize the preposterous task of defeating either man's team.

Basketball seems to be taking a definite upward trend. Last year's graduation left quite a few men. Yet these will not necessarily form the nucleus of the varsity squad. Why? Four stars have come up from Junior colleges, three being from Austin Peay and one from David Lipscomb. Doc Phillips handles himself so expertly on the hardwood that one would never think he was six feet two. But all this is quite an asset to Doc for he can really put on a show when it comes to "flipping" the net.

Somewhat shorter but probably no less important are the Branson twins and Wayne Sexton from Austin Peay. During the past two years many have been the times these boys have carried their colors for victory with their expert shooting and floor work.

All of us who were here last year know what expert playing can be done by the members of last year's squad. Even though this is true, they realize that nothing but hard work will give them a chance at the starting lineup this year.

Even though the time is now at hand for the basketball season to open for the year the schedule has not as yet been completed. However, it is expected that quite a number of games will and are being scheduled for the winter quarter. The schedule will be announced as soon as possible.

Cafeteria Chatter

Editor's note:—Perhaps you noticed that there was no Cafeteria Chatter in the last issue. The reason for this was the fact that the editor was curious to know if there was any demand for this type of writing. He found that there was a great demand for this stuff, you might call it, so he has decided, not only to write Cafeteria gossip, but to broaden his field and cover the entire campus for this final edition before the Christmas holidays).

There seem to be quite a few people on the campus who think they are getting around by old gossip hunter but they are sadly mistaken. He sees all but tells little.

Take Leon Bibb, for example, his name has never been in this column, and he had the nerve to think he was slickin' us. Have you noticed how many times he has put his ad selling to the side so he could court Margaret Cox. At the Press Club banquet Thursday night he tried to get Mr. Williams to serve a Planters Punch before serving the dinner.

On the way home from the dance last week, Kat Grigsby and Charlie Brown stopped to do a little wrestling. When John J. passed he noticed that Charlie was winning because he had the "Bear Hug" on her and there was no way for her to get away. Wonder if she really wanted to?

Doyle Branson and Betty White were at the Soph social Wednesday night. They must have had plenty to talk about because neither of them danced a time. Could all this conversation be bringing something about?

What about the great Mustang Mackie and Holty Coble? I believe the Mus is sort of that way about the gal. He walks around in a daze all the time, mumbling words that sound as if he were practicing what he would say to her the next time they met.

Will someone please tell the press if Paul Stewart is rooming in Rutledge or Jones. Every time one looks around he sees Paul heading to the west side of the campus.

"Absence makes the heart grow fonder (for somebody else)," says Sandy Hoffman. He and Julia McAdams are really going hard these days. During the day you see them at the Green Spot, after supper behind the library, then at night at the ball games. Sandy was heard saying, "If Mary Sue heard about this she'd get a hunk of my head." Never fear, Sandy, we'll do all we can to keep it for her.

Did you notice how red Gwaltney's face was when he walked in the gym last Tuesday night and saw Alice sitting in the balcony with Shorty Campbell? The balcony he pretended that he didn't see her because he immediately walked to one of Alice's girl friends and asked if she had seen Alice. The boys in the dormitory thought this wasn't enough to make him heart broken so the next night Boots Little made a date with her. He didn't do any good, however, because she stood him up.

Frances Dement has at last found her dream man. Since the day she entered STC she has longed to have a member of the male sex, whom she could love, honor, trust and cherish, and now she has found him. Constantly clad in a riding habit or soldier suit, Sam Nesbitt is seen walking and talking with Frances. We were told that Frances is just tickled pink when someone asks her about dear Sam.

Those of you who were at the Music Club banquet possibly saw a new beauty. In every day life she is Janey Swift, attractive and nice, but if you have never seen her in an evening dress you have missed something. She kept those horn-blowers busy trying to find out who she was.

Rumor No. 1—Lulu Faust will altar-rate this Xmas with a young gallant from over Auburn way.

What young man from Loco High whose initials are J. J. says that he is going up the aisle with somebody from Missouri over the Yuletide season? We saw the future mother-in-law in town the other day.

What happened to Jack Osborne and Camille King? The public doesn't see them together so often any more.

Yours truly has been informed that Petey Dill is advertising for a ride to Lakeland, Fla., during the holidays. He has sent his advertising manager to Nashville to hang a sign in Peabody College which reads, "Anyone going to Lakeland, Fla. for the holidays who would like to have a good driver, write or call Madison Dill, Murfreesboro." This is a good example of Petey's never-give-up spirit. Good luck, Petey, STC sends Christmas greetings to Charlotte by you.

Have you noticed Bates Miller's new moustache? He looks like he swallowed a cat and left its tail hanging out.

There is a boy who lives in Jones Hall who has been dating Mary Jo Smoda for quite some time with the idea that he was putting something over on several other students. He succeeded for a long time but now all this has been uncovered. Watch and see what happens when a certain Gilliam girl in Lyon Hall finds this out. She might make a square block out of a round head.

We could say something about Jackson, Hollis, Driver, Drye, Wilson, and many others. They are still up to the same tricks, but this is all old stuff and something that is never noticed any more. What we want is something new so get busy and give us something to write about.

The editors of this column take this space to wish every student at STC a MERRY CHRISTMAS and HAPPY NEW YEAR. We hope you have enjoyed this column thus far, and if you have there will be many more of them to come.

A SOLDIER SPEAKS

I have known beauty where melody
Was breathed by violin of ecstasy
And pain of unborn tears.

I have known beauty in a day.
That changed its clouds some mystic way
To high flung scarfs of color.

I have known beauty in dark plowed ground—
Deep richness waiting without sound
That it might give seeds life.

I have known beauty after rain
When sun would make out not explain
Its alchemy of liquid silver.

I have known beauty when the night
Soothingly turned out day's light
And offered dreams of stars.

But now I know only black vacancy;
For man has used war to steal from me

My ears to hear; my eyes to see;
Beauty's pathway to the soul.
—Mary L. Dixon.

BOUQUET

News Note: Hitler scratched in face when woman tosses bouquet.
Hail Hitler! Strong man with power girl.

Why flinch at flowers strewn
In admiration of your power.
Why man, they do not hurt
A tenth as much as cold, grey lead
Because of which some peasant's heart has bled;
Or tears drawn from a mother's eye
As she beholds her infant dead
And knows 'tis useless to cry
For justice or peace, or charity.
Your eyes—Pray, what are they Compared to a million such
Which may be lost in one short day
So you may the heights of power touch.
—Mignonne Myers

THE UNDYING

The dog-star that fades against the sun;
The soft showers that kiss the parched earth;
The babe's first cry at birth
Falling on the mother's listening ear
As an angel's violett—
These, as the violet's breath,
Are but the fleeting fragrance of the night.

Love alone fears not death.
Planted deep in my Heart's garden,
Hallowed by life's holy dreams,
Sheltered from desecration,
Beyond time it gleams;
As the plant of centuries,
Growing, ever renewed, and undying.
—Shelley White

DREAMS

If one would dream—
And long enough, and hard enough;
He may not make that dream come true.

But other things will come to him,
And better things, though they be new—
If one would dream.
—C. L.

Nothing offends the romantic male like a powder-smearred frock!

Playtex Make-Up Cape

When it comes to advice to the lovelorn, we leave that to Dorothy Dix. But we do say this: that romance wilts at a powder-smearred, hair-strewn frock. So why offend the men in your life when a Playtex Make-up Cape might make you their ideal? Sheer, smooth as satin, this liquid latex cape protects your dress from the inevitable spoils of make-up. In shell pink, heavenly blue and gardenia white with a swing pocket in which to hide your puff, lipstick and tissues. A gift-tip, gift-packaged $1
