S.N.M. on the Rocks

Lamont Gholston Special to Flash

What da dilly yo? Welcome to another addition of "SNM On Da Rocks." I will be your hip-hop version of Dan Rather, replacing the one and only Sean Morelle, who graduated in December and got the hell away from MTSU. (Why couldn't that have been me?) Anyway, let me bring you up to date on the most recent happenings in the hip-hop world:

Sean "Puffy" Combs and Heavy D have been found negligent in a celebrity basketball game that took place back in 1991 and left nine fans dead and dozens more injured. New York's Court of Claims' Judge Louis Benza ruled on Monday that the responsibility for overbooking the event lay 50% on the promoters (Puffy and Heavy D), and 50% on the City University of New York, the venue's sponsor. Heavy D and Puffy have not been sentenced with any penalties since NY's Claims' Court only rules on cases against the state. But you can bet that there will be a barrage of civil suits against the two rappers a la O.J. Simpson. Maybe Puffy will lose Bad Boy Records the way O.J. lost his Heisman trophy?

On to the Westsiiiiiiiide, where Coolio is making his way up the criminal court ladder. January 7, the rapper who won a Grammy for the first rap album your moms bought, had a South Bay Municipal Court rule that there was enough evidence to send his case to the supreme court, currently scheduled for February 9. Coolio who's already been sentenced to $30,000 in fines for assault and robbery in Stuttgart, Germany, was arrested in Lawndale, CA, on September 15 for a traffic violation when police found Marijuana and a concealed firearm. The misdemeanor traffic violations alone have already cost Coolio a grand in fines. Coolio faces another three years in Gangster's Paradise for the gun-related charges, and additional charges for the marijuana.

Rohan Marley, Lauryn Hill's Husband, Bob Marley's son and former University of Miami football star fell asleep in his 1998 BMW 540I with the motor running when the car caught fire early in the morning of January 9. Marley was waiting outside of Sir Recording Studios in NY, when the car's electrical system sparked a fire. He awoke, finding himself unable to open the doors' locks or the power windows. Several members of the NYPD arriving at the scene, smashed a window and dragged Marley out of the burning car. Upon hearing of the fire outside, "Lauryn came running out of the studio hysterical. She thought he was still in the car," said Officer Segura, one of the officers who saved her husband. Marley recovered fully after being taken to St. Claire's Hospital and being treated for smoke inhalation.

Damn this was a rough week for hiphop. I promise that next week's news will be more upbeat and less grim. (Who am I, Dionne Warwick?) Anyway for more hip-hop music news and culture, you can catch me along with Nappy Wilson and Blondie Etc. on "SNM" every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. only on 88.3 WMTS.

While presenting their case before Judge Skinner, Schlichtmann (John Travolta) and his partner Bill Crowley face highly skilled litigator Jerome Facher (Robert Duvall)

A Civil Action is Not Your Typical Courtroom Drama

Aaron Tallent

Legal films usually incorporate a David and Goliath story with a young lawyer taking on a huge corporation. The young lawyer usually matures and becomes a better man by the end of the film.

A Civil Action also incorporates a version of the David and Goliath story but there are more twists, turns, and character variations.

In this true story, John Travolta plays Jan Schlichtmann, a self-absorbed, greedy personal injury lawyer who represents eight Woburn, Massachusetts families in a lawsuit against two corporations, W.R. Grace and Beatrice Foods.

The two corporations are accused of the illegal dumping of solvents in Woburn's drinking water during the late 1970's, resulting in the deaths of eight children.

The chief litigator for Beatrice Foods is Jerome Facher, played by Robert Duvall in an Oscar-worthy performance. Facher also teaches law at Harvard. There are other lawyers involved in the case but Facher and Schlichtmann are the head honchos.

Like most courtroom dramas, there are many exciting arguments, but what separates A Civil Action from other courtroom drama are its two main characters, Schlichtmann and Facher.

Jan Schlichtman gets the all-time movie award for the lawyer most in need of redemption. At first, he refuses to take the families case because he is a personal injury lawyer. Personal injury lawyers do not get paid unless their clients do. Personal injury lawyers also have to put the money up front to fund the case.

Schlichtman takes the case when he realizes the two corporations are involved and he can turn a huge profit if he beats them in a lawsuit.

As Schlichtman begins to feel the pain of his clients, his quest for judgment overshadows his greed. He turns down hefty settlements because he does not feel they are enough. Schlichtman ends up putting all his finances into the funding of the case.

Jerome Facher is not your typical hotshot corporate lawyer from most courtroom films. He is an old fashioned lawyer who has been practicing law for over forty years. He has a quiet manner and never raises his voice. While Schlichtman gets emotional and loses his temper during a case, dramas, there are many Facher calmly manipulates the exciting arguments, but what situation to his advantage.

Duvall's performance is terrific and the best attraction of the film. Duvall's performance shows us that his character is a great lawyer who has been in the courtroom too long to be worried about any lawsuits.

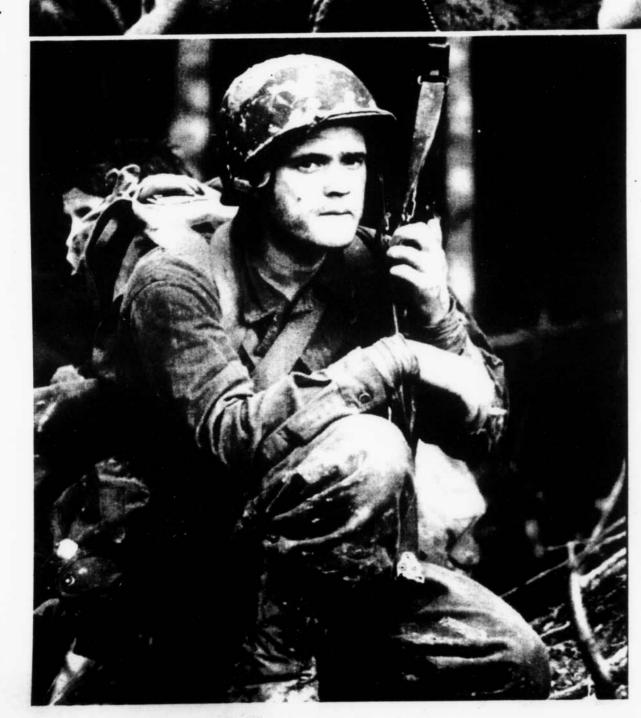

Travolta is likable in the lead role and his emotional transformation is convincing. As for other performances, John Lithgow is terrific as usual as the judge. So is William H. Macy as Schlichtmann's financial advisor.

Steve Zallian, the director and screenwriter, gives us an interesting and intriguing drama that keeps us enthralled from beginning to end. A great use of foreshadowing comes when scenes from the case are intercut with Facher lecturing over the do's and don'ts in a courtroom.

The only problem with A Civil Action is that it seems to have too many climaxes. I thought the film was going to end three different times. Too many climaxes can tire a viewer.

A Civil Action is a one of the great courtroom dramas and is destined to be a classic. Look for it to have several nominations when the Oscars roll around.

THE THIN RED LINE. Terrence Malick's brilliant new film, an adaptation of James Jones' World War II novel, is the finest contemporary war film I've seen, supplanting Steven Spielberg's "Saving Private Ryan" (1998) or even Oliver Stone's "Platoon" (1986). We follow the fortunes of a group of soldiers in the horrific battles for the pivotal island of Guadalcanal. They include an Army lieutenant colonel (Nick Nolte), a heroic sergeant (Sean Penn) and a soulful soldier (Jim Caviezel) who has lived among the South Sea islanders in their beautiful, natural state and is forever questioning why it must be disturbed. Though Malick effectively takes us on patrol through the tall grasses of the island, allowing us to experience the tensions of fighting a hidden enemy, more compelling than the expertly staged combat sequences are particular images: a partially submerged crocodile that represents the lurking impulse for war in the human spirit and a long road facing a soldier who talks wistfully and futilely about trying to come back from combat as "the man I was before." R. 4 stars.

Hypothetical interview: Clinton and country react to impeachment proceedings

Brian Forrester Flash writer

Disclaimer: This article is completely fictitious. There is no redeemable qualities about it. The article is merely for some sort of enjoyment for the readers and not meant to be taken seriously at all.

As the country braces for the first impeachment hearings since Andrew Johnson, President Clinton discloses his legal strategy and thoughts on his presidency.

In the Oval Office, Bill Clinton sits behind his desk surrounded by objects which remind visitors of the dignity of the most powerful office held in the world. And a box of cigars.

"I feel that the American people understand my plight," Clinton says. "Citizens support me and my role as President of this country. Just look at the economy. We are doing great."

Recent polls indicate that Clinton enjoys a large amount of satisfaction among African-Americans. When asked what Clinton believes is the reason behind so much support he responded, "I get jiggy with it at work," he grins.

Clinton claims that his defense in the Senate trial includes vehement denials and redefining the definition of all sexual relationships. However, the Senate is trying to be bi-partisan during the trial, not impressionable.

"We know his tricks. The House and Senate have become quite aware of his mind-control weapons that Area 51 supply him with. We will be prepared and use discretion throughout deliberation" says Sen. Alexander Thompson, R-Wisconsin.

The Senate has several gas masks placed throughout the building to prepare for any of Clinton's tricks. The President's aides denied any use of mind control devices during criminal proceedings.

While the impeachment proceedings were taking place, Clinton spent time getting to know police officers from Alexandria and Arlington, Va.

"Mr. Clinton is trying to get a head start learning the names of the officers who will be working at the prison where he will be sent after the impeachment trial," said Kenneth Starr.

The main concern with the impeachment trial is the lack of support from the American people. Unlike the most recent occurrence with Nixon, the citizens don't want to see Clinton ousted from office. Among political analyst there is criticism that the Republican party is committing political suicide.

"No, I don't want to see the man impeached. It's a witch hunt fueled by Kenneth Starr! I am glad that for once we have a president who has given us a great economy and is so in touch with the youth of America," said Robert Smith from Sokane, Idaho. "I know this, though, I will never vote Republican again."

Aries (March 21-April 19). You may have tough authority figures to deal with Monday and Tuesday, but most of the hassle is over. That's a good reason to meet with friends over lunch or an early dinner. Tuesday's good for a meeting with friends, where you decide to take strong action. Make sure you invite all the people who really know what's going on. Wednesday and Thursday, your intuition is your best guide. Friday and Saturday, you're very powerful. Also be compassionate and sensible. On Sunday you'll be up for big fun, but you also need to be tight with women the sure you are the people who really have an early a sure and the sure you are the sure of the

Taurus (April 20-May 20). You're getting a little taste of things to come on Monday and

Tuesday, as the moon goes through Aquarius. The sun will be in Aquarius soon, and you'll have to settle down to business. On Monday, you can practice by figuring out your next career move. If you don't already have a career, this is an excellent day to do the planning. Somebody's giving decisive directions on Tuesday, so go along with the program. Save your arguments for a better time and place. Gather with friends and associates Wednesday and Thursday. Conditions are changing, and you need to chart your next course of action. The heat's turned up on Friday, as you scramble to make the deadline. Keep that momentum going on Saturday, and finish up a project of your own. On Sunday, pamper yourself and the ones you love just as much as

Gemini (May 21-June 21). Things are nice on Monday, and getting even better. Study a topic

Gemini (May 21-June 21). Things are nice on Monday, and gening even better. Study a topic that will bring in more money, so you can follow through with the rest of your plans. Business travel looks good for Tuesday. Wherever you're going, be watching for good deals. Wednesday and Thursday, you might find a way to advance in your career. Offer to do something that's obviously needed by a person who doesn't have a clue. Your expertise will be greatly appreciated. Join with friends on Friday and Saturday. The most fun of all would be to learn a new game together. Get serious on Sunday, and fulfill an obligation. Cancer (June 22-July 22). Catch up on your reading Monday. You probably know exactly which books and magazines to study. You've been saving them up for months! Focus on bringing more money in on Tuesday. Looks like you could make a good deal then. Foreign commerce or commerce with foreigners is your best bet Wednesday and Thursday. If you're shopping, go to the import stores then. Friday's good for advancing in your career, if you're willing to take on more responsibility. Going to see an older person should be beneficial on Saturday, and Sunday's best for hanging out with your friends.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). You might as well decide first thing Monday morning that you're just going to go along with whatever your partner says. That'll make your life a lot easier. If you struggle or put up any sort of resistance, you could be ground into mincemeat, figuratively speaking. The competition is also fierce on Tuesday. Keep a low profile. Wednesday is your best day to go shopping, and Thursday is best for receiving a legacy, or winning a prize. Travel is favored on Friday and Saturday. Remember to be respectful to authority figures on Sunday, or ou'll find your pathway blocked.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). There's going to be a lot more work, starting Monday. This might be due to an increase in your responsibility, and possibly even an increase in your pay. So there's no need to complain. Settle down and study on Tuesday, too. You may have to work out a whole new routine to get back in charge of the situation. On Wednesday and Thursday, a friend who's new routine to get oack in charge of the situation. On victure and and such as the source of trying to be helpful could add to the confusion. Try not to be too critical. On Friday, you should have enough to put some into savings, and on Saturday, you could find an excellent deal if you go shopping with a friend. Sunday would be good for travel, if there weren't so many other chores to do. Be diligent, and you could find enough time for love.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You've had quite a lot to contend with lately, but things are starting to get easier. That should be noticeable Monday, as you suddenly solve a persistent problem. You've run into one upsetting situation after another for the last few weeks, but you always knew that love would find a way. Looks like an intellectual has you enthralled on Tuesday, much to your delight. Work demands your attention on Wednesday and Thursday. There's more coming in on Friday, but you'll be quite apt to let a bold adventurer steal you away. This could last all the way through Saturday, but it looks like you will have business to take care of on Sunday.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You're in a good frame of mind to learn and listen Monday. This will Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You're in a good frame of mind to team and user informaty. This was come in handy, since the conversation seems to be complicated and very intense. Tuesday is good for doing fix-it chores around the house, especially the ones you've never done before. It'll be kind of easy to figure them out, so go for it. Wednesday and Thursday are your best days this week for romance, and home is your best location. Friday and Saturday, your energy level is high, but your nervous tension is off the charts too. Remember your meditation exercises so you don't get into a pointless argument. Tempers will have cooled by Sunday, and lethargy will have are in Deay't plea monthing more streamout than lifting your cup to your lines, and pushing the set in. Don't plan anything more strenuous than lifting your cup to your lips, and pushing the little buttons that change the channels.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Did you know that Sagittarius is the sign of higher education, religion, philosophy, truth and justice? With the moon going through Aquarius Monday, you have even greater wisdom. Make the most of it. Use your wisdom to generate more income on Tuesday. On Wednesday, the sun goes into Aquarius - lucky you - to make this scholarly phase last for the next month or so. Devote some attention to the folks back home on Wednesday and State and State and State at the month of the Arise attention to the folks back home on Wednesday and Thursday. Friday and Saturday, the moon's in Aries, stimulating your romantic interests, and on Sunday, the moon in Taurus inspires you to go to work. Instead of going into the office, you can find a good book and read it.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You may feel like your energy is waning Monday, but it's not an altogether unpleasant sensation. It's as if, in the cosmic scheme of things, you've got your act together by, and you're ready to take it on the road. Tuesday is good for paperwork involving money, as in buying or selling. Read the fine print. Wednesday and Thursday are your best days this week for learning. Since the sun's in Aquarius by then, you should be learning how to make this week for learning. Since the sun's in Aquarius by then, you should be learning how to make and family. more money. Friday and Saturday, the spotlight is on your home and family, and, coincidentally, real estate, an excellent investment. On Sunday, your thoughts turn to love, and well they might. That's the reason you're making all this money anyway, to take good care of the ones you love.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You look wise, you look scholarly, you look like the intellectual that you truly are, the person who's going to figure out how to save the world for its own good. It's a massive job, but you can handle it. Finish an old obligation before starting a new endeavor on Tuesday. Wednesday is good for gathering money, and Thursday is even better. A new idea piques your interest on Friday, and by Saturday, it'll be added to your arsenal. Sunday, your brain may be slower than usual, so try to stay out of confrontations.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). The next phase you're going into will be more introspective. You'll be cleaning house, in a way, changing your habit patterns and thought processes. Monday is a great day to start. Tuesday is good for answering old phone messages and old memos and for writing thank-you notes for things you got three Christmases ago. Wednesday and Thursday, you're strong, but you may also feel a little guilty. That's just because you're remembering more things you said you'd do by now. It doesn't mean you're getting worse. It actually means you're getting better. Friday and Saturday look very good for making money. A garage sale could be in order. Sunday's good for snuggling up with an educational video and a good friend.

Everybody loves to trash teenagers, right? Maybe they don't realize that we do care. That we can make a difference. Get involved in Crime Prevention. Clean up parks. Teach younger kids. Start a school or neighborhood watch. And help make your community safer and better for everyone. Together, we can prove them wrong by doing something right.
