Presidential search narrowed to nine; no locals involved

MTSU's presidential search has been narrowed from 116 applicants to only nine candidates, according to Dr. Otis L. Floyd Jr., chancellor of the Tennessee Board of Regents.

The four local candidates are not included in the list of finalists.

Floyd announced Friday that the nine finalists had been selected after deliberation by the search committee which meet here last week.

"We had a high degree of interest in the presidency of this fine university," Floyd said. "The close review of applicants by the Advisory Committee has been invaluable to me in selecting these excellent candidates for further consideration."

The candidates selected by Floyd are:

- Harold Allen, vice president for Graduate Studies, University of Toledo
- Verna Armstrong, vice president for Administration and Finance, Eastern Illinois University

- Grady Bogue, chancellor, Louisiana State University of Shreveport

- Donald Bowen, vice president for Academic Affairs, Southwest Missouri State University

- John Darling, provost and vice president, Mississippi State University

- George Frederickson, professor of public administration, University of Kansas

- Charles Nash, associate executive director, Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools

- Charles Ruch, provost and vice president for Academic Affairs, Virginia Commonwealth University

- James Walker, vice president of Academic Affairs and provost, University of Northern Colorado

The only candidate with any local ties is Bogue, who held several administrative positions at Memphis State University. Two MTSU administrators — Jessie Warren, vice president for Administration and Cliff Gillespie, Three trailers installed in the lot beside Bragg Graphic Arts building will help alleviate the faculty office shortage by temporarily providing 42 offices.

"The plan is to keep them here for 3 years," said Interim University President Wallace Prescott. "That will give us time to build permanent buildings. Some of the professors will eventually move into the mass communications building when it opens in January."

In the fall of 1991 an addition to Jones Hall will provide 50-60 offices, according to Charles Pigg, director of campus planning.

"We're getting in a position to give permanent office space to the faculty," said Pigg.

Faculty offices have been put in dormitories and student lounges in the past and many professors had been sharing offices, he added. The hiring of 45 additional faculty members has added to the shortage of office space.

The total cost of the trailers was well under the amount set by the state building commission, according to Prescott. The cost for all three buildings was $140,000, furniture will cost approximately $50,000, and erection costs were

Shooting, fights bring early end to high school game

from Staff Reports

On Friday night the MTSU stadium became the sight of yet another episode of violence involving high school students.

The Oakland-Franklin football game was abruptly ended when gunshots were fired outside the stadium where fans were headed for their cars.

"It got worse than anyone expected," said Oakland High School Vice Principal Ken Nolan.

According to Nolan additional security had been added to patrol the game. He said the school felt some concern after recent violent crimes occurred at Nashville and Columbia high schools.

No one was hurt during the shooting and three guns were confiscated from juveniles, according to officials. Those arrested in connection with the shooting are still in police custody.

The Rutherford County Sheriff's Department transported several juveniles to Nashville, officials said.

A fight had broken out prior to the shooting, witnesses said. A man was seen standing in the street in front of the main stadium entrance firing at another male who was fleeing.

The game was ended at this time with one minute and 42 seconds left on the game clock.

Some car windows and tires were shot out, according to Murfreesboro Police Captain Bill Todd. On Saturday the police department had 11 people questioned in connection with the shooting.

The local chapter of the NAACP held a meeting on Wednesday night to discuss the incident. Local parents and politicians turned out to talk about the need for security at these events.

This school year has brought violence to several high schools in the middle Tennessee area. Stratford High School in Nashville was the scene of a gang fight on the first day of school.

A Glenciff High School student was attacked in a school bathroom and her 14-year-old assailant was charged with attempted rape and attempted murder.

At a football jamboree on Aug. 25 a Hillsboro High School student was shot in the leg.

The National Research Council is conducting a fellowship competition which will offer two $13,500 stipends for a 12-month fellowship tenure.

The National Science Foundation (NSF) Graduate Fellowship competition is offering one of the stipends only to minorities.

Graduate fellowships given by NSF are intended for students at or near the beginning of their graduate study in science or engineering.

They are awarded for study and research in science or engineering leading to master's or doctoral degrees in mathematical, physical, biological, engineering, social sciences, and in the history and philosophy of science.

Applicants will be expected to take the Graduate Record Examinations (GRE) designed to measure developed abilities as well as achievement in particular fields of study.

The examinations, administered by the Educational Testing Service, will be given on December 8, 1990 at designated centers throughout the United States and in certain foreign countries. The foundation will pay December 8 test fees for fellowship applicants.

Deadline for the submission of applications for NSF Graduate Fellowships will be November 9, 1990. Further information and application materials may be obtained from the Fellowship Office, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, Washington, DC, 20418. ■

The trailers do not have restrooms because of space limitations and this had some bearing on choosing where to put the buildings.

"We looked and looked for a place to put them and it was just a matter of putting them near a restroom," Prescott said. "We also wanted them to be accessible to the bookstore, parking lots and the buildings where the faculty will be teaching." ■

Army specialists: easier for grads

Staff reports

College graduates can now enter the Army as Specialists (E-4) under a new program announced by the U.S. Army Recruiting Command at Fort Sheridan, Illinois. This Change allows those graduates to start at significantly higher levels of pay and responsibility than before.

Graduates of accredited colleges and universities are being offered the accelerated promotion incentive as part of Army recruiters' efforts to maintain a high quality force.

Other promotion-for-educated programs offer a student with 30-59 classroom semester hours enlistment as privates (E-2), and a student with 60 plus semester hours can enlist with the rank of private first class (E-3).

Another option is the military loan repayment program. Under this program, the Army will pay up to 33-1/3 percent or $1500—whichever is greater—on the student's outstanding loan balance for each year of successfully completing active service on a 4-year enlistment. This option can repay a soldier's student loans up to more than $50,000.

Shooting shows need for continued security

Usually MTSU is a pretty quiet place. Usually.

But that calm was broken Friday night when gunshots were fired during a football game between Franklin and Oakland's high schools. Two separate shootings were reported, several teenagers were arrested and officials were forced to stop the game with less than two minutes on the clock.

There were no injuries from the incident, but it did point out how fragile the peace on our campus really is. While MTSU students were not directly involved in the violence, as the university continues its amazing growth, the importance of good security will only increase.

So far, we've been fortunate. In 1989, the university maintained the second lowest crime rate of any college in the Tennessee Board of Regents system; only Memphis State University did better. From August to December of last year, MTSU reported an average of 17.4 incidents per 1,000 students, most of which were non-violent crimes such as burglaries and public drunkenness.

Even more impressive, that figure was accomplished with one of the smaller security forces in the TBR system. The 13 person staff employed here was less than 1/3 of the size of Memphis State's.

Increased security is one of the main priorities of the current Associated Student Body administration. Two ideas that ASB President Todd Burnett has suggested, additional lighting and emergency phones with a direct line to the campus police, are excellent ideas that should be implemented.

This emphasis on security should be shared by the university's next president. The public safety and security department has earned our gratitude. Now the university administration must work to insure that incidents like last Friday's aren't a glimpse of things to come. ■

Letters to the Editor

Love, honor and respect

The other day in the lobby of the KUC, they were selling T-shirts for the United Negro College Fund. One design was particularly lovely, the bust of the Queen of Egypt superimposed upon the African continent with the words inscribed "The Black Woman — Love, Honor and Respect Her." This white boy was looking at the shirt, obviously in admiration. He told the vendor, "I really like this. I would buy one and wear it, but you understand...."

The vendor nodded his head. Maybe he understood, but I, for one do not understand. What was this white boy trying to say? Was he trying to say that in all his life he has never loved, honored nor respected the Black Woman? Or was he saying that he has, but for some esoteric reason he would prefer that this knowledge remain discreet? I can only believe that this latter for I refuse to believe that anyone in America (I don't care who you are or where you come from) has never had his or her heart broken by the likes of Whitney Houston, Karyn White, Jodi Watley, Billie Holiday, Aretha Franklin, Roberta Flack, Diana Ross...I could go on forever. I refuse to believe that considering the plethora of talented black authoresses in print that this young white boy has never encountered Toni Morrison, Alice Walker, Nikki Giovanni, Zora Neale Hurston, Maya Angelou, Ntozake Shange, Lorraine Hansberry, etc... and if he hasn't, and he's in college then I ask you "what is he doing here?" Surely this young lad must watch TV! Do you mean to tell me that he has never seen a Ruby Dee or a Cicely Tyson bare her soul? We can only surmise that this young man has never heard of Coretta Scott King, Ida B. Wells, Mary Church Terrell, Mary McLeod Bethune, Harriet Tubman, Nerehiti or the Queen of Sheba else he would have bought the damn thing and be wearing it already! Do you mean to tell me that this young man can not think of one or any number of black women among his personal experience that he has not indeed loved, honored and respected? May I suggest to this young gentleman that he take a class with Dr. Jackie Jackson? She'll teach that young boy the meaning of respect right quick!

Thus, for all the above stated reasons and many more I could yet list, I refuse to believe that this young white boy could have never in his lifetime not loved, honored and respected the Black Woman. I can only believe that this young white boy did not buy the T-shirt he so admired because he did not care to advertise his true feelings for the Black Woman, who, although she has struggled day-to-day for hundreds of years against a veritable legion of evils, shines nonetheless with a beauty, a courage and a dignity that is hers and hers alone among the many beloved children of God. She has earned more love, more honor and more respect than we could ever hope to give her, I don't care who you are or where you're coming from. Yet here we have a young man who is too proud, else too ashamed to admit it. Is this racism, hypocrisy or just plain stupidity? I don't know and I refuse to understand, but whatever it is, it is exactly what is wrong with America today.

Thank you,
David Randolph

Editor discovers secret Ruskie takeover plan

Managing Editor

[Editor's note: I discovered this note laying on the floor of the Boutwell Dramatic Arts building Wednesday. Normally, I don't scour the ground for hidden treasures, but I was in the process of passing out after my advanced logic teacher began talking about reverse Polish notation. As my oversized Jay-Leno-like head headed for the call of gravity, I noticed a piece of paper there on the floor (between a copy of Guns 'n Ammo and a half-empty tube of Bart Simpson Squeeze Bubble Gum (tropical fruit flavor). It's a poor translation from the original Russian, but I have reprinted it here in the hopes of calling our campus to arms before it is too late!]

Dear Comrade,

Excellent news! Things are going quicker than expected here in our bid to take over Middle Tennessee State University.

Ever since the accursed Gorbachev began his godless liberal policies in the Motherland, it looked as if our dream of starting

High blood pressure is serious business.

That's one way of looking at it. Another way is to ignore it and hope it goes away. Or tell yourself it's hopeless. And that's called playing with fire. Because there's one thing we know for certain. And that is that high blood pressure can usually be controlled. By following your doctor's advice. By exercising regularly to control weight. By cutting down on salt in your diet. And by sticking to your prescribed medication. Because if you don't take it seriously today, it could take you by surprise tomorrow.

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR

our own bureaucratic state was doomed. But here at MTSU, we have instituted such a program without the foolish Americans ever being the wiser.

Of course the key to creating any useless bureaucracy is a slow moving and cranky staff. By keeping all the offices understaffed, we have guaranteed that the workers will be overworked and the students will soon grow used to waiting in line for hours upon hours.

The swill, excuse me, food program is going fine. By using the usual excuse of "low bidder," we have found a way to dispose of the rotting carcasses from our farms in the Ukraine. Imagine roast "beef" every day. Plus, using the same "low bid" excuse, we have forced all students to drink Pepsi! How I laugh as I pour myself a frosty cold Coke and watch them suffer!

Parking is perhaps our greatest triumph. There are now 10 times as many ticket writers as actual parking spaces. These tickets are generating thousands in revenues for us, yet the foolish students believe us when we say we have no money to build more lots! It is truly amazing how the phrase "it goes into the general fund," works miracles here.

If that fails, we simply pull out speeches about the virtue of exercise and how good little hikes would do most students. I cannot help but grin at how even the teachers must walk across campus to get to their classes. Ha! That will show them what a liberal arts degree is worth.

Speaking of the teachers, I believe it will be easier than we originally thought to convert them to our side. While many still pretend to hold dear a hippie-like dedication to truth and freedom, in reality most are as unthinking and habit-bound as the average party member. There is nothing quite like the sight of a teacher with a ponytail and the tolerance of Stalin to warm my old Russian heart.

So far, we have not been allowed to shove more than a few students into the average dorm room. But we are still full of hope that the plans for the cots in the hallways will be approved. Once we stuff 40 students in a hall meant for 15 it will be easy to completely break their wills.

Thus, within a few months we will have taught the students of MTSU that their degrees are a privilege bestowed upon them by the state, for the good of the state. Ah! Bad food, horrible weather and cranky people. It is almost like being home.

Long live the revolution,
Comrade Chancellor Thomas
Garland.

Kid's museum needs volunteers

Sandra Rennie•Staff

HOW'S IT HANGIN'?: Mat Rubin of the Children's Discovery House in Murfreesboro holds Susie. She is a 3 month old opossum and one of the animal residents at the museum. The museum is open Tuesday through Saturday 10 to 5, Sunday 1 to 5. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for children. The Children's Discovery House is closed most major holidays.

JENNIFER BAILEY
Assistant News Editor

The Children's Discovery House Museum needs students volunteers to help the staff guide its kiddie visitors through the hands-on museum.

"They could really benefit from volunteering one afternoon a week," said Matt Rubin a museum aide and elementary education major at MTSU.

"It's a lot of fun and, basically, I find myself teaching." The museum is located in a big Victorian house at 503 North Maple St. Since it first opened its doors in 1987, the museum has received at least 25,000 visitors per year.

"I had grown up visiting museums across the country and I worked at the Cumberland Museum (in Nashville)," said Discovery House's executive director Billie Little as she explained how she became involved with and founded the museum.

Little, who has a background in teaching, said she was "excited about using objects to teach." So, she got together with about six other couples who "felt that there should be more cultural and family activities" in the area. The result was Discovery House, a museum where children are encouraged to put their hands on virtually every exhibit.

Discovery House is the first of only three "hands-on" museums in Tennessee. The other two are in Johnson City and Memphis.

There are approximately 10 areas in the museum, and they all have educational theme that deal with health, natural science, physical science, art, music and social studies. Some of the unique rooms are:

- The Rainbow room, children can make shadows on the wall in three different colors. If they want, the shadows can be "frozen" so that when they walk away the shadow remains.

"It's alot of fun."

- the Tennessee Creek Walk room has real fish, turtles and crawdads for children to play with.

- The Hospital room has a sick mannequin, a skeleton, stethoscopes, nurse and doctor clothes and a play x-ray machine. "This room takes away the fear kids have for going to the doctor," Rubin said.

- The International room boasts a Japanese kimono, Dutch clogs and hats from different countries.

Every year Discovery House holds an annual Birthday Bash, International Day and a Love Your Teeth Day. These are perfect times for volunteers to come in and help. Rubin visualizes setting up a student league of volunteers.

"My experience working at Discovery House will really help me when I graduate," Rubin said.

When asked what's the most rewarding aspect of working at Discovery House, Little answers quickly.

"That's easy. The children's response. They really get excited about learning," Little said.

"It's a wonderful spot for creative people who want a place to use their talents," Little said of volunteers.

She needs photographers and video people to do publicity work. Artists are also welcome to paint murals in the museum. Researchers are needed to gather more information about some of the animals that stay at the museum, such as Chelsea the chinchilla.

Since the learning system the museum uses is "predominantly used in early childhood" education, Little thinks early childhood education majors would find volunteer work at the museum an invaluable experience.

Little stressed that there is something for everyone even if it's just documenting and putting exhibits together. A "Faces of Destiny" photo exhibit of the 1898 Indian Congress will be shown October 3-24 and Discovery House will need volunteers to help organize and arrange the showing. ■

Italian Street Fair attracts quite a crowd

MIKE REED
Features Editor

The scent of oregano has faded off in the distance, it finally sinks in. The 1990 Italian Street Fair is over. If you missed it (I think there are 7 of you out there), you missed the best fair in recent memory.

...you can just sit in the shade with a loaf of bread, a plastic cup of wine and bocci...

The food was incredible. My meatball sandwich was above and beyond the call of duty. The wine and cheese flowed like water and cheese. Even the hamburger and hot dog vendors were getting more than a fair share of business. The high temperature didn't do much to stave off the appetites of the million or so people in front of me in line.

Of course the crafts were bountiful (you couldn't swing a dead cat without hitting someone trying to sell you a crystal on a keyring). In an attempt to create an Italian street market atmosphere, every person with two leather thongs and a bead to join them had a tent set up. The overall effect was not unpleasant.

The entertainment was lively. Spectators had plenty of choices from rock and roll, rhythm and blues, and jazz to classical, square dance, blue grass, and country.

Of course in any descent Italian Street Fair you have to have jugglers and street performers. This one was no exception. They entertained the children with balloon animals or fire breathing while mom or dad popped over to the food booth for a piece of pizza and a Bud.

You could ride the ferris wheel, try your luck at the game booths or just sit in the shade with a loaf of bread, a plastic cup of wine, and bocci. I can't think of a better time, and I'm trying real hard. If you missed all this, you're probably still kicking yourself. Relax, there is always next year.

The Italian Street Fair is really a fund raiser for the Nashville Symphony. In years past it has boasted attendance of nearly 100,000. At $4 per head, that will buy a lot of Ragu Chunky Garden Style Spaghetti Sauce. I am certain that attendance records were broken this year.

So, the 1990 ISF is over and done. If you would like some information about helping out next year or about the Nashville Symphony itself and how you can support it, call 329-3003. ■

MTSU-TV: new station, lineup

LISA VINSANT
Staff Writer

Students unable to find their favorite television programs on the MTSU channel need not fear; MTSU TV has simply moved down the dial from channel 33 to the more accessible channel 12.

Though the station's new location will be advantageous, according to MTSU TV adviser Dr. Robert Spiers, the decision to move was not made by MTSU.

"They (the cable company) can put us at any channel they want at any time," said Spiers. "We don't make any money for CableVision, so we have been at whatever channel allocation they want to put us on."

This isn't the first time MTSU TV has been switched to another channel, but in the past, the channel numbers have been very high — from 27 to 33. Spiers stated that there was a reason for the low number given to MTSU for this year.

"Up until this year, the trend has always been to put access or non-revenue channels on the cable system as high a number as possible," said Spiers. "This year the trend has been to put all the things that are the most basic television services...on the very basic first thirteen channels of cable service, and charge the least amount of money for them."

"We're accessible to more people now because... the habit is to look at channels one through thirteen first and then go on up," he said.

The new channel has its advantages, but, working with MTSU-TV has advantages wherever the location/whatever the channel.

"It's a really unique opportunity," said Jeremy Rolfs, MTSU-TV's development coordinator. "Anyone, no matter what their area of study, could benefit from coming and spending some time at the student station. Mass Comm. majors would be silly not to, because this is exactly what they're going to be doing."

"It's a hard job to do," he continued, explaining that every one minute of finished product represents one to five hours of pre-production or behind-the-scenes work. "But there's no real other opportunity to get that kind of experience."

The time element is important in production of shows, and was also significant in bringing about the changes needed for the new channel. Students involved with MTSU-TV worked all summer in preparation for the change.

"The management staff has been working on the new image for the station, and commercial campaigns since basically the week after final exams," said Rolfs.

Mary Parker, promotions manager/director, was in charge of making flyers and banners to advertise the change.

"We made lots of posters to hang around just advertising the new channel 12 to try and drill into everyone's minds that we had changed and that we're no longer channel 33," Parker said.

Along with the change of channels, MTSU-TV reveals some changes in programming for the upcoming season.

A new minority magazine program, called "Upper Division" will make its debut in the fall. Rolfs commented that he had high hopes for the new program.

"I think that it will give minorities a kind of creative control over this type of media that they haven't had on this campus ever before," said Rolfs. "Some people might be offended at the thought of a minority program, and that's a risk that we're more than willing to run."

"We feel that this program will present information and important discussions and ideas to a group of people who really don't have an opportunity to hear that kind of stuff on our TV station. So that's a program that has needed to happen for a while," he said.

Also are plans to air a few new music video shows which will serve more than mere entertainment purposes.

"The RIM television program represents a precedent between the departments of radio/television and the department of recording industry management," said Rolfs.

"They're very busy with their studios, and their students do a lot of work, and our students do a lot of work over here. In a lot of ways those works are similar, but we don't overlap much," said Rolfs. "So we're trying to get a cooperative program where their majors would bring in bands and do live audio, while the television people do live television."

programs may soon materialize. "What I'm doing is working with producers who haven't produced a show before, who have just had an idea, and said 'I want to do a show.' We're trying to make those shows a reality this semester," said Rolfs.

He also emphasized that producing a show was open to students in all fields.

Tigers turned to pussy cats

TONY J. ARNOLD
Sports Editor

The Blue Raiders of Middle Tennessee State opened the season with a bang Saturday night against Tennessee State.

Although they played on unfamiliar turf in Vanderbilt's football stadium, the Raiders made themselves at home and thrashed the Tigers 38-6.

"I'm very pleased," Raider head coach Boots Donnelly said. "Seeing that this was a first game, I thought we played exceptionally well and stayed focused."

MTSU jumped on the board early and never glanced back to see how far the Tigers were behind.

With 4:16 remaining in the opening quarter, senior tailback Ricky Martin ran the ball in from the two-yard line for the score. Matt Crews' extra point was good.

The TD was set up by an explosive run by tailback Joe Campbell. The junior took the ball 13 yards on his first carry but on his second, he carried it around the left side, broke several tackles, and rambled 42 yards to the TSU five.

Although the Martin touchdown and Crews extra point was all that the Big Blue needed, the Raiders proceeded to pile up 17 more points in the second quarter.

Three of those came on a 48-yard field goal by Crews. They were points that made Donnelly feel a little more secure.

Going into the season, Donnelly was worried about replacing the accurate foot of Joe Lisle, who graduated. Crews, a junior, had struggled with consistency in his previous appearances. Saturday, he nailed the kick square through the up-rights to give MTSU its tenth point at the 13:17 mark.

"When Crews hit that 48-yard field goal I think he said that he was ready to fill that position," said Donnelly. "He showed extreme confidence."

Martin once again struck gold with a 78-yard run with 5:59 left in the half. He took the ball on a draw play, veered right and zip-ped past every defender for the score.

The Raiders racked up 226 yards, rushing on the half while holding TSU to -18 yards on the ground.

The second half proved to be no better for Tennessee State.

The Raiders continued to roll up the yards on the ground gaining 173 more yards for a game total of 399.

Many of those came on the opening drive as senior fullback

Wade Johnson picked up 24 yards including a seven-yard run for paydirt.

TSU finally put together a six-play, 42-yard drive for a score on their first possession of the half. The points seemed to mar the victory for the Raiders.

"I thought that the only let-down that we showed was when we gave up the score after we scored," senior quarterback Phil Ironside said.

Obviously it upset linebacker Anthony Coleman. The senior rushed in on a two-point conversion attempt, and as Tennessee State quarterback James Wade turned to throw, he was met head on by the 1989 OVC Defensive Player of the Year. Wade was flattened and, after a short period of time, was able to get up and walk off the field.

The final score of the contest came as Campbell found an opening in the line and ran the ball 57 yards for the tally.

"I attribute those runs to my offensive line," Campbell said. "They are the ones who opened the holes and gave me a place to run."

Campbell finished the evening as the game's leading rusher. He picked up 143 yards on eight attempts.

The victory was an OVC win. It put the Raiders on top of the league early, which is the place where they hope to stay. ■

LOOKING FOR SOMEONE: MTSU quarterback Phil Ironside appears to be searching for a receiver in Saturday night's action against TSU. The senior had a successful evening as he connected on seven of 12 attempts for 76 yards.

FROM STAFF REPORTS

There are those who'll emphasize the fact that Middle Tennessee's football team is challenging the NCAA Division I-AA national champions when they host Georgia Southern here Saturday night.

There are also those who think that the Raiders will be seeking revenge, since Southern walloped MTSU twice last year by a combined score of 71-3.

Don't count veteran Blue Raider head coach Boots Donnelly in either one of those camps.

"You're the national champion only until you start the next season," he said. "Then you're the defending national champs."

"They are a little different football team than they were last year, and we're a little different football team, too.

"That doesn't mean that Georgia Southern isn't a great team. They may very well be the best team we'll face all season, just like they were last year," he continued.

"But the fact they won last year's national title isn't a factor in this year's game — it'll be won or lost right here on Jones Field Saturday night."

As for revenge, Donnelly says, "If we get too wrapped up in that kind of stuff, we might forget what we're out there for, and that's to play the best possible football we can play, no matter who the opponent is or what may have happened last year."

"Revenge is bad for concentration."

GIVE HIM SIX: Middle Tennessee State fullback Wade Johnson found himself in the endzone Saturday night. Johnson gave the Raiders a 30-0 lead in the third quarter with a seven yard scamper into the TSU endzone. The burly Raider carried the ball 10 times on the evening and picked up 54 yards in the 38-6 rout of the Tigers.

Get ready folks.

If you have never experienced an all-out, no-holds barred dog fight before, then stay home this weekend and watch your Blue Raiders as they duke it out with defending Division I-AA National Champion Georgia Southern.

This game has been one of the most awaited in recent Raider history. The Big Blue owes the Eagles for many things.

Starting the list is the year 1985. It was a season which marks history for both schools.

'85 Big Blue squad.

Later that year in the second round of the playoffs, the Eagles came to Murfreesboro and dashed all Raider hopes of a national crown as they upended MTSU, who was ranked number one in the national polls, 28-21.

In 1986, much like this season, the Eagles had to come to Murfreesboro to defend their crown. The Raider fans were laying low for head coach Erk Russell and his champions, but they upended the Raiders again 34-31.

In 1987 the Raiders went to Statesboro once more and had Southern on the ropes late in the Last year, they returned the favor to the Raiders with two walloping victories. The first came as Hurricane Hugo was about to pound the coast of South Carolina. The driving rain storm didn't seem to affect the Eagles' play as they shutout the Raiders 26-0 in a nationally broadcast game on ESPN.

Later in the year, the Raiders made another visit to the great state of Georgia to try and punch out the Eagles in the second round of the Division I-AA playoffs. However, it was the Raiders who were KO'd 45-3.

This season it is time to return the embarrassing losses that the Eagles handed the Raiders last year.

Many thought that the Raiders were going to beat the Eagles in their second meeting last season. But after that destruction people are wondering if the Raiders can even beat them on their own turf.

They really owe Southern something and if this is going to be the Raiders' year, as many polls seem to think, then they must prove themselves Saturday night. The kickoff is scheduled for 7:00 at Horace Jones Field.

Be there because "It's time for REVENGE!" ■

Out of the Endzone By Tony J. Arnold

During the regular season, the Raiders went down to Statesboro and demolished the Eagles with a 35-10 victory. However, no one realized that that would be the last time the Eagles would lose on their home field. The win streak remains in tact today.

During that year, the Raiders won their first OVC crown since 1965. Ironically, that '65 team went undefeated as well as the contest. However, on a fourth down play late in the fourth quarter, Southern converted and went on to score and leave the Raiders heartbroken again in a 17-13 squeaker.

The Raiders finally broke their losing streak in 1988. MTSU, still holding vengeance in their hearts, handed the Eagles a 26-10 setback. That obviously made the Eagles mad.

A REASON TO SMILE: Middle Tennessee State tailback Joe Campbell was recently named OVC offensive player of the week for his performance in the TSU contest. The junior gained 143 yards and scored one touchdown in eight carries.

Both Georgia Southern and Middle Tennessee come into Saturday night's contest with 1-0 marks.

GSU bested cross-state rival Valdosta State, 17-10, in Statesboro, while MTSU was dumping Tennessee State at Vanderbilt Stadium in Nashville, 38-6.

"Georgia Southern has another very fine football team," said Donnelly.

"If people think that the fact Erk Russell retired as their head coach last year is going to put a crimp in their program, they'd better think again. Georgia Southern is still a well-coached, hard-hitting football team with a world of pride in what has fast become a great tradition.

"We know from experience what a great many of their people can do," he added, "and that's a lot, believe me."

Tim Stowers, a five-year assistant coach under Russell, succeeded him as the Eagle head coach last spring.

Chief offensive weapons for Southern are fullback Joe Ross and quarterback Raymond Gross.

Ross, a senior, has had an outstanding career, especially against MTSU. In 1987, as a freshman, he ran for 110 yards and the winning TD in a 17-13 Eagle win.

As a sophomore, he had 157 yards on the ground in a 26-10 Blue Raider win here in Murfreesboro.

Last season, he romped for 182 yards in his team's 26-0 regular season win over MTSU.

In fact, the only time the Raiders have held him to under 100 yards was in last year's playoff game. He had 34 yards in the 45-3 Southern win before leaving the game early with a knee injury.

Gross ran for 11 yards in the regular season duel with MTSU last fall, then passed for 117 yards and two touchdowns, while running for an even 100 yards and another TD during their last encounter with the Raiders.

Middle Tennessee will try to counter with its own ground-air combination in double-tailback threat Ricky Martin and Joe Campbell and quarterback Phil Ironside.

Martin scored two touchdowns in last week's win over TSU, while racking up a total of 96 yards. Campbell romped for 143 and another touchdown.

Ironside, who passed for more than 1,400 yards last year as a junior, played little more than a half against Tennessee State, completing 7 of 12 passes for 76 yards.

The two Georgia Southern wins last year give the Eagles a 5-3 edge in the series against MTSU. The rivalry began in 1984.

Kickoff for the contest is scheduled for 7:00 p.m. ■

Sounds win the pennant!!!

ALAN FLIPPEN
Associated Press Writer

The Nashville Sounds are the champions of the American Association East, but only after 18 innings of what manager Pete Mackanin called "the most absurd game I've ever seen in my life."

Nashville used 20 players, blew four scoring opportunities in extra innings and fought off five sudden death rallies by the Buffalo Bisons before Chris Jones doubled in Billy Bates for a 4-3 victory early Wednesday morning in the Class AAA divisional playoffs.

Charlie Mitchell, who entered the game for Nashville in the bottom of the 12th and pitched seven innings for the win — his longest outing of the year by far — pronounced it "the best game I've ever been involved in or seen or heard about."

But "best" was about the only word his manager refused to use.

"It was exciting. It was terrible. It was disgusting," Mackanin said. "Twenty-two year's I've been in this game, I've never seen anything like it."

The victory in the one-game divisional tiebreaker put Nashville in the best-of-5 playoffs against the Omaha Royals, champions of the West Division.

Jones' home run over the left field screen and over a New York Thurway ramp gave Nashville a 3-2 lead in the top of the eighth. But Buffalo clawed back in the bottom of the inning and pushed the tying run across on a fielders choice.

From then until the 18th, only zeroes appeared in the linescore — but appearances were deceptive.

Nashville blew bases loaded opportunities in the ninth and 15th and a two-on, none-out chance in the 17th, while Buffalo failed to score a runner from second with none out in the ninth, blew a bases-loaded chances in the 10th, 11th, 12th and 15th.

Nashville's one-out, bases-loaded rally in the ninth ended as Bison second baseman Jeff Richardson leaped to grab Sketter Barnes' line drive and doubled Fred Benavides off second.

The Sounds returned the double-play compliment in the 11th when center fielder Leo Garcia caught Danny Sheaffer's shallow fly and threw John Cangelosi out at the plate by 15 feet.

By the 15th inning, only pictures were left on the Buffalo bench.

The Bisons ended up using 22 of its 25 players, including pitchers Blas Minor and Lee Hancock, who had been called up hours earlier from Class AA Harrisburgh. ■

Tennis anyone?

TONY J. ARNOLD

The MTSU lady's tennis team is looking for a little help in a lot of areas.

Head coach Sandy Neal has three positions open on her team. She needs to find two more players and a new manager for the upcoming season.

"We have five players now but need to find two more as soon as possible," Neal said.

She plans to set a date and time to hold tryouts for anyone interested.

"We are also looking for a manager," Neal added. "A partial scholarship will also be included with the position."

Anyone with any interest in playing or managing is urged to call Coach Neal at 898-2450. She can also be found in her office which is located in Room 208 of the Alumni Gym.

Office of the Mayor

220 NORTHWEST BROAD STREET

AREA CODE 615 893-5210

August 27, 1990

To: MTSU Student Body;

On behalf of the Murfreesboro City Council, our City employees, and the citizens of Murfreesboro, I wish to take this opportunity to welcome all students to the fall semester of the 1990-91 school year. We trust that each of you have enjoyed the summer vacation and are now ready for a serious challenge.

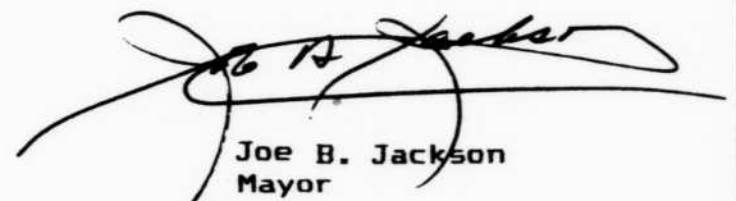

The University, its staff, and the students are all very important to the City of Murfreesboro and Rutherford County. We appreciate your many contributions to our community, and since this will be your home away from home, we want your time spent here to be a memorable experience.

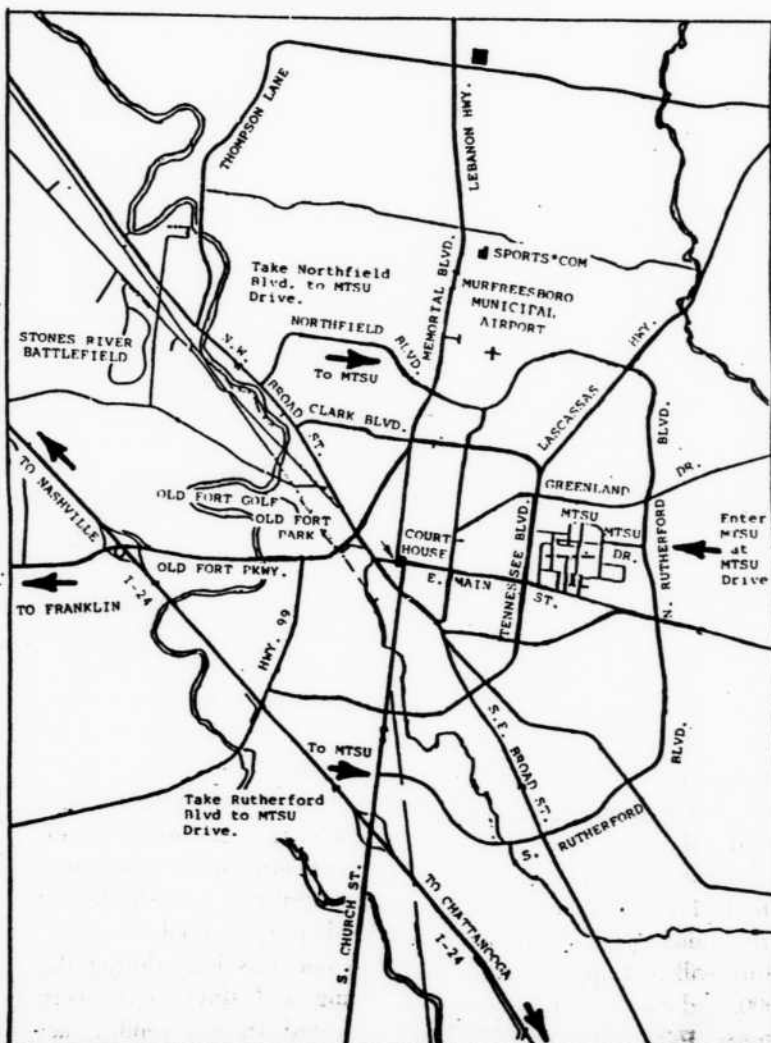

To our commuting students, I would mention that through a cooperative effort between the City of Murfreesboro and the University, Northfield-Rutherford Blvd. was constructed thru the rear of the MTSU campus with the intention of better serving the University's students. Since this boulevard circles the city and leads to the university, we suggest that you give it a try as you come and go to and from the University. We believe that you will find the boulevard to be convenient and that it will, in fact, save you time as you commute.

I would also like to add that we believe that good recreation is very important to all of our citizens and therefore we try to offer a variety of entertainment and recreational opportunities. We suggest that you contact the Rutherford County Chamber of Commerce for information as to the many points of interest and programs of entertainment scheduled throughout the year.

We stand ready to be of service to you as valued citizens of our city.
