St. Jude's drive includes walk-a-thon, football game

Sigma Nu St. Jude's week kicks off Wednesday at 7 p.m., with a pass off flag football game on Jones Field. In the first game, campus fraternity Kappa Sigma will face sorority Chi Omega.

The St. Jude's fund raising drive is sponsored by Sigma Nu fraternity which has raised money for the Memphis children's research hospital for three years.

Childhood catastrophic diseases such as leukemia, cancer, muscular dystrophy, and malnutrition are treated at the facility.

St. Jude's offers its service free of charge, according to Gary Ellis, chairman of the St. Jude's drive. He said that many of the treatments are too expensive for charge and the hospital is entirely dependent upon donations.

Ellis emphasized that the events "are not just for greeks but for everybody. We want to get as much participation from the people on campus as possible."

After the fraternity-sorority football game, Sigma Alpha Epsilon plays the Murfreesboro Police on the field at 8 p.m. Admission to the game will be 50 cents.

Thursday is "Big Party night" at the Hot Wheels Roller Rink. The cost will be three dollars for men and one dollar for women. Ellis said that there will be dance contests and "all the beer you can drink." The Big Party will begin at 8 p.m.

The dunking machine will be on Friday. ASB President Bobby Francescon and presidents from some of the fraternities are some who will sit on the machine. Also on Friday, Ellis will make his second parachute jump for donations. He made his first jump last year during St. Jude's week.

St. Jude's week finishes Saturday with the Walk-a-thon, which brings in the most money of the events. Ellis said that boy scouts, Murfreesboro policemen, and local businessmen are just a few of the people already signed to walk the 15 miles around Murfreesboro.

A ten-speed bicycle will be given to the male and female who raise the most money. A trophy will also be given to the organization which raises the most money.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

Women's conference opens Friday with Joyce Brothers

Noted psychologist and television personality Dr. Joyce Brothers will be the featured speaker in a women's conference this weekend sponsored by Continuing Education.

"From Her Point of View," Oct. 28-29, was planned by a Continuing Education Steering committee composed of university women.

According to June Anderson, physics professor and committee chairman, the conference will "alert women to the basic issues that should concern them and the opportunities they can take advantage of."

Brothers will speak Friday at 8 p.m. in the DA Auditorium. "I'm not sure what she will speak about," Anderson said, "but it will have something to do with women's affairs."

Keynote speaker Patricia Schroeder, a Colorado congresswoman, will speak at 9:20 Saturday morning on women in politics and the Equal Rights Amendment.

Saturday, discussion groups will meet under the leadership of Tennessee women who have had "on-the-job" training in their fields.

Agnes Bird, Maryville lawyer and chairperson of the Tennessee Commission on the Status of Women, will lead a group on "The Legal Rights of Women." Discussion will involve such discriminatory laws as social security and credit.

"Finding the Right Job and Keeping It" is the topic for a group lead by Jane Hardaway, Employees Services manager in the Memphis Division of Personnel. Job opportunities from women's viewpoint will be discussed.

Child and wife abuse will be discussed by Florence Gaynor in "Homemakers and Families." Gaynor is director of hospital and health services at Meharry Medical College in Nashville.

Dorothy Brown, former state representative and chief surgeon at Riverside hospital in Nashville, will speak on "Women Alone." The group will discuss the single, divorced and widowed woman.

"Fullfillment—The Quality in Life" is the topic to be discussed by Nell Mahoney, minister of Chattanooga's First Centenary United Methodist Church. "Women should be self-fullfilled," Anderson said concerning Mahoney's discussion. "They should find their niche and be happy with it."

Problems encountered in owning businesses will be discussed in "Her Own Business," lead by Kay Yeager, joint-owner in a chain of retail stores. Topics covered include decision making and setting prices.

Nashville lawyer Osta Underwood will lead a group on "Finances and Estate Planning," discussing wills and financial planning.

"Women as Consumers" is the topic for a discussion lead by MTSU alumnae Ann Eaden. Eaden, director of Consumer Affairs in the Tennessee Department of Agriculture, will talk about the power of women as consumers.

"We expect about 1,000 participants from all over the state," Anderson said. "Everyone is impressed with our really outstanding speakers. This is going to be a great conference."

Registration begins at 5:30 p.m. Friday in the SUB lounge. A dinner is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Tennessee Room.

Saturday activities begin with registration and breakfast at 8 a.m. in Murphy Center. The conference opens at 8:50 with a welcome from MTSU President M.G. Scarlett.

Welcomes and introductions will be made at 9:05, with Caroline

Scarlett's introduction of Schroeder at 9:15.

Half of the discussion groups will meet from 10:30 to 11:30 and the other half from 1-2 p.m. Lunch is set for 11:45 in the Tennessee Room.

Panel discussion and a question-and-answer session will follow the final group meetings from 2 until 6 p.m.

Regular fee for all sessions, dinner and lunch is $12. Saturday activities only are $9, and registration without meals is $5. Registration is free for fulltime MTSU students with a valid ID card.

Free tickets for Brothers' speech, co-sponsored by the Ideas and Issues Committee, may be picked up in UC 308 this week.

For further information, contact the Office of Continuing Education, 898-2462.

IFC votes not to release number of pledges

Inter-Fraternity Council (IFC) refused to disclose the total number of males pledging fraternities, while 115 girls pledged the five sororities that participated in rush.

Fraternities refused to reveal statistics on rush as "they feel it's nobody else's business," according to Vickie Justice, IFC administrative coordinator. Various representatives voted unanimously not to reveal these facts at the last IFC meeting.

Rusty Hix, IFC secretary and president of Sigma Nu, later said, "The main reason the fraternities voted this way was that they didn't want the individual fraternities to know the amount of bids they receive or send out."

Many fraternities have open bids, so the amount of bids received could be embarrassing to some fraternities, according to Hix.

Bill Mason, president of Alpha Tau Omega, agreed that the statistics are nobody else's business.

"Everything the fraternities do shouldn't be in the public eye."

Alpha Gamma Rho president, John Lavelle said however, it really didn't make any difference to him. Ken Bruce, president of Delta Tau Delta, felt the vote was based on no particular reason.

According to sorority presidents, the number of pledges were:

Alpha Gamma Delta	18
Alpha Delta Pi	28
Chi Omega	24
Delta Zeta	18
Kappa Delta	28

Correction

SIDELINES wishes to clarify an article in Friday's issue which stated that a laundry complex and air conditioning are planned for the campus.

The two proposals are part of a Capital Project proposal which, if approved would received funding in 1978-79. If the funding is received; the projects would be started the next year or later.

SIDELINES regrets the error.

ASB taking excess credit

To the Editor:

In last Friday's Sidelines there was quite a bit of coverage about the ASB. I realize that most of it was a paid advertisement in a section called "Tonto", however, buying space in a newspaper does not mean that you can make up your own achievements. It was falsely stated that the Rip-Off Concerts are run by the ASB.

I don't know what gave them that idea, but they are wrong. The Rip-Offs are run by Mindy Maples and Randy York with the office of Residence Hall Programming as the sponsor. If one was to look on the facilities request forms for each Rip-Off Concert, it will say—sponsored by Residence Hall Programming—not the ASB. The only exception would be the special Homecoming mini-concert, but one concert doesn't mean they run the whole show.

It's a fine idea for the ASB to try and blow their own horn, but they need to learn the music. Get the facts straight ASB.

Reader wants both weight rooms open for workouts

To the Editor:

I have been a student at this institution for several years and before I graduate I would like someone in the P.E. department to answer a few questions.

Why are students interested in weight lifting subjected to ridiculous inconveniences created by the closing of the Alumni Memorial Gym weight room after class, while maintaining the inadequate weight lifting facilities in the Murphy Center?

As if this weren't enough to infuriate the would-be lifter, the weight room in Murphy Center is also closed on Wednesday and Saturday.

This department, as well as the administration in general, needs to realize that the presentation of weekend recreational opportunities will stimulate student involvement on the campus.

In other words, if there are limited facilities available to the student on weekends, the student will seek a more exciting atmosphere (i.e. his home town).

I full realize and appreciate the fact that not all students share the zeal for lifting that I do, but Mr. Smotherman must also realize that when you cut out one-hundred students here, fifty students there, and so on, soon the group of neglectees assumes significant proportions.

I understand the problem that exists when unauthorized personnel destroy the equipment after class hours, but I feel there is a plausible solution at hand.

Would it be possible for students to sit in the weight room for supervisory as well as instructional purposes?

These students could attain extra credit in relevant classes or fulfill extra work graduate requirements by supervising the Alumni gym weight room for one or two hour shifts each week night and weekends.

One of the main reasons behind the need to reopen the old weight room is that it possesses twice the capacity for lifting as the new weight room.

Another problem with the weight room in the new gym is that it is frequently closed to students because of non-athletic events such as antique shows, concerts, educational demonstrations, food preparation demonstrations, etc.

Since consistency is the key word in lifting, one can see the problems that arise when the facilities are available on an inconsistent basis.

I've considered joining the spa in Jackson Heights Plaza but the price is too high for most students and it is absurd to pay the full time tuition at this school and not be permitted access to existing facilities for less than feasible reasons.

Any effort to reopen the weight room in the old gym will be appreciated by many students.

Name withheld by request.

Tonto's 'That's Entertainment' forgets a few credits

To the Editor:

This letter is sent to both apologize for and clarify statements in the ASB's recent publication Tonto. The article entitled "That's Entertainment" seems to have caused quite an uproar in the way it was written.

As the story turned out, it looked as though the ASB was attempting to take all the credit for bringing major concerts, rip-off concerts, the beer blast and Stunt Night.

This is not so.

Other than the Homecoming concert, ASB has nothing to do with bringing, say, Crosby, Stills and Nash to MTSU. This work is done by Special Events Committee of the Student Programming office, and the ASB must commend the members for a job well done over the years.

But what the article was in reference to was the Homecoming "Happening" Show which was held in the Grill. Although it took the form of a rip-off concert, it was not and should not have been labeled a "Rip-off" concert.

The reference to ASB's handling of Stunt Night was totally inaccurate. That event is in the capable hands of the Biology Club.

In regard to the beer blast statement in Tonto, we would like to say the Interfraternity Council played a major role in this event taking place and to recognize them for their efforts.

But to say that the ASB had nothing to do with this event is just as inaccurate as any misleading statements the article might have made.

We don't wish to dwell on technicalities, but the head line said "ASB goes all out helping keep students entertained." The ASB, or Associated STUDENT Body, does have its fingers in all of these programs. The main fault was in not giving credit to the actual persons who do a major portion of the work, and for that we are sincerely sorry.

Nine artists featured in 'Small Scale '77' show

Nine exhibitors from throughout the United States are featured in "Small Scale '77," a major art show which opened in the MTSU Art Barn Gallery Sunday.

"Invitations were awarded on the basis of consistently high quality of work and artistic merit," said Phillip Vander Weg, assistant professor of art at MTSU and director of the show.

"The works are presented in an unusually small format. Pieces are meticulously crafted so that the viewer is enticed into an intimate dialogue with each work," Vander Weg said. He explained that the majority of the works in the exhibit measure 12 inches or less. Media included in the show are paintings, ceramics, collage, assemblage, wood constructions, etchings and bronze castings.

"Frequently the artist display a real flair for tongue-in-cheek humor," Vander Weg said in describing works to be shown. "At times the real poignant dramas of country music are presented vividly in visual terms. Stronger dramas of a more universal nature, in some cases with social overtones, are alluded to in miniature environments."

"Other artists are primarily concerned with more abstract plastic media issues. All of the nine artists included in Small Scale '77 speak with real conviction and artistic maturity," Vander Weg continued.

The show's national significance arises from the regional variances which become submerged in a unified vision of works that demand the utmost in audience participation, he said.

Small Scale '77 opened with a reception Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. A flute quintet from the MTSU music department entertained throughout the event.

Exhibitors in the show are: Greg Bell, Pullman, Wash.; Michael Brenneman, Amherst, Mass.; Stephanie Cote', Chapel Hill, N.C.; Rudy Fernandez Jr., Salt Lake City, Utah; Matt Muscari, New York City; Franz Sphon, Lakewood, Ohio; Clary Stewart, Knoxville; Duncan Stewart, Pensacola, Fla.; and Alan Vaughn, Nashville.

Gallery hours are 8-4:30, weekdays; 8-noon, Saturdays; and 2-5 on Sundays. Small Scale '77 will continue through Nov. 23 in the Art Barn Gallery at MTSU. Admission is free.

Grand Champion named in band contest Oct. 22

High school marching bands from Tennessee, Kentucky and Indiana competed under clear blue skies on Horace Jones Field Saturday for the Grand Champion award in this year's Contest of Champions.

Thirty-two bands, eligible to compete by previously winning a state-level contest or by previously competing in the Contest of Champions were invited to this year's contest.

An enthusiastic crowd gathered to watch the competition, the band uniforms making colorful patches throughout the stands.

Kentucky schools fared best this year with George Rogers Clark High School from Winchester taking the Grand Champion award.

Meade County, from Brandenburg, Ky. placed as Reserve Grand Champion.

The Tennessee Governor's cup, an award presented to the highest ranking Tennessee band, was taken by McGavock for the sixth consecutive year.

The first place winner in the large class (bands with over 80 members) was George Rogers Clark, with Meade County placing second.

Winners in the small class were Briarcrest High School from Memphis taking the first prize and Danville High from Danville, Kentucky running second.

Competition began at 11 a.m. Saturday with the awards presentation completed at 10 p.m.

Camp counselor jobs available

Interviews for summer jobs as camp counselors to work with handicapped youths will be conducted by the Student Employment Center.

Appointments should be made in UC Room 328 before Nov. 7. The camp is located on Old Hickory Lake near Lebanon. Employment is for 10 weeks and a background in camp counseling, special education or physical education is helpful.

But experience is not necessary.

'Tempest' set for Oct. 27

The last of Shakespeare's great works, "The Tempest," will be presented on the stage of the Dramatic Arts Auditorium Oct. 27 at 8 p.m.

Performed by the New Shakespeare Company of San Francisco, the play will be presented free of charge and is open to the public.

"The Tempest" is considered a poetic testament, a farewell to the theater by Shakespeare. Like its predecessor, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Tempest" is peopled with magic characters--both good and evil. The setting is an enchanted isle, where the banished Duke of Milan, Prospero, and his daughter, Miranda, have escaped to save their lives.

Twelve years earlier, Prospero had allowed the affairs of state to come under the control of his brother, Antonio. With the aid of Alonso, King of Naples, Antonio overthrew his brother and set Prospero and Miranda adrift.

The two would have perished had it not been for their faithful friend and counselor, Gonzalo, who supplied the banished Prospero with his conjuring robe, wand, and books on magic.

Landing on an island, Prospero established his new dukedom and with the aid of magic ruled the creatures and elements.

As fate would have it, a boat bearing Antonio, Alonso, and Alonso's son Ferdinand passes by the island. Prospero seizes the opportunity to gain revenge and conjures up a tempest, a sea storm of great magnitude, which batters the ships but brings the voyagers safely to shore.

Caught in the midst of the past treasons are Miranda and Ferdinand, the hopes of a new generation.

The company's performance on the MTSU campus is presented by the Fine Arts Committee.

Speaker to examine King death

A program concerning a possible conspiracy in the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr., will be presented by Wallace Milam in the D.A. Tuesday, Oct. 25, at 8 p.m.

Also on the program will be Jack Kershaw, the attorney of King's convicted assassin, James Earl Ray.

Milam's portion of the program will include over 150 slides and an up-to-date account of Ray's recent escape from Brushy Mountain State Prison.

Milam will also discuss the action of Ray's first attorney, Percy Foreman, and Ray's contention that other people were involved in the Memphis slaying.

Kershaw will discuss Ray's polygraph test which was recently published in Playboy magazine.

The program, sponsored by the Ideas and Issues Committees, is free.

Grill returns to 11 p.m. closing

Extension of Grill hours on a trial basis ended last week due to lack of student interest, said Ralph Gould, Grill night manager.

The extra half-hour was a direct result of a bill passed by the ASB Senate Sept. 20, asking that the Grill stay open until midnight.

Compromising managers agreed to stay open until 11:30 p.m., beginning Oct. 12, for an indefinite period.

"There is a definite need for longer Grill hours," Speaker Mike McDonald, who sponsored the bill, said at that meeting.

But apparently students who took advantage of the extended hours did not go through the cash register line.

"One night we only made 59 cents," Vera McPherson, unit manager, said. "Three or four nights, nobody bought anything."

She added that students who came into the grill during the additional half-hour would simply talk or study.

"Well, you can't say we didn't try," McDonald said about the failure of his plan.

"We still want them to stay open until 11--the closing time specified in their contract."

McDonald said that some nights the Grill begins closing at 10:15 or 10:30.

"I understand about breaking even on profits," he said, "but the Grill is getting off easy by closing before 11."

Trophy may be retired at Little International

Little International, a farm-related competition between campus groups, will be held Tuesday, beginning at 12:15 in the new horse barn.

Twenty-five teams from clubs, dorms and greek organizations, have entered the competition, sponsored by the Block and Bridle Club.

Events include tug-of-war, pole climb (for men), egg throw, tobacco spit, corn shuck (for women), blind man wheelbarrow race, hotpants contest and livestock show.

Each team will compete in five events. Two first place trophies, one each for men and women teams, will be awarded on the basis of total points earned in competition.

Alpha Gamma Rho has won first place for the last two years. A third win will retire the trophy.

Norm Woodel, Channel 5's "Eye on the Road," will judge the hotpants contest. The winner will receive $25.

Entries for the hotpants competition will be accepted until late, Tuesday afternoon. Entry fee is $2.

At 1, livestock management students will begin showing about 50 livestock, including cattle and horses. Showmanship awards will be given to the best animals, which are owned by the MTSU agriculture farm.

A definite schedule of events will be posted in the UC basement on Oct. 24.

"Last year about 800 people attended," Little International chairman Rick Syler said. "We want everybody to come out this year and just have a good time."

Admission to the 11th annual event is 50 cents.

Events begin with the first round of tug-of-war for men at 12:20. Second round for men's tug-of-war is at 1:30 and the third round will be at 2:50. Finals are at 4.

Women's tug-of-war begins at 1 and second round will be held at 2. Third round is at 3:10, followed by finals at 3:45.

The cattle show will take place at 2:30 with the champion horse showmanship at 4:10. Overall showmanship class follows directly after at 4:30. Livestock events close with command equitation class at 6:20.

STATE 96 AND I-24 MURFREESBORO

'Black Sunday' showing boring for bravest coed

Heidi Reid, an MTSU senior, is officially Murfreesboro's bravest lady.

But the test of her courage, she said, didn't require too much bravery.

Reid, from Murfreesboro was the winner of a contest sponsored by Martin Theatre Oct. 15-21, which promoted the movie "Black Sunday" through the Daily News Journal and WMTS radio.

Entrants were asked to describe, in 25 words or less, why they felt they were brave enough to watch the movie alone. The girl who had written the best entry would receive 25 silver dollars if she could sit through a special midnight showing of the film by herself on Oct. 21.

"Black Sunday," shown at Martin this week, is billed as a suspenseful spy thriller, but Reid went to sleep after about 45 minutes.

"I was tense, waiting for something to happen," she said, "And it was a little strange being there by myself. After a while, I could figure out what was going to happen, and I just lost interest." She slept for about 35 minutes.

Although she was supposed to be alone in the theatre, for the first half-hour, the manager stood in the back of the theatre jingling the coins in his hands.

"I just didn't like the movie," she said.

Reid did not enter the contest on her own. A friend, John Smallrich, a senior from Charleston, W. Va., sent an entry to WMTS in her name after she had noticed an advertisement for the contest in the newspaper.

"When he told me he sent my name in, I couldn't believe it. I forgot all about it until the radio station called Thursday and told me I won," she said.

Smallrich, according to Reid, is an avid contest fan. But it's the first time either one of them has won "anything."

Reid said she gave the prize money to Smallrich, since "it was really his doing," and she didn't know how they would spend it.

"This was a joint effort," Reid said. "John sent my name in, but I'm the one who sat through it."

Less than 50 entries were received at the radio station, according to disc jockey Gary Lynn. The first 25 received two free passes to the movie.

The winning entry was:

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of death,
I shall fear no evil,
Because I am rough and tough
And don't give a damn."

Day care director finds children challenging

Most people think of day care centers as nothing more than babysitting services for working parents. Janet Camp, director of the MTSU Day Care Center, has always felt the centers are unique to the early educational development of children.

Her interest in this subject resulted in her recent appointment to the Tennessee Commission on Children and Youth.

Her six-year term on the commission will include work in the area of preliminary drafting of legislation on youth and children as well as assisting in studies and research for the state legislature.

Designed to work and coordinate services for youth and children, the nine-member commission includes a minister and a pediatrician.

"The commission did a lot of work last year on child abuse legislation," the director said. "I think I was chosen because they wanted more representation concerning early childhood education and development."

Camp has always worked in the field of early childhood education and "would not want to do anything else," she said. She has been with the MTSU Day Care Center since its beginning in 1970, but the beginning of her career goes back before that.

While working on her bachelor's degree in elementary education at Bucknell University in Pennsylvania, Camp spent her summers working in a day care center for the children of migrant farm workers.

"I decided then that I was committed to day care and to this life, she said. "It was an exciting time back then in the 1960's. It was just at the start of the war on poverty and there were plenty of jobs."

She went on to graduate school at the University of Wisconsin "to take everything I could find in early childhood education," she added. After receiving her master's degree in curriculum and instruction, Camp came to Tennessee and started working with children of low-income families at the John F. Kennedy research complex at George Peabody College. Center director for two of her five years at the complex, Camp also served as instructor for the Southeastern region's Head Start teachers.

Camp came to MTSU specifically to set up and open a laboratory day care center. "The day care center was originally set up to be a cooperative center run by MTSU students, the ones with children living in the married housing (where the center is located), but they never could get it to work," she explained. "There was no real student nucleus to keep it going."

Since MTSU was introducing an academic major in home economics, the facilities were offered to the department as a laboratory for teaching early childhood education.

"It was a new experience working with children from a different income level," she said, referring to the previous mixture of students' children and children from low income families in the community.

"Since we rely on federal funding for the center," Camp said. "we must go by their guidelines. "The eligibility standards changed when Title 4A was replaced by Title 20 (federal education standards), so now only children of low-income families are eligible."

Students to attend language meet

MTSU foreign language students and faculty will attend the statewide Tennessee Foreign Language Teaching Association Conference to be held at Ramada Inn I-40 in Nashville Oct. 28 and 29.

Banquets catering to Spanish, French and German students will precede lectures and workshops beginning Friday through Saturday.

Audio visual displays on teaching material will be featured.

Present and prospective teachers are invited to attend this workshop.

French instructor Mrs. Wera Howard and student Jerry Reed will be going as well as Dr. T. Coy Porter with students Maria James, Dulce Connelly, Tanya Graham and Debbie Knowles from the Spanish department.

The workshop is sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese, of which Dr. Porter is the state chairman.

Trombonist Winding to play at jazz concert

The MTSU Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of John Duke, music professor, will perform in a concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 1, in the Dramatic Arts Auditorium with guest artist Kai Winding, one of the most well known trombonists in the world.

Winding is being brought to MTSU in connection with Phi Mu Alpha, professional music fraternity, and the Music Shop.

Winding's visit will include a workshop for area high school students and university music majors at 4 p.m. Winding will talk about how to play the trombone and how to improvise, according to Duke. "You might say we're going to pick his brain," he explained.

Winding, born in Denmark, was raised in New York City from the age of 12. His professional career began following his graduation from high school and soon led to his association as featured soloist with Benny Goodman and Stan Kenton.

He has produced record albums and is now concentrating his efforts toward guest performances and clinics with school and university musical organizations along with studio assignments for Hollywood films and TV shows.

During the workshop, Winding will work with the Jazz Ensemble. "He helps groups to become more professional," Duke said. "It's like having Joe Namath come to MTSU to show the football team how to throw a football."

The Jazz Ensemble, in its fourth year, plays Big Band Jazz and Jazz Rock along the lines of Stan Kenton, Buddy Rich, Thad Jones, and Count Basie.

The Jazz Ensemble played for the Thursday night Rip Off concert in the University Center Grill recently.

The Ensemble is a group of students who receive credit for the first two semesters. However, for the most part they seem to stay in the group even after they are no longer receiving credit, according to Duke. The ensemble is not open to men only, but this year's ensemble has 19 males and only one female vocalist Jeanni Stalcup.

The Ensemble has many performances scheduled during the school year. According to Jim Holder, a Columbia instrumental music education major, the group will play in a two-day tour for high school students as a public relations effort.

The Jazz Ensemble will also play at the State Jazz Festival, which is made up of professional groups and school jazz groups.

Syl-la-ba-loo, the Saturday, noon TV game show aired on Channel 17, Nashville, and produced in the Learning Resources Center on campus, also recruited the Jazz Ensemble to do the music for the show. In another TV appearance, the group played for Ron Kaiser's "Springtime" show, aired twice last Spring on Channel 5, Nashville.

Hungry Delaware sticks Blue Raiders with near-record rout

by Eddie Gossage
Assistant Sports Editor

Where does a football team go after a 60-7 loss?

That is the question facing MTSU head coach Ben Hurt after his team's defeat at the hands of the Fightin' Blue Hens from Delaware.

SPORTS

"We'll just try to forget about that game and concentrate on the OVC schools," Hurt replied last night. "We just look forward to each game one at a time."

That should rank as the understatement of the year, considering the fact that this was the second worst defeat in MTSU's long football history. The worst was a 70-7 loss to Murray way back in 1933.

Hurt stressed, however, that while the players want to win badly, they do not possess "God-given talents."

The loss placed "a great deal of pressure on Hurt," as one Chattanooga newspaper mentioned in a column Sunday morning. However, Hurt said the only pressure he felt came from himself.

"Anytime you coach, there is pressure on you. There always will be in a profession like this," the Raider coach said.

"However, I haven't felt any pressure other than that I put on myself, because I want to do good."

A loss of such magnitude may be as important a point in Hurt's career as well as the future of Delaware football.

Going into the game, Delaware had slipped to 2-3-1. The Blue Hens were mentioned prior to the season as a contender for Division II national honors, but key injuries to offensive players had dropped Delaware into its worst record in years. The Blue Hen coaching staff said they had to win in order to salvage an already disappointing season.

MTSU moved the ball down the field on its second possession to take an early 7-0 lead on a two-yard plunge by senior fullback Mike Moore.

The two defenses held the other's offenses in check throughout the first quarter.

Then the second quarter deluge began.

This period went down in Raider record books. Middle Tennessee gave up more points (39) in this quarter than any other single period in Blue Raider football history. This was to be the downfall of the MTSU team, both mentally and physically.

MTSU went to the locker room completely demoralized and Delaware left with momentum which carried them through the second half.

Fullback Mike Moore attempts to shake a tackle as an offensive lineman and running back Robbie Rogers lead the way.

The Blue Hens came back into the second half and scored three more touchdowns.

Individually, Delaware's Pete Good was the leading rusher in the game, picking up 113 yards in 12 carries.

Mike Moore once again led the Raiders with 83 yards in 29 carries.

Bates, who prepped at Antioch High School in Nashville, had only taken one collegiate snap prior to Saturday's game. At Delaware, Bates threw two interceptions in two attempts before being replaced again by Robinson.

Austin Peay, MTSU's opponent this weekend, is coming off a loss to Nicholls State, which snapped the Peay Governors' five-game winning streak. The Govs, who went into the game as the tenth ranked division II team in the nation, host the Raiders this weekend in their homecoming game.

The loss may not be to MTSU's advantage according to Hurt. "We're both coming off a loss and that's not good. Austin Peay is unbeaten in the OVC. Naturally, we'd rather be coming off a win."

Ben Hurt's toughest old fight: keeping his job?

No matter what happens in the last four football games, head coach Ben Hurt is assured of his own personal spot in MTSU history books.

With Saturday's loss at Delaware, the Raiders' record dropped to 1-6 for the season, insuring a fifth consecutive losing season.

Hurt has become the first coach ever to post three straight losing seasons at MTSU.

In fact, only once in the past has a Raider team suffered three straight losing campaigns.

In 1932 Frank Falkinberry's team finished 4-6. E.M. Waller has marks of 2-6-1 and 2-7 in 1933 and 34. The next season, however, under new coach Johnny Floyd, the Raiders posted a perfect 8-0 record.

Frankly Speaking

by Frank Vickers
Sports Editor

The 1-6 record held by MTSU so far this year equals the worst start ever by a Raider team. In 1969 Don Fuoss lost six of his first seven games on the way to a 1-9 season. It was Fuoss' first and last season as MTSU coach.

If Hurt should return for another campaign, he will set another precedent in Raider football annals. Since the inception of the football program in 1912, five coaches have begun the season with 1-5 records. None returned for another season.

The number of people voicing the opinion that Hurt should break that tradition seems to be dwindling.

In a column in Sunday's Chattanooga News-Free Press, Assistant

Sports Editor Roy Exum listed Hurt among "coaches reportedly in dire trouble."

One campus fraternity has begun production of "We're Hurtin' With Hurt" buttons. Sales are reportedly booming.

At this point, the outlook for the remainder of the season does not point toward any improvement. In the last two seasons the Raiders are 1-7 against the four remaining opponents.

Even Hurt's attitude has become more and more subdued. One might go so far as to call it a reversal of attitude.

When he took over as Raider coach in 1975 Hurt told MTSU supporters to give him three years to produce a winner.

At the beginning of this season he stated that although the team would be improved, the tough schedule might prevent any improvement in the record.

Since upsetting UT-Chattanooga last year, the Raiders are 2-11. After that win Hurt said that the team was "a year away from where he wanted to be."

The week before the UT-C game this year he said "we are not a good football team right now."

Prior to the season opener this year, Hurt said "we had the best recruiting season I've ever had as head coach this past year."

Last night he told a Sidelines reporter that his players do not have a lot of "God-given talent."

Although the players may not have "God-given talent," untimely errors have been the Raiders' downfall all season. A team so plagued by mistakes is not the mark of a well-disciplined team.

A coach can sometimes make a winner out of a group of mediocre players. The example of Johnny Majors at Tennessee proves that coaching isn't everything, but at this point it appears that Ben Hurt's toughest fight may well be the fight to keep his job.

Harrier chances 'crippled' at WKU Invitational

by Tom Wood

Dean Hayes has had that sort of feeling before.

Twice in the past, he has had top-notch track or cross-country teams waylaid by injuries, and now, it looks as though it may happen again.

When MTSU's cross-country team traveled to Bowling Green, Ky., Saturday, it was already known that senior Dennis Votava and sophomore Randy Oliver would be forced to miss running in the Western Kentucky Invitational—Votava because of a bad back and Oliver because of a sore ankle.

Before the sun had reached its mid-day peak, the damage had been done. And Hayes thought back to the times in 1968 and 1959 when his good teams were crippled to the point of no return.

But Saturday, Dana McCutcheon re-injured his knee, Jack Langford's hip gave out and Gary Perry, who had been sick all week before the meet, simply ran out of gas after about two miles and retired to the sidelines.

That left only Steve Harvison, Linton Whaley and Roger Kelsey to finish the race, and it takes five runners to finish to qualify for a team score. Out of 80 or more runners, Harvison finished 54th, Whaley 58th and Kelsey 59th.

"It's just one of those things," Hayes said last night. "When the injuries hit, there's not much you can do except stand around and watch. It is a kind of helpless feeling, knowing there is nothing you can do about it."

"One of the main reasons we went to Bowling Green was to look over the course, and let some of them get used to it (the OVC meet will be run there Nov. 5). We also wanted to see what kind of teams Murray and Western fielded this year."

MTSU will find out what kind of team another OVC powerhouse has when the Tennessee Intercollegiate Conference meet runs this Saturday at Nashville's Percy Warner Park. East Tennessee, which will run in the TIC, is expected to battle with Murray for the league championship next month.

Those two championship-calibre teams Hayes referred to in 1968 and 1959 are two of the best he has ever fielded. Hayes had one of the top high school teams in Chicago in 1959. When the season began, he had eight healthy runners, and by the time the city championships were held, he was down to two.

And in 1968 he saw his nationally-ranked mile relay team at MTSU decimated by injuries. All four went out within a three-week period.

OVC Wrapup

Peay falls 15-13, breaks five-game win streak

Austin Peay's surprising football team had its unbeaten string broken at five games Saturday as Nicholls State upset the Governors 15-13 in Clarksville.

Coach Boots Donnelly's squad, who was picked to finish last in the Ohio Valley Conference, was ranked tenth nationally going into the contest.

Nicholls State took an early lead in the contest on a 31-yard field goal by Glen MaGee in the initial quarter. Quarterback Tim Bailey then hit Tom Rigby with a 10-yard touchdown pass to put the Colonels on top 9-0.

APSU fought back, however, with a 12-yard touchdown scamper by fullback Waddell Whitehead in the second period. Cosmo Cochran, the game's leading rusher with 111 yards, ran in from the one to give the Gobs a 13-9 halftime lead.

After a scoreless third quarter, Richard Auzenne provided the winning touchdown on a seven-yard run with 10:40 remaining in the game.

The loss dropped the Governors record to 5-2 overall. Peay still remains tied for the conference lead with Tennessee Tech, however, with a 3-0 OVC mark.

Johnson City, East Tennessee head coach Ray Frazier announced intentions to resign at the end of the season.

Murray State kicking specialist Hank LaGorce kicked the game winning field goal with 1:44 left in the fourth quarter to lift the Racers to their second OVC victory of the season.

Murray is now 2-2 in the OVC and 3-4 overall.

LaGorce struck first for the Racers on a 31-yard field goal in the second quarter, a lead which Murray took to the locker room at halftime.

However, East Tennessee's Bobby Neff tied the score late in the third quarter on a 37 yard field goal. The Bucs then went ahead 10-3 following a 47 yard touchdown dash by Charles Clark early in the final period.

Danny Lee Johnson tied the score for Murray with a 10 yard run

ETSU's Neff attempted an unsuccessful 58-yard field goal in the closing seconds of the game.

The loss leaves East Tennessee's record at 1-6 overall and winless in the OVC.

Tennessee Tech 24

Morehead 22

Tech had to play come-back ball for the first time all season as Jimmy Maynard hit Cecil Fore with a six-yard touchdown pass with only five seconds remaining in the game as the Golden Eagles remained undefeated.

Maynard scored Tech's other two touchdowns to lead the seventh-ranked Division II team.

Tech is now 3-0 in OVC play, tied with Austin Peay for the conference lead. Morehead dropped to 2-2 in the OVC and 2-3-1 overall.

The winning touchdown was the culmination of a 79 yard drive in the last two minutes of play.

Morehead set a school record for total offense, gaining 551 yards. Quarterback Phil Sims connected on 17 of 37 passes for 370 yards and two touchdowns to Dorron Hunter.

Eastern Kentucky 35

Western Kentucky 10

Eastern quarterback Ernie House threw three touchdown passes, two to Jim Nelson, and running back Stan Mitchell ran for two scores as Eastern dropped corss-state rival Western Kentucky in the Colonels homecoming game.

Mitchell, who leads the OVC with an average of 104.4 yards rushing per game, scored on a two-yard plunge in the first quarter while Nelson scored on a 21 yard pass from House. The House-Nelson combination struck again in the second quarter, this time on a 24-yard scoring pass.

Eastern opened the second half scoring on a 39-yard pass from House to Mitchell. Mitchell scored again in the fourth quarter on an eight-yard run.

Western put the game's last points on the board, this time on a four-yard pass from tailback Mike Hayes to Bill Lindsey.

Eastern rose to the .500 mark, climbing to 3-3 overall and 2-2 in conference play while Western fell to 1-6 overall and 1-3 in the conference.
