

Wednesday Is 'Take A Stand On War' Day

ASB Adopts Nondescript Resolution

The ASB Thursday night passed a resolution adopting a middle-of-the-road policy concerning the activities on campus of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee.

"The ASB Senate recognized the right of persons to dissent, but being the voice of the entire student body and not knowing their opinions on such a personal matter, we cannot at this time actively support or denounce the Vietnam Moratorium," the resolution read.

Proposed by Senator Jack Hayes, the non-committal resolution was passed with one dissenting vote and two absences. It was then sent to the ASB House where it passed by a 36-22 margin.

Before passing the resolution the Senate heard Van Martin, ASB president, and Tony Martin, co-chairman of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee.

"If the students have something pertinent to say to the school it is their obligation to bring it to us (the ASB). If it is brought to us and we don't listen to all sides then we are not a representative government whether or not we approve it."

Tony Martin spoke to the Senate on the purpose of the Vietnam Moratorium.

"The purpose of the Moratorium is to acquaint the students with what is happening in Vietnam. We, our age group, are the only ones involved. We think it is quite unfair ethically speaking," stated Tony Martin.

He emphasized that the Committee was not calling for a dismissal of all classes but asked that dismissal be left to the discretion of the instructor.

Carole Moore To Reign As Homecoming Queen

MTSU voters went to the polls Friday and elected Carole Moore, Nashville senior, homecoming queen 1969. Four class attendants were chosen to form the royal court for Miss Moore.

The queen and her court will reign over the homecoming festivities Oct. 18 and will be crowned at the MTSU-Murray State game on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Moore was selected in a run-off election with Sarah Smith, Carthage senior. Rounding out the slate of nominees for queen were Brenda Hayes, Lewisburg; Ishy Rhea, Culeoka; Zita Black, Murfreesboro; and Cynthia Campbell, Cleveland.

Sherry Walls of Nashville was chosen by senior voters to represent their class as attendant. Miss Walls was selected in a run-off with Betty

'Give Peace A Chance' Pleads Moratorium Group

MTSU students, along with those from 500 colleges and universities throughout the country, will be demonstrating Wednesday to end the war in Vietnam.

In a meeting last Thursday, the MTSU Vietnam Moratorium Steering Committee decided that local protests should take the form of "an enlightening of the student body and surrounding community."

The committee, composed of six faculty members and nine students, designate "Give Peace a Chance" the theme for the MTSU protest movement.

The committee also encouraged students to wear black armbands and to participate in a spontaneous "jam" session in front of the UC. There will also be a desk at the UC to provide interested students with information on the Moratorium and the Vietnam war.

At 7:30 that night there will be a candlelight march starting in front of the UC.

A banner will be placed on the front portion of the UC Theatre saying "Give Peace a Chance."

"There will be no moratorium on classes as such," stated Tony Martin, member of the Moratorium Steering Committee. "We will encourage teachers to either dismiss their classes so interested students can take part in the protest or to discuss the Vietnam war with their students in class on Wednesday. We would prefer the teachers hold discussions in class."

The meeting Thursday was actually the gathering of several independent groups which were organized without the knowledge that others existed.

See editorials, pages four, five.

One of these independent organizations, Albatross, was reluctant to merge with MTSU's Vietnam Moratorium Committee. After members of the steering committee outlined their plan of action to Albatross, they decided to merge.

However, a mix-up occurred after the meeting and Albatross printed and sent to the students through the mail a correspondence which stated: "Albatross, a newly formed campus organization, is sponsoring a rally Wednesday morning at 9:30 in protest of the war in Vietnam." (continued on page 2)

Hardaway Challenges House Parliamentary Procedures

By David Word

Roger Hardaway, junior senator from Tullahoma, blasted Speaker of the House Cliff Gillespie Thursday night saying that "he had a total lack of responsible knowledge of parliamentary procedure."

The accusation followed Thursday's House meeting in which Hardaway was denied the privilege of defending his House of Representation Bill which had been amended by Duane Sawyer, Nashville junior.

According to Hardaway, Gillespie informed him that the bill he presented Sept. 25 was not longer his because it had been defeated and was being rewritten by Sawyer.

Hardaway objected stating, "How can 95% of the language be from my own typewriter and the bill not belong to me?"

Hardaway chaired a Senate appointed committee which re-wrote a Mandatory Club and Organization Representation Bill presented by former Speaker of the House Pat O'Neal. The rewritten bill was presented to the Senate in its first meeting of this year.

Hardaway's bill passed the Senate unanimously and was referred to the House.

According to the House minutes of Sept. 25, Hardaway's bill was voted on and defeated. After it was defeated a motion was introduced by Sawyer to amend Article 4 of the bill. Sawyer's bill was also defeated, according to the minutes.

"Further amendments on this bill will be read at the next meeting," the minutes continue.

According to Robert's Rules of Order, by which the House is run, motions to amend a bill must be acted on before

Bond To Visit Campus Thursday

Julian Bond, 29-year-old Georgia state legislator and first Negro named for Vice-Presidential nominations at the last Democratic Convention, will be on campus to deliver an address at 8:30 Thursday night in the gymnasium.

The Black Student Union and Public Programs Committee will sponsor a reception honoring the speaker in the gym lobby immediately following the program, according to William Holland, director of public programs.

Bond had been originally scheduled to speak here on Oct. 9, but was forced to postpone his visit because of an obligation to testify in front of Sen. Russell Long's Senate Subcommittee.

Because of increased student interest, Holland said, the site of the program has been moved from the Dramatic Arts auditorium to the gym and the time has been moved forward from the originally planned 8 p.m. to 8:30.

Bond's plane will be met at 6 p.m. Thursday at Nashville airport by Holland and some MTSU students.

Representatives from Nashville's television stations will also be at the airport, microphones and cameras in hand, to greet Bond. Because the length of these interviews isn't determined, no special programs have been planned here prior to Bond's speech, Holland said.

Moratorium . . .

There will be rock groups and speakers throughout the day. Please cut your classes on Wednesday and attend the rally on the porch of the University Center.
In a letter to the SIDELINES Saturday, this statement was retracted. The letter said: "In regard to the communication issued by Albatross on Friday, we the members of Albatross, have decided to abide by the six points set up by the MTSU Vietnam Moratorium Committee, and urge all students to do the same." The letter was signed Albatross.

Co-chairmen Bruce Mulkey and Martin gave their views Friday on what they hope the moratorium will accomplish on campus and in the community.

"On campus, we hope for an awakening of opinion concerning the moral and ethical reasons: hence the personal conviction essence of such a campaign.
Mulkey plans to take the moratorium to the community. He does not have hopes for much success, however.
"We only started last week and I guess that our reception in the community will be completely negative," Mulkey stated.
"We hope to at least get people to think about the issues. We also hope for help in accomplishing our goal -- to stop the war in Vietnam," he added.

ASB . . .

It has been suggested by the group that the classes hold a discussion of the war or a dismissal of classes.
I am opposed to the war on economic grounds and for moral and ethical reasons," he stated when questioned about his personal views on the war. "We speak for ourselves and would like to speak for all of the students."
Senator Hayes posed the question to Tony Martin, "How do we engage the student interest in this?"
Mulkey said he has talked with several church leaders, but nothing has been planned with the churches.
"We believe the initial reaction is favorable. However, we are not sure if many students recognize what is going on. We want a vote to give students a chance to express their views," Martin answered.

Hardaway . . .

a vote is taken on the original bill.
Even though Hardaway's bill was defeated and Sawyer's amendment was defeated, the bill was given to Sawyer to rewrite.
The only changes Sawyer made were to introduce his original amendment into Article 4 and change the number of meetings per month. Hardaway's bill called for weekly meetings; Sawyer's called for bi-monthly meetings.

Sandra Baugh of Chattanooga was selected by the Junior class in a run-off election with Rosemary Escue of Murfreesboro. Other juniors nominated were Diane Gannon, Shelbyville; Jane Kerr, Alcoa; Cindy Potter, Madison; and Carole Thornton, Nashville.
The sophomore election of Thursday had to be invalidated due to an ineligible candidate. Friday's voting produced a run-off between Linda Augsburger of Murfreesboro, and Barbara Drake of Nashville. Sophomores will return to the polls today to select their attendant in a run-off election to be held on the second floor of the University Center between 8 a.m. and noon. Other sophomores that were nominated were Martha Driver, Nashville; and Marti Pickeron, Murfreesboro.

Connie Kemp of Murfreesboro was selected as the freshman attendant. Miss Kemp was selected in a run-off election with Jane Kimbrough of Nashville. Other freshmen nominees were Kiane Hoge, Marilyn Hahn, Beth St. Clair, and Linda Weibley.
According to calculations made by the election commission 846 students voted in Thursday's balloting, while 475 students voted in the Friday run-off elections. When questioned about the turnout, ASB election commissioner, Larry Gillem said, "It was actually more than we expected. In an election such as this we are happy when ten per cent of the student body votes."

Why I Am Opposed To The Vietnam War

In separate question and answer interviews with David Word, managing editor of the SIDELINES, Friday, Bruce Mulkey and Tony Martin, two of the co-chairmen for MTSU's Vietnam Moratorium Committee told why they are opposed to the war in Vietnam.

WORD: Have you ever been in Vietnam?

MARTIN: No, but I am in advanced ROTC and more than likely I will be there next year. I have asked to be placed in the helicopter medical corps. If I have to go there, I want to be saving lives instead of taking them.

MULKEY: No, I have never been in Vietnam. I do have friends who have been there and I have friends who are there now. Most of my friends who come back tell me that the Vietnamese people do not want us over there.

WORD: Tony Martin, if you were in Vietnam and came under attack, would you defend yourself?

MARTIN: Yes, I think I would defend myself. If I were on a helicopter which was evacuating a wounded man and we came under enemy fire, I would return it. But I would also defend myself against a berserk marine if the situation arose.

WORD: Last week there were less men killed in Vietnam than there were on the highways in the states of California, Illinois, New York and Ohio. Do you feel President Nixon is fulfilling his promise to the American people of turning more of the war over to the South Vietnamese?

MULKEY: The government (United States) has given up the idea of winning, so why should we have any casualties over there.

MARTIN: Those two situations are not even comparable. Take a person who was killed on the highway and one who was killed in Vietnam. The person who died on the highway had a choice. He could either take his car on the highway or stay at home. He had a choice. But the person who died in Vietnam may not have had a choice. He may not have wanted to be there and surely he did not want to die. His death was imposed on him.

WORD: Bruce (Mulkey), do you think the Vietnamese people are interested in ending the war?

MULKEY: Not really. The Vietnam war is a civil war. It is not similar to the war the American people were subject to when we were in Korea. The Vietnamese people have been fighting for independence for 24 years, first against the French and now against each other. President Thieu was a mercenary for the French against the Vietnamese people. Now that Thieu and Vice-President Key are running things in the South, they are only interested in prolonging their position. If the United States got out, they would be finished.

WORD: Tony, do you feel the United States has the right to be in Vietnam?

MARTIN: It seems to me that we are forcing western style democracy on the people of Vietnam. Are we the philosopher nation? Do we own all the stock in democracy? If the American constitution stated that the American people did indeed own all the stock in democracy and the people of this country were unequivocal in favor of such an article in the constitution, then we as a corporation can theoretically sell stock in democracy to nations who desire "X" amount of stock. As a parent corporation we would be obligated to defend our subsidiary corporations and their stock holders.

If this were the situation and a nation wanted to buy stock in our democracy, we should fight for it. However, this seems unlikely in view of the nature of man for self-aggrandizement.

WORD: Bruce (Mulkey), do you think President Nixon can ignore the nation-wide Vietnam Moratorium like he said he would?

MULKEY: The enthusiasm being shown at MTSU and around the country will definitely have some impact on Nixon and the country. It would be almost impossible for Nixon to completely ignore this enthusiasm.

WORD: Are you opposed to the war in Vietnam?

MULKEY: Yes, I don't even think we should have been there in the first place. Even some of the nation's leaders are beginning to take a second look at our involvement in Southeast Asia as are the people who are involved in the moratorium. Seventeen of the United States senators will not show up for work Wednesday, the day of the moratorium. I don't think the senate will have enough members present to have a quorum. In the House 30 to 40 members have decided to debate the issues of the war all night.

MARTIN: Opposed to the war? Definitely. We are telling the people of Vietnam what is good for them. Where do we get the right to do that?

Care About People? Join Up With CUBE

By Becky Freeman

Did you ever take a wrong turn off Mercury Boulevard and find yourself in an alley which turned out to be a street? If you haven't, chances are that sometime during your four years at MTSU you will. As you go on you will see shacks that are homes to hundreds of children in this area.

These children have no way out of this environment unless they have help. Help from where? Man, it has to be from YOU. There's no one else.

How? The answer is CUBE (Creating Understanding by Effort). Last year CUBE sponsored a tutoring project to help these kids. CUBE plans to do it again this year, according to Lynda Myers, one of the members of the organizing committee.

CUBE is going to have an orientation session on Tuesday night at 7:30 about the role of the tutor in assisting disadvantaged children. The meeting will feature a panel discussion. The panelists will include:

Ersine Smith, CUBE pres.; Katie Wilson, a Neighborhood Service aide; Robert Behrens assistant professor of psychology; Mickey Booth, Edgell Tutorial Program president; George Keem, director of student teaching; and Ralph White head of the education department.

Why A Vietnam Moratorium?

Students on many of the nation's college campuses will voice their disapproval of the involvement of the United States in Vietnam Wednesday in the first action of the Vietnam Moratorium.

The moratorium is expected to be the largest anti-war demonstration in the history of the nation. Most of the support of the protest comes from Americans under 30.

There are many reasons for the younger generation being so keenly aware and concerned about the world situation.

This generation is the first to grow up under the influence of television. The bloody conflicts of battle in the jungles of Vietnam have been brought home into the living rooms of America.

When these accounts of the war are compared with the ugly pictures of Americans starving and dying in rat-infested ghettos, it becomes very obvious that the billions of dollars spent on the war effort could be used more profitably at home to save life instead of taking life in an apparently endless war.

The younger generation is tired of some politicians of another generation using Vietnam as a political issue to further their careers. The politicians did create the war, but the young are the ones who must suffer the effects while they have no official voice in deciding the policies.

While the leaders of our land sit behind their fancy desks in Washington, young Americans kill and get killed in the jungles of Vietnam. How many students at MTSU have lost brothers, friends, husbands or husbands-to-be to bullets in Southeast Asia?

Also, the young generation is too well educated to be fooled by token troop withdrawals and draft reforms made by the President.

The Moratorium probably won't stop the war, but if it can make Americans stop and think about the destiny of our country, and if it can make the older generations consider what the young are trying to say, it will be a success.

The SIDELINES endorses the Vietnam Moratorium as a time when all concerned students can express their feelings in a peaceful manner. It is an individual decision - and should be - but we encourage all students, not just those who will outwardly display their concern, to take a few minutes Wednesday and think about the Vietnam issue.

The Reason Ebo Left MTSU

Editor:

I am writing this letter to the editor to answer some questions which the MTSU student body, faculty and administration have been asking me concerning the departure of Ibrahim "Ebo" Bangoura. My answer is short and to the point. He left because he was thoroughly disgusted and disillusioned with the false values and negative attitudes held by the vast majority of the people with whom he came in contact at MTSU. My only reaction to his decision to leave MTSU is--smart move Ebo.

Vaught Praises MTSU Students For Cooperation At Fashion Show

Editor:

Too often people forget to reward others with words of praise or compliments that are justly earned. I have said many times that I have been proud of the student body of this institution because the large majority exhibit responsible attitudes which result in good conduct. Monday night, Oct. 6, was no exception, and I wish to take this opportunity to compliment the students of MTSU.

The American Marketing Association presented a fashion show in the Tennessee Room of the Old SUB which was attended by more than 500 students. The advertising for the show had included an offer of a free dance period in conjunction with the show.

However, the AMA had inadvertently opened the entire activity to the public, unaware that university policy prohibits participation by the general public of the community in a dance on campus. Therefore, the Association was forced to cancel that portion of the activities.

When I made the announcement to this effect at the opening of the show, I did so with much regret because I realized such would be a disappointment to those present.

However, you who were present at the show received the announcement graciously, respected the change and remained for the entire show, expressing your approval and enjoyment of the show and music through your applause.

There were some few who came late and were not aware of the restriction regarding dancing and attempted to dance. When I informed those couples of the restriction, they respected the request in a most congenial manner.

May I say to you students who were present that, as sponsor of the American Marketing Association and as a faculty member, I am deeply grateful to you for your conduct and for your support of the fashion show and the music provided by Thee Mann Combo. You have demonstrated publicly that the student body at MTSU is one of which we can be justly proud.

TIDE CHANGES IN RAIDER COUNTRY

By GARY DAVENPORT
Sports Editor

The Tide changed in Nashville, and the tide was changing in Blue Raider Country Saturday night as Don Fuoss' gridiron squad took a 14-0 beating at the hands of Eastern Kentucky, defending Ohio Valley Conference champions.

While MTSU fans were witnessing the encounter on the Horace Jones field, Vanderbilt enthusiasts were watching their hard-fighting Commodores give Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide their first loss of the still-young season.

The Raiders were fighting with the same enthusiasm shown against the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga last weekend early in the first half, but the tide suddenly changed.

Attempt Blocked

Nares Chooobua came into the game after a Raider drive was halted on the Colonel 36-yard line to attempt a long field goal. His soccer-style kicking proved his fate this time, however, as his line-drive was blocked, only to be picked up by Sidney Yaddell, a 6-2, 225-pound defensive end, and run into the end zone 57-yards out for the first score of the game.

From here on out the Raider spark just wasn't present, as the offense failed to generate a real determined drive, and the defense, while playing with a still fired-up manner, just didn't do the job as they did last weekend.

All-American candidate Teddy Taylor, who blocked Chooobua's field goal to set up the Colonel score, proved the difference for the Eastern defense as he stunted and shifted all over the field to halt runner after runner.

Eastern got their second tally of the ballgame on a drive that started on the Raider 39-yard line, following a shorter-than-usual kick by Ron Taylor, who boomed the ball deep in Colonel territory all night.

After the Raiders' attempts were halted, Taylor got off the fourth outstanding play of the quarter with a booming punt covering 50 yards.

Jimmy Brooks, the leading Eastern rusher, was halted on an attempt up the middle, but quarterback Bill March hit junior Jimmy Kelly on a 21-yard toss, before March carried for three. Brooks went for two, and March hit Kelly for their second tally after he had gotten behind the secondary for a 14-yard play. Tom Gillespie kicked his second extra point of the game to end the scoring.

While apparently lacking the spark they showed against UTC, the Raiders played a determined game marked by some outstanding defensive play.

The first quarter saw three outstanding plays, the first being a good secondary effort by Raymond Bonner. March had dropped in the pocket and rifled a pass to split end Steve Kirksey. Bonner played it perfectly and deflected the ball after cutting in front of Kirksey to halt their drive temporarily and make it third-and-nine.

Later in the quarter Ron Taylor got off one of his beautiful spiraling punts, this one covering 62-yards and traveling into the end zone.

On the ensuing drive by the Colonels, Loharrel Stevenson made his first of three deflections on a third and four play. Stevenson rushed in from his right defensive end position with his hands up, like a good end, and tipped the ball to halt their drive.

Stevenson Shines

On a third-and-seven play Stevenson rushed in from his end position again, with 10:39 left in the game, and deflected his second pass, halting the Colonel drive on the Raider 28 yard line, forcing Tom Graebler to punt.

Later in the quarter he did it again, this time on a third-and-eleven situation, halting their drive again with 4:12 left to play.

A minute later David Stewart made one of those rare-great catches, jumping way up in the air to snag a fifteen-yarder and moving the ball to the 42-yard line.

Perhaps the most unusual play of the first half was the calling of a fair catch by Taylor Edwards, something he just doesn't do.

In the third quarter of play, the most prominent play was the efforts of Bonner and safety Larry Hayes on a Jimmy Brooks power-sweep play.

On a first-and-10 play, Brooks took the option pitchout and went around right end for what looked a sizeable gain. Suddenly Bonner and Hayes came up from their secondary positions in unison to swarm the ol' number 23 for no gain. Jamie Jamison made another good catch later in the period, but received a jarring tackle in the next period.

Gene Carney received a jarring blow, resulting in a fumble on the 24 yard line.

The comeback play of the game was credited to Edmond Miller, who in the excitement of Middle Tennessee State's linkmen have started the season on a winning note, winning the Murray State Invitational over the weekend with a 590 total, 19 strokes over second-place Austin Peay State.

The Raiders took the first three places, with Jeff Riley shooting a 74-69-143 total to take the top spot. Mike Whiteside was the number two finisher with a 74-71-145 score, and Art Kraft came in third with a 147 tally.

Playing 18-holes on the Oakes Country Club and the other 18-holes on the Callaway Golf and Country Club, the Invitational included most of the top teams in the Ohio Valley Conference. Tennessee Tech finished third overall, and Murray, considered the favorite going into the tournament due to the home-course advantage, finishing fourth.

E.K. Patty was real pleased with their performance following the competition. "They played pretty much like we expected them too. All the boys did a fine job."

The linkmen will travel to the Sewanee Invitational this weekend for a match there. Others trying to top favorites MTSU will be Austin Peay, Vanderbilt, East Tennessee State, and Sewanee.
