'Veronica's Room' brings suspense to the stage

by John Pitts

Leaving the MTSU arena theatre last night, I was confronted with a problem: how could I write about "Veronica's Room" without giving away the story?

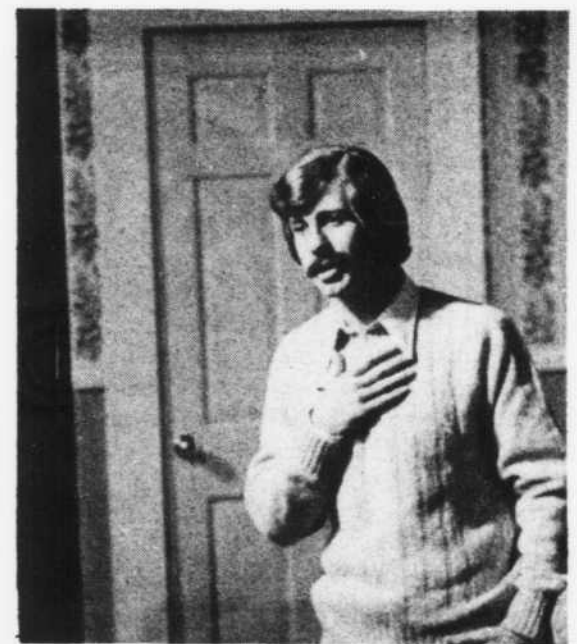

Written by Ira Levin, author of "Rosemary's Baby," the show starts off in a seemingly harmless manner, with a young couple (Jim Howard and Barbara Ambrose) meeting an older couple (Carl Turner and Karla Pate) at a restaurant and going home with them to look at a photograph.

It seems that Ambrose resembles a young girl the two older people once knew, and they have some plans for her.

Maybe I've already said too much, but the show ominously builds in emotional intensity until the end, when the four cast members are united on the stage for a final time.

The cast does a tremendous job, protecting their parts in a total sense, not just with a voice or body movements.

Most impressive is Ambrose, who seemed very involved in her characterization of Susan Kerner, a college student who's not ever really sure what she has been caught up in as the show races toward the end.

Chuck Thompson

Howard, Pate and Turner are also top-notch performers whose versatility is called upon more than once by the unusual characters they portray.

The show is billed as containing "mature subject matter" which means leave the kiddies at home, folks.

I really wish I could tell you more, but it would get a lot of people mad at me and would ruin the show before it ever gets started.

All that can be said is that the show is very serious, has several surprises and is well written, directed and performed. Best of all, it's free to all MTSU students. What more can you ask?

"Veronica's Room" opens tonight in the arena at 8 p.m. Reservations for seats in the theatre are advisable and can be made by calling 898-2716. The show will continue through Nov. 25, with no performance Sunday night.

SDX advised to explore future trends

American journalists need to find out what the trends of the 1980's will be and make them interesting enough to read about, television newscaster Harry Reasoner told more than 1,000 professional and student journalists attending the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi national convention in Philadelphia last week.

The MTSU chapter of SDX was represented by Robin Freeman, chapter president.

"In the early 1950's, there must have been signs that the blacks were going to begin to demand their rights, that the cities were going to decay and that concern of the environment would become a major issue," Reasoner said in his keynote speech, "but we didn't report them."

Reasoner said that every journalist should have to take five minutes in his schedule every month to think about the future. "We ought to welcome the 'dull' days, the type of days when you wonder what you will report on if peace breaks out."

News commentator Edwin Newman also warned journalists to do their best to preserve the English language. "We live in a time when there is a belief that clear and concise speech does not matter."

"Those who do not examine words critically will not examine ideas critically," he said. "An obligation rests particularly with those of us in the news business. We make our living with words. We can't get along without them. It is in our interest to protect the language."

Newman cited examples of language misuse from well-known sources. The New York Times printed terms such as "totally blank" and "unexpected surprise," which are obvious redundancies.

Convention activities also included panels on "gag" rules, political reporting and covering foreign policy. An 11-cent Freedom of the Press stamp was dedicated to American journalists in ceremonies by Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar.

BSA to sponsor canned good drive

The Black Student Association will sponsor a canned good drive on the MTSU campus beginning today and running through Nov. 24.

Collected goods will be used to provide Thanksgiving baskets for needy Murfreesboro families.

Boxes for collection will be located in the lobbies of university female dorms, the Student Union Building and the University Center.

Those wishing to help in the project should contact Marlene Grigsby, Box 3169 and Monya Bloodworth, Box 3874.

State photo contest planned

Amateur and professional photographers can win cash awards in statewide competition by illustrating the theme, "Tennessee: A Bicentennial Portrait."

The Grand prize winner will receive $100. Other awards include five first place prizes of $75 each, five second places for $65 each and ten third place prizes of $50 each in addition to fourth and fifth place awards.

Winning photographs will be published in a special catalog and exhibited through the Extension Services Program of the Tennessee State Museum. The first exhibit is scheduled Jan. 18 - Feb. 29 in the LRC before statewide exhibition begins in March.

All works must be original, unpublished and clearly identified by the artists name and address. Prints must be mounted no larger than 30 by 40 inches and may be in color or black and white.

A maximum of five entries may be submitted to contest director Harold Baldwin, MTSU box 305 or delivered to room 20 of the Drawing building. Winners will be notified of the results Jan. 16.

Letters

Does community fear light, freedom of expression?

An open letter to the citizens of Rutherford County:

This letter's purpose is to clarify any misconceptions some may have about MTSU students.

Too often the outstanding qualities of the university and its students are buried beneath the unfair accusations of a few.

The "typical" student (if, indeed, one may define a typical student) may be found not popping pills in his dorm room, guzzling beer at the local tavern or continually high on marijuana; but rather collecting $2300 for the cerebral palsy drive, amassing $4780 for the St. Jude's Hospital or being turned away from the Red Cross blood drive because of a surplus of volunteers. You may find the "typical" student unselfishly devoting his time to tutor underprivileged children, giving a Christmas party for orphans or participating in many other community service projects.

Let's look at the value of students from an economical standpoint. The average student spends a minimum of $50 a month in Murfreesboro. If we figure on 8,000 student residents in Murfreesboro, this amounts to $400,000 a month spent locally. We are also aware and appreciative of the many businesses that give discounts to MTSU students. After graduation who can tell how many students will become permanent residents of the community and make valuable contributions.?

It seems, however, that when these same students wish to exercise their constitutionally guaranteed rights of expression, they are criticized by the community. We do not relinquish any of our freedoms or rights merely because we are enrolled in the university, nor should we be criticized for voicing our individual opinions. Students are citizens and as such reserve the right to individual expression. It doesn't matter if it is in the form of a float or an effigy burning.

Could it be that the community fears the introduction of new ideas brought about by free expression? Shouldn't we respect the opinions and contributions of others instead of rejecting or ignoring them outright because of their lack of popularity?

"We can forgive the child who is afraid of the dark. The real tragedy in life is when men are afraid of the light." — Plato.

NORML representative refutes ASB critic

This is in rebuttal to Spence Lyon's letter concerning the resolution passed by the ASB urging the decriminalization of marijuana in Tennessee.

Mr. Lyon, where do you get your information? NORML has never endorsed the legalization of marijuana. Apparently, and regretfully, you and too many other people do not know the difference between decriminalization and legalization. There is a big difference.

Where did you ever get the idea that only the people at the debate sponsored by NORML are in favor of decriminalization? Also, not everyone there was for decriminalization, nor were they all students.

If you think that debate had anything to do with the vote by the ASB, then you, sir, are off your rocker. I wrote and presented the resolution. I know what I'm talking about.

No, this endorsement does not say all MTSU students are in favor of decriminalization of pot. I believe you will agree that very little would be accomplished if every issue had to have a unanimous vote of all the students. That is what the ASB is for.

Also, you might have noticed that the resolution did not pass unanimously. It was very close.

If you think the ASB voted as they did to be "cool," you are sadly mistaken. Most, if not all, members take their jobs very seriously. During the debate on the issue, many pertinent facts were brought out that are not widely known.

I'm proud of the ASB for not being afraid to vote the way they felt after examining the facts on this very controversial issue. If this is your definition of stupidity, then I'm stupid and proud of it!

I would be glad to discuss this with you or anyone else who would like to know the facts before making their decision. I'm not hard to find.

ASB detractor draws more criticism

I am writing in reply to Mr. Lyon's letter questioning the ASB's endorsement of the decriminalization of marijuana.

Mr. Lyon seems to think that a majority of the student body is not represented in the ASB's legislation to support decriminalization of marijuana. I respect Mr. Lyon's opinion, but he fails to prove his point. He gives no basis to the question, "Was the ASB representing the feelings of the majority of students in endorsing this bill?"

The three or four hundred students who went to the NORML meeting that night only represent a large body of students who favor decriminali-

Women are superior; why settle for equal?

I'm not in favor of the ERA bill for one simple reason: it proposes to make women equal with men. Women are obviously superior in every way to men, so why should we want to be classed as equal? Equality would be a definite come-down.

Sisneros backed in Pizza Hut Classic

A proposal to sponsor MTSU basketball center Tim Sisneros in the annual Pizza Hut Classic was approved unanimously at a Tuesday meeting of academic honor society Gamma Beta Phi.

The regional director of Pizza Hut, Jim Freeman, was present to explain that the Classic is a nationwide contest sponsored by Pizza Hut in which college basketball players from across the nation are nominated to participate in a basketball game in April.

Freeman said this is the third year MTSU has had a player nominated.

Balloting will begin in December and continue through the first week in March, Freeman said.

Gamma Beta Phi hopes to mark approximately half a million ballots for Sisneros.

Last year, Gamma Beta Phi succeeded in coordinating efforts to send George Sorrell to the Classic with the marking of 328,000 ballots.

Also present at the meeting was Roy Clark, chairman of the Honors Council, who gave a slide presentation designed to encourage participation in honors classes.

Other discussion included the club's participation in the annual All-Sing on Jan. 20.

Library features Freedom Shrine collection

A Freedom Shrine, which was presented to MTSU by the Murfreesboro Exchange Club, is now on display in the library.

The shrine, an exhibit of 28 authentic reproductions of historically famous American documents spanning the 325 years from the Mayflower Compact to the World War II instrument of Surrender in the Pacific, is displayed outside the library's main office.

All of the historical papers in the Freedom Shrine collection are exact photographic reproductions of the priceless originals.

The Freedom Shrine project was conceived in the education department of the National Exchange Club and was born with the adoption of a resolution by the 31st convention of the Exchange Club calling for the establishment of Freedom Shrines throughout America.

The documents of the Freedom Shrine illuminate the principles upon which this nation was founded and the unending struggle to make them prevail against opposing ideologies.

Director praises Florida loan programs

Financial aid director Winston Wrenn has returned from a trip to Florida convinced that Florida has found a better way of administering financial aid to needy students.

Wrenn recently completed service on a review team that visited 18 post-secondary institutions as part of a three phase study of the state's financial aid programs as ordered by the Florida legislature.

"The thing that stood out most to me was the amount of money the state makes available to students," Wrenn said. "They have a large guaranteed loan program and a large tuition grant program."

"Florida has more state-level input for financial aid programs where in Tennessee we rely mostly on federal programs," he said. "They obviously have a strong desire to see kids go to college."

Wrenn said that the broad purpose of the study was to assess the needs of Florida's students and insure that the state has a program to best meet those needs. The study was conducted by out-of-state people to guarantee objectivity, he added.

The Tennessee legislature cancelled tuition grants to its students during its last session "without a study," Wrenn said.

If Florida cancels its loan or grant program, the decision "will be based on research in the field and hopefully won't be decided on politics alone," he said.

Stills shines in 'tight' performance

by Jenny Tenpenny

Stephen Stills is without a doubt one of the best performers in the rock music field, as he demonstrated in his concert Saturday night at Vanderbilt's Memorial Gym.

Stills, having a long list of credits

Bluegrass quintet to play at Wesley

The Tennesseans, a bluegrass band from Six Flags over Georgia, will be featured musicians at a square dance at Wesley Foundation, 216 College Heights, at 8 p.m. Friday.

Tickets are 75 cents and are now on sale. They may be obtained from any Wesley member or at the Wesley Foundation office.

Two members of the five-man group are MTSU students.

(Buffalo Springfield, Crosby, Nash, Young and his solo albums), overcame a few technical problems and a mediocre warmup group to present a truly good, tight performance without all of the glitter and show that present day performers use to cover-up their less-than-adequate talent.

Stills' concert was divided into three sets. The initial set opened with "Love the One You're With" and ended with the idealistic ballad "Wooden Ships." During this first set, he had to overcome hoarseness and fuzzy acoustics, but this did not hurt the quality of the show.

The second set asserted the true versatility of Stills as a performer and distinguished him as a solo artist. Appearing in his number 18 jersey, he played slide, banjo and twelve-string as well as acoustic, and being secure enough in his ability, he played material from other composers such as Nilsson's "Everybody's Talkin'" and the Beatles' "Blackbird."

The last set was electric again with Stills displaying extreme control over his backup group and providing excellent electric music in "Turn Back the Pages" and others which brought a rousing end to a good concert.

The acoustic encore, "The Cost of Freedom," brought to life the essence of the idealism and simple poetic beauty that distinguishes Stills from the others in the Sixties and apparently lives today.

TISL legislators to meet at capitol

The Tennessee Intercollegiate State Legislature (TISL) will meet Nov. 19-22 at the State Capitol.

TISL is a congress composed of various universities, colleges, junior and community colleges throughout Tennessee.

Legislation scheduled for discussion at the meetings included less restrictions on campus visitation and the legalization of alcoholic beverages on campus.

The top legislation recommendations to come from the TISL convention will be taken to the Tennessee legislature.

MTSU folk crafts course keeps American art alive

by Dena Stewart

How would you like to make something different for Christmas or for the Bicentennial? The home economics department of MTSU offers an answer--the American Folk Crafts course.

This course, open to all students, sticks mainly to traditional crafts. These include quilting, weaving, applehead dolls, wittlin' and brooms and wreaths made from corn shucks.

"The basic purpose of this course," explained instructor Debra Daniels, "is to keep the old crafts alive."

Lillian Sauer, a student who has "always been interested in crafts," does basket weaving. "You can't really put a specific time on how long it takes to do a project like weaving baskets. Sometimes I do it while watching television. It's unbelievably relaxing!"

Students always visit different places such as Gatlinburg, Tennessee, to see craftsmen and their works.

"Corn shuck wreaths made by the students in less than half a day cost $35 in Gatlinburg," says student Judy Green.

Local craftsmen are involved with the American Folk Crafts class, too. The homes of people like Dot Lau and Mrs. Archie Macon are often toured by the class.

Mrs. Macon has been weaving rugs and placemats for around 20 years. "Guess not too many people weave rugs anymore. People buy old homes, though, remodel, and want homemade rugs to compliment their home," she said.

"Anybody can learn to weave," she adds. "It's a mighty good hobby. It's very relaxing... you just start weaving and forget your worries. You also meet a lot of nice people when you're a weaver." Mrs. Macon has had people come to see her rugs from as far away as Texas.

"Macrame by Dot" is the trademark of Dot Lau. She uses macrame, combined with pottery she makes, for commercial hangings for offices and motels. Dot has recently been asked by the Wesley Foundation to do a combination pottery and macrame craftwork with a religious theme.

"I've been satisfied with the art department at MTSU," she states. "I'll probably take more courses. One thing leads to another."

Rambling on

by Chuck Cavalaris
Assistant Sports Editor

If the Saturday evening confrontation between East Tennessee and MTSU in Johnson City is any indication, there will not be much need for wide receivers in future games between the two teams.

Just bring a calculator to keep up with sophomores George Fugate and Mike Moore. Both had record-breaking performances in the 37-20 Buccaneer victory which was the first ETSU win since the opening game of the season.

MTSU now stands at 4-6 with the lone game remaining on the schedule a 1:30 clash with Tennessee Tech Saturday afternoon at Horace Jones Field.

After racking up 194 yards in 26 attempts against the Bucs, including a 77 yard TD jaunt in the first quarter, Moore has accumulated an unprecedented 1,192 yards to become the single season rushing leader of Blue Raider history.

The old mark was set by Bobby Young during the 1953 campaign with 1,058 yards.

But Moore wasn't the leading rusher in the contest as George Fugate piled up 220 yards in 23 carries and three TD's to break the single game ETSU record set by Greg Stubbs in 1970.

Fugate pounded off-tackle midway through the first stanza and raced 60 yards on the initial play after one of six MTSU turnovers for a 10-0 ETSU lead.

After the following kickoff, Mike

Raiderettes felled in two at tourney

by Ed Arning

"We played well, but just did not come through," head women's volleyball coach Betty Christopher said following this weekend's state tournament at Memphis State in which the Raiderettes went 0-2.

Opening against East Tennessee State University, the eventual winner of the Large School Division, MTSU dropped the match in two games, 15-7 and 15-5.

The Raiderettes were eliminated from the Tennessee College Women's Federation State Volleyball Tournament after losing to Carson Newman. MTSU won the first game of the match, 15-13, but lost the next two games, 9-15 and 11-15, thus losing the match.

Closing the season with a 15-30 record, the Raiderette volleyball team will regroup in the spring semester to practice fundamentals.

Moore and Fugate shatter school records, but East Tennessee prevails with 37-20 win

Freshman John Dukes pulls away from the grasp of a fallen Buccaneer defender as Jim Hicks (68) positions himself for a key block in East Tennessee's 37-20 win over the Blue Raiders in Johnson City.

Moore took the first play from scrimmage on a 77-yard touchdown journey after breaking free on an off tackle play to bring the Raiders to within three at 10-7 with 6:03 of first quarter action yet to come.

Taking advantage of an errant

Mike Robinson pass, ETSU upped the margin to 17-7 when Gary Jennings, who replaced starting quarterback Reed Nelson after a first quarter injury, rambled in from the five-yard line with 9:24 to play in the first half.

Exactly five minutes later the Bucs pushed across what proved to be the winning score when Fugate continued his rushing duel with Moore on a two-yard tally.

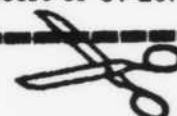

Robinson capped a 12-play, 80-yard drive in the closing seconds of the first half by tossing a three-yard strike to Anthony Williams and the Buccaneers had a 23-14 stronghold at halftime.

Breaking a third quarter stalemate with 20 seconds on the third quarter clock, the Bucs increased the margin to 30-14 when Jennings fired a nine-yard pass to Doug Parham in the right corner of the end zone.

Moore broke free on a 27-yard burst through the heart of the Buc defense to bring MTSU within ten points after a two-point conversion failed with 13:40 to play in the game.

Fugate broke an off-tackle play for a 61-yard TD with ten minutes to play in the contest to establish the final score of 37-20.

Earle sets sights on February for 'good team'

by Tom Wood
Sports Editor

"In February, we'll have a good team."

Thus saying, Jimmy Earle begins the task of defending the first OVC title MTSU has ever gained, and it will not be an easy one, according to Earle. The Raiders went 25-6 over-all last season.

The main reasons Earle gives February as the signal for a good team are injuries and lack of experience.

MTSU has only three players returning from last year's "starting six," and one, Claude (Sleepy) Taylor, has been sidelined with a knee he "busted" playing baseball during the summer. Taylor recently started running on the knee, and has been working out with weights to strengthen it.

The other two, Fred Allen and Tim "Kokomo Kruncher" Sisneros, have been named co-captains for the 1975-76 season. Allen and Sisneros averaged 10.8 and 12 points per game, respectively, last year. Sisneros was MTSU's second leading rebounder while Taylor was the second-leading scorer.

"Tim is playing his best ever, and Fred is looking tough," Earle noted.

Recently, however, Sisneros had his hand placed in a cast to correct problems encountered after surgery during his sophomore season.

Other returnees include John Bonner, Greg Laravie, Donnie Hamilton, Kip Puryear, Clint Dennison and Mike Matlock. Donnie Darcus, who scored 11 points in the first round of the Mideast regionals against Oregon State, flunked out, while reserves Kim Malcolm and Ricky Collins decided to play elsewhere.

The Raiders had a banner year in recruiting when it comes to guards, but didn't do quite as well in the other two positions.

Lewis Mack, a 6-2, 180-pound guard transfer from Jamestown Community College in New York was the Region Three JUCO Player of the Year last year. He established a single-season record at Jamestown, scoring 765 points in one year, and led the Jayhawks in scoring (21.2), rebounding, assists and steals.

Julius Brown initially was recruited by MTSU in 1973, but signed a national-letter-of-intent with Georgia. During his freshman year with the 'Dogs, he averaged over 25 ppg. Brown will not be eligible to play for the Raiders until Jan. 4.

Ronnie Greenwade, from Toledo, Ohio, is another guard prospect Earle terms outstanding.

"We are very solid at guard," Earle said.

The absence of All-OVC forwards George Sorrell and Steve Peeler will definitely hurt MTSU's chances of repeating as conference champs. Another absence the Raiders will sorely feel is Greg Joyner, a 6-6, 215-pound prospect from Philadelphia, who will be playing at Martin J.C. because of transfer foul-ups.

Gil Thompson, a transfer from Brewton Parker J.C., in Mt. Vernon, Ga., was the 1974 Georgia JUCO Player of the Year. The 6-7, 200-pound forward averaged 17 points and 19.5 rebounds last year, and will be a key as to how well the Raiders perform. Thompson may well have the largest pair of hands of any player in the nation, according to many sources.

Ronnie Hinson, 6-8½, 200-pounds, averaged 16 points and 14 rebounds per game last year and was rated one of the 15 best high school players in Georgia.

"If we can get strong play out of our forwards like we did last year," Earle noted, "we'll be okay. We've come a long way since our opening practice, and we'll get better with experience."

Other players besides Taylor out with injuries are Mack, who is playing on a hurt foot; Clint Dennison, who hurt his neck in a car wreck; and Brown, who will have to have surgery on his elbow.

"This team is eager, and their attitude is super," Earle said. "They have put forth the best effort of any team at MTSU. We're going to be an exciting team, and quicker than last year.

"For one thing," Earle continued, "we will be able to move better laterally."

MTSU will hold its first pre-season intersquad scrimmage at 7:30 tonight in McMinnville followed by the annual Blue-White game at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Students will be admitted free.

Pairings for the Vol Classic were announced last Friday. The Raiders will open first round play for the Dec. 19-20 tourney against Clemson while host Tennessee plays Army.

MTSU opens the regular season Dec. 1 with a home contest against the University of the South.
