PAUL AND PAULA—In keeping with tradition, Paul Womack, ASB president-elect, kisses MTSU's May Queen—controversial though she was!

Elections Produce Porker, 1967-'68 Class Officers

Last Wednesday, elections for class officers and MTSU May Queen were held. Voting was considered moderate, although balloting for May Queen produced a heavy turnout.

In the May Queen race, Paula Mae Pigg, the controversial candidate for that honor, amassed a total of 786 votes — a 7 to 1 margin over her nearest competitor, Kitten McCreary, who polled 112 votes. Second runner-up was Helen Stubbs with 88 votes, followed in order by Reba Price with 76 votes, Martha McDaniel with 68 votes, and Linda Fry with 48 votes.

In the Freshman Class elections, Van Martin polled a run-off victory for the Presidency of that class over Larry Ledford with 329 votes. The count for Ledford and Bratcher, the other candidate for that office, was 146 and 127 votes, respectively. Frank Hayes took the Vice-Presidency with 368 votes over Sharlena Phillips, with 200 votes. Joyce McCool won the post of Secretary over Faye Minatra with 348 votes. Faye received 220 votes. The office of Treasurer was awarded to Ann Abbot, over her opponent, Sarah Marie Smith by a vote of 283 to 282. Mickey George received 505 complimentary votes for Sergeant-at-Arms.

The Sophomore races produced Jim Free as President with 312 complimentary votes. In the Vice-Presidential race, Bill Joe Wiley won over David Pigna with 195 votes to Pigna's 147. Pam Owen received 294 complimentary votes for Secretary. Bettye Sims was victorious in her race for the office of Treasurer over Nancy Helberg, with 246 votes to Helberg's 102. Mike Law, candidate for Sergeant-at-Arms, received 312 complimentary votes.

The Junior Class elections resulted in two run-offs for the offices of President and Vice President. In the Presidential race, Hayes was elected over John Lowe, his run-off opponent, and Sandy Safley. Hayes received 143 votes

Hootenanny Coming Sunday

MTSU students will be treated to an old-time hootenanny on April 30 on the steps of the Student Union Building at 5:00 p.m. The program, to be co-sponsored by Die Deutschen Kameraden and the Socratics, will feature standard sing-along favorites and several new songs performed by the Socratics Singers. Also featured in their first appearance will be the German Club Singers. Besides these two groups, many other musicians and singers on campus will participate in the fun.

The program is planned for Sunday evening so as to insure the students presence of on the campus. It is hoped that by doing this, the students will take advantage of the opportunity to congregate and spend a congenial evening expressing their views in song.

Hoping to maintain an informal atmosphere, emphasis is being placed on audience participation in the music. For this purpose, mimeographed sheets of lyrics to familiar melodies will be distributed amongst the crowd.

Any group or individual desiring to contribute is encouraged to contact Mary Pat Williams, Box 3653.

College Bowl Reaches Semi Finals Tonight

Don't forget to come and see the semi-final action in the Intra College Bowl tonight. The Sigma Club tangles with the Newman Club at 7:30 and immediately thereafter, the Veterans Club and the German Club will compete for a berth in the finals.

In last week's action, the Veterans Club eliminated the Chemistry Club and the German Club edged the French Club in the closest match yet to be held.

The final round of competition will be next Wednesday night at 7:30 when tonight's winners will vie for the championship and the College Bowl plaque.

All College Bowl competition takes place in room 452 of Old Main. Admission is 25c.

Theatre Department Stages "Antigone"

The Theatre Department has selected as its Spring production ANTIGONE by Jean Anouilh. The production will involve a formalistic staging of the French playwright's version of the great Greek tragedy. Written to succor the ailing French pride after a brutal German conquest in the 1940's, the Anouilh rendition will be heard in modern dialogue; but it will be performed in Greek dress and setting to emphasize its universal traits.

The cast has been selected and rehearsals are in progress. The production dates are May 10, 12, 13 in the University Theatre.

Members of the cast are as follows: Antigone - Rebecca Salisbury, Creon - Jim Crabtree, Iseme - Terri Mosley, Nurse - Carolyn Anderson, Messenger - Jack Gilpin, Chorus - Larry Barker, Haemon - Keith Bronder, First Guard - Mike Sturat, Second Guard - Jeff Sakas, Third Guard - Jerry House, Euridice - Leslie

FAY GANNON

Miss Gannon Is Finalist In Contest

Miss Fay Gannon, an MTSU senior, is one of four finalists in the National College Queen Contest. This contest is sponsored annually by Best Foods. Its purpose is to find the "all-around" girl. It is neither a "glamour" nor a "genius" contest. Candidates are questioned on current events, fashion, home economics, and career goals. The state winner will receive a 10-day, expense-paid trip to New York City for the National Finals which will be televised on NBC on June 16th. The new College Queen will tour Europe and America. She will win a $500 wardrobe and a new convertible.

Miss Gannon is a graduate of Murfreesboro Central High School. She has served as secretary and president of the Home Economics Chapter, as 2nd vice-president and president of Kappa Omicron Phi, and as 2nd vice-chairman of the College Chapter Section of the Tennessee Home Economics Association. She has been a member of Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Sigma Beta. Fay has made the Dean's List every semester since she has been in school. She was also elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

The other College Queen finalists in Tennessee are Miss Bette Eppes from Lambuth College, Miss Shirley Hayes Griggs from U.T., and Miss Gail Henry from David Lipscomb.

To support MTSU and Fay Gannon, clip the ballot from the ad in the SIDELINES and mail it to P.O. Box 1096, Brooklyn, New York, 11202.

U. S. CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM R. ANDERSON (6th District) will be on campus Friday to participate in the "Congressman on Campus" program. The program will be presented in the Tennessee Room of the S.U.B. from 9:00-12:00.

Well, I'll Be A Monkey's Uncle

In 1925, the Tennessee State Legislature passed the Butler Act forbidding the teaching of the theory of evolution in any school supported in any way by the state of Tennessee. Through the passage of this act and the subsequent events, two main objectives were accomplished: Many other states were discouraged from passing anti-evolution bills and Tennessee was held up to national and international ridicule.

The senatorial branch of the legislature last week failed to repeal the 42 year old statute. In essence, history has repeated itself and Tennessee becomes once more "the monkey state".

When the pressure of fundamentalist belief caused the Butler Act to be passed in the twenties, no one, not even Tennessee's governor Austin Peay, expected the law to be actively enforced. Indeed, it was not enforced until the famous Scopes Monkey Trial was staged in Dayton. Now, 42 years later, Tennessee is one of three states that still have anti-evolution laws in effect.

What is the reason? The Senate does not want the children of Tennessee to be exposed to any material which is said to be "in conflict" with the Bible.

The amendment to the act of repeal which passed the Senate and remains to be voted upon by the House provides that evolution may be taught as theory but not as fact. The editor of the SIDELINES feels much as the NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN does about this proposition—"What the Senate has done is move from telling educators what to teach to tell them how to teach. Few educators need to be told that a theory should not be taught as fact."

The failure to repeal this law places limitation upon the academic freedom of the Tennessee student as well as that of the Tennessee teacher. No one tells a student that he must believe a certain theory. The material is presented and discussed—presumably in an objective manner—and the student decides for himself what he believes.

The students in Tennessee should have this privilege as do the students in other states of the union.

So What?!

MTSU is a suitcase college. So what!! Who cares if over half the students go home each week-end? It's their business! They have more important things to do at home—high school boy friends and girl friends and parents who will pamper them. These people know they aren't mature enough to accept the responsibilities of college so they just don't "brave" staying on campus on week-ends. And besides, everyone knows there's no planned recreation on campus on the week-ends, and these "home-goers" realize that their brains might suffer permanent damage if they themselves planned things to do.

Gosh! Wouldn't it be terrible if everyone in school decided to stay one week-end! There'd be so much fun on campus that a few people might decide to stay every week-end! Why, that would be the same thing as saying, "Yes sir, I'm in college at MTSU and I'm darn proud of it!" And if that should happen, more people would start working together to make MTSU the best university anywhere, and that would be the last straw! Then MTSU would lose its reputation as the "world's biggest high school" and a "suitcase college". Just think how that would deflate the ego of our rival colleges such as TECH! Now we wouldn't want to hurt Tech's feelings would we!

So shout loudly the praises of the "week-end-goer-home"! Long live his memory at MTSU! For it is he and his mutual friends who will forever give honor to MTSU's heritage — "The Biggest Suitcase High School in the State!"

As for me, I'm only a simple human being who enjoys the little things in life—flying kites, tennis, swimming, touch football, dances, picnics, parties, and being with close friends. I guess that's why I stay at MTSU on week-ends—it's fun!!

Parnell To Lead IFC

The Interfraternity Council recently elected the slate of officers who will govern the entire fraternity system until next spring. Of the three offices, three different fraternities are represented.

Jim Parnell, of Phi Epsilon, will again serve as IFC president. Jim defeated Barry Grever, Chi Alpha Pi, for the position.

Competing for the office of vice-president were Jim Free, Sigma Tau Omega, and Stan Hardison, Phi Epsilon. Jim Free was victorious.

Doug Bennett, Sigma Delta Zeta, won over Fred Woodey, Lambda Psi, for the office of executive secretary.

Six Presented Chessnut Awards

On Monday, April 17, awards for the winners of the Chessnuts Chess Championship were presented. Those presented with awards were: Robert Yokeley, first place trophy; Sandy Abrahms, second place trophy; Charles Wagner, defending champion, third place book prize. Others receiving awards were Stacy Dench, David Buckmaster, and Dave Dillick.

Robert Yokeley, a freshman, is a native of Hohenwald, Tennessee. Before attending MTSU, Robert won the Lewis County Chess Championship.

The six-round tourney was held in the week before Spring Break.

The Chessnuts meet every Monday night at 7:00 p.m. in the Faculty Coffee Shop.

CANDID CAMPUS

Controversy in the form of Paula Mae Pigg stirred the MTSU campus last week. Candid Campus, in an attempt to determine the factors of Miss Pigg's stunning victory over her opponents, asked the following question: "How do you feel about the recent election of Paula Mae Pigg to May Queen?" The opinions follow:

KEEL HUNT: "It was a great protest vote against student apathy. The run-off vote would have been unconstitutional, and the Attorney General would have been obliged to attempt to have the election ruled null and void. This thing could have gone on forever."

PAT APPLE: "I think it's funny. I think she ought to be able to have it due to student apathy. Seven to one is a good majority. Does 'oink' mean yes or no?"

ANDREA LINDSEY: "I think Paula Mae Pigg served the purpose of those who ran her — I see no reason why Paula should not be able to reign as May Queen."

PEGGY LOCKE: "I thought it was very funny; a new angle on everything. I don't see why everyone should get mad or frustrated about it."

LARRY BARKER: "Miss Pigg wasn't qualified, and there is no possible way for her to be our queen; we'll have to be satisfied with a bunch of attendants. I think she would look lovely in her lace gown."

BILL McCLANAHAN: "It was funny, yet ridiculous. I didn't vote for her, but I can see why they voted for her."

JOYCE SMITH: "I think it's a challenge to all of us that we should take voting more seriously."

House Members Urged To Report

Speaker of the House, Larry Blick, has urged each House member to report to their club that it is necessary to elect their ASB Representative by May 1.

May 1, the new ASB executives will be inaugurated and soon thereafter the new House of Representatives will convene for a planning meeting. Names will be taken of the new House members so that they can be contacted this summer about the Hy-Lake Retreat which takes place before the beginning of the fall semester. This is of particular importance, because at this retreat much planning for the coming year is accomplished.

Let me emphasize the importance of being an ASB representative. In too many clubs this office is considered to be of only minor importance. But this office can actually be the office of next highest importance to that of the President if the right person is elected. It takes a person who is really interested in student government and wants to see things accomplished.

If this person takes suggestions from the club to the House, and reports the activities of the House back to the club, it will be very beneficial to all concerned.

It is essential that the name of the newly elected Representative be sent to me at Box 3391, as soon as possible.

Thank you very much.
Mel Black
ASB House Speaker-Elect

The Voice of Spurgeon

I was a firm supporter of Paula Mae Pigg. I giggled happily when I heard of the plot to elect an authentic pig as our May Queen. I ran around campus extolling my friends to cast a ballot for Paula Mae, not so much against the lovely girls who had entered the race, but for the publicity that I knew we would get. Imagine the pure satisfaction I received on seeing the story on the front page of the TENNESSEAN and national television. I wanted to dance in the street to show the world the joy that was in my heart.

A bit later, while panting for breath before continuing my capering, I happened to think of the precedent that Paula Mae's election might have. Next year we could elect one of our friendly squirrels as ASB President, and push Harvey the Totem Pole for President of the school itself.

Then moving on, we could elect a Tennessee walking horse for Governor, a mocking bird for one Senator, and fish for the other.

The Oscar winners for next year could be King Kong and Godzilla. The Emmy awards could go to Lassie, Mr. Ed, or Flipper.

The crowning achievement would be the election of Smokey the Bear as President of the United States. Just think, dear hearts, of Smokey pointing that bear claw at Leonid or Alexie or whoever is the man in the U.S.S.R., and saying, "Only YOU can prevent war!" Doesn't it give you a sense of security? Why, "ole Smokey" could call a summit conference and wipe out the other leaders with a series of well-placed bars hugs.

Fun and games aside, we played with a minor election and had a lot of fun. But, it is rather frightening when you think about it. Less than one-fourth of the student body voted, a handful of witty, intelligent young men were able to muster some 700-and-odd votes and virtually sweep the election. It was a lot of fun, but let's be a bit more serious in the future.

'Repression Leads To Crime'

Last Wednesday night, the Socratics presented a program on "Censorship and the Law" featuring Davidson County District Attorney Thomas Shriver and State Representative Charles Galbreath. Miss Mary Pat Williams of the Socratics introduced the speakers who were first given an opportunity to make an opening address. Then, each speaker was given a chance to make whatever clarifications or rebuttal he deemed necessary in light of the other person's comments. Later, the floor was opened to the audience for a question and answer period.

In his opening comments, Mr. Shriver gave a brief history of legal developments in the field of obscenity in recent years. He also outlined some of the more famous cases of censorship and prosecution for violation of obscenity laws.

Mr. Shriver referred first to the recent action he took in Nashville to confiscate several books from the newsstands which he considered to be worthy of consideration by the courts for being obscene. The District Attorney is charged with the duty of confiscating any literature which he thinks might come under the realm of the censorship laws. It is his responsibility and not his prerogative.

Mr. Galbreath's opening comments were a defense of freedom of inquiry and thought in general and were not in reference to any particular incidents. "To kill an idea is an appalling crime, and really, to me, there is no such thing as a dirty book or word" he said.

Mr. Galbreath attempted to give some background of the evolution in our society's attitudes toward sexual ideas. He said that "we have been conditioned by our social mores to be ashamed of our bodies and their functions. This overt repression of ideas and impulses often creates violent outbursts which lead to crime."

One of Mr. Galbreath's more important comments was that, "The Supreme Court is not competent to choose one's reading material. Only the individual can do that."

In his discussion of the legal aspects of obscenity, District Attorney Shriver referred to the 1965 Anti-Obscenity Law in Tennessee on the basis of which he confiscated the material from the Nashville book racks. The matter is currently in the hands of the Chancery Court which will rule on whether or not the books are obscene.

The criteria which will be used to make this decision will be those established by the United States Supreme Court in the Roth Case. First of all the materials must be hard core pornography in order to be considered. The standards are: (1) It must be designed in such a way as to appeal only to the prurient interests, (2) it must be patently offensive to contemporary community standards, and (3) The material must be without redeeming social, scientific, or literary importance.

The basic problem of the evening's discussion and of the subject of censorship in general is the conflict between the inherent right of the individual to choose his own reading material and the responsibility of our duly constituted public officials to comply with currently existing laws which were formulated on the basis of current societal standards.

Four To Serve As Missionaries

Every summer, Baptist Student Unions and the Baptist Home Missions Board join in sending summer missionaries to many parts of the United States and throughout the world. Last summer Tennessee sent 44 summer missionaries. This exceeded the number of any other states, including Texas which has twice as many Baptist Student Unions and BSU directors as Tennessee.

Summer missionaries consist of upper class college students and are chosen by the Baptist Convention, Student Department. The choices are based upon the student's Christian devotion and understandings, their commitment to the BSU program, and their ability and experience in Christian work. This year a total of 800 summer missionaries have been chosen to work the ten weeks from June 12 to August 18.

Four MTSU students were recently named for this honor. These include Larry Blick, Monetta Smith, Sue Davis, and Forrest Clark.

Larry Blick is a senior from Murfreesboro. He will be working with music in the Caribbean. Monetta Smith, a sophomore from Knoxville, was chosen to go to Kansas.

Sue Davis is a sophomore from Dunlap. She will serve as a summer missionary at the Good Will Center in Gary, Indiana. Forrest Clark, a sophomore from Murfreesboro, will work in Oregon.

These students will be called upon to perform all sorts of tasks this summer. However, the main objective of all the summer missionaries will be to aid and comfort the home and foreign missionaries with which they will be working.

ROTC Cadets Undergo P.T. Test

The advanced ROTC cadets have recently completed another physical training (P.T.) test. Each year the Junior and Senior cadets enrolled in advanced military science must complete a series of tests which are counted as part of their final grade.

The test consists of five parts: a grenade throw, a crawl, a horizontal ladder climb, a dodge-run-and jump obstacle run, and a mile run. In the grenade throw, a "trooper kneels thirty yards from a large bullseye drawn on the ground and tries to pitch his grenade as near the center of the eight-ringed, two feet in diameter, target as possible. A maximum of one hundred points can be made on this as well as the other four parts. The second part is a forty yard crawl, twenty yards back and forth, which must be made in twenty three seconds for the maximum number of points. Either the chest or the stomach must be on the ground at all times in this crawl. The third part is the horizontal ladder climb. This is something that we all did as kids in grade school, but we weren't required to hit seventy-six bars without falling off more than once, all in one minute. Next is the dodge and run and jump. This is an obstacle course run through which the troops follow arrows, running, jumping and dodging, no doubt. Lastly is the mile run. This is equivalent to four times around the Jones Field track. The run must be made in at least six minutes in combat boots for 100 points credit.

The juniors run this eight times a year, the seniors four times a year, and the cadre (members of the United States Army on duty here at MTSU) two times a year. "All cadre members under the age of forty are required to run it, and I think it is a good idea because it keeps us in shape," says Master Sergeant Pelfrey. Sixty-one juniors and thirty-four seniors ran the test this year. The maximum score which a cadet can receive on the test is five hundred, and a score of at least four hundred must be made to receive any credit at all. The highest grade on the test (497) was made by a junior Cadet Master Sergeant Howard M. Yates. The highest senior grade was 474 and it was made by Cadet Master Sergeant Don E. Jones. The cadre average is around 350.

New Leaders Chosen For Socratics

At their weekly meeting on Wednesday afternoon, the Socratics elected officers for the coming year. The slate includes: Chairman, Jerry Dunbar; Vice-Chairman, Charlie Johnson; Secretary, Mary Pat Williams; Program Chairman, Randall Jones; Treasurer, Ava Rhea Jordan; and ASB Representative, Bill Peters.

Current projects of the Socratics include the concluding rounds of the Intra-College Bowl, co-sponsoring the campus visit of Congressman William Anderson, co-sponsoring of a picnic for several low-income families with the Student Sociological Society, and a Hootenanny on April 30 to be co-sponsored by the German Club.

Senate Approves Tax Credit Bill

The United States Senate has approved by a 53-26 vote a plan to provide a federal income tax credit of up to $325 for tuition, books and fees paid by students in colleges, universities and other post-high school institutions. Final enactment of the plan probably will depend on the decisions made by a Senate-House Of Representatives conference committee.

The tax credit plan was offered Friday, April 14, 1967, by Senator Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., as an amendment to a House-passed bill which would restore the investment tax credit to the businessmen.

Under the amendment offered by Ribicoff and accepted by the Senate, the tuition and fee credit is 75 per cent of the first $200 paid, 25 per cent of the next $300 and 10 per cent of the next $1,000. The credit is subtracted from the income tax owed the government.

The credit is available to any person who pays the tuition. Thus, it would be available to working students and wives as well as to parents and other relatives. Parents with more than one child in college or graduate school may get a separate credit for each.

"Over two-thirds of the benefits of this amendment would go to families earning less than $10,000 a year," Ribicoff said. A formula reduces the amount of the credit available to high bracket taxpayers.

Capitol observers said an important part in the final decision on the tuition tax credit plan will be played by Congressman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. So far, he has taken no public stand on the measure which long has been opposed by the national Administration.

In offering the tuition tax credit amendment, Senator Ribicoff said there is an urgent need for tax relief for persons faced with the increasing costs of higher education. "In the long run," he said, "my amendment would serve all America. For our strength lies not just in the richness of our soil, not just in the wealth of the factories of our vast, complex physical technology—but in our minds, in our skills, in our ability to use these wisely and well."

Voting in favor of the Ribicoff amendment: Senators Allott, Colo.; Baker, Tenn.; Bayh, Ind.; Bible, Nev.; Boggs, Del.; Brooke, Mass.; Byrd, W. Va.; Cannon, Nev.; Case, N.J.; Church, Ind.; Cotton, N.H.; Curtis, Neb.; Dodd, Conn.; Dominick, Colo.; Fannin, Ariz.; Fong, Hawaii; Griffin, Mich.; Gruening, Alaska; Hansen, Wyo.; Hart, Mich.; Hartke, Ind.; Hatfield, Ore.; Hickenlooper, Ia.; Hill, Ala.; Hollings, S.C.; Hruska, Neb.; Inouye, Hawaii; Jackson, Wash.; Jordan, Id.; Kuchel, Calif.; Long, Mo.; Long, La.; Magnuson, Wash.; McGovern, S. Dak.; McIntyre, N.H.; Montoya, N. Mex.; Mundt, S. Dak.; Nelson, Wis.; Pastore, R. I.; Pearson, Kansas; Percy, Ill.; Prouty, Vermont; Proxmire, Wis.; Ranelph, W. Va.; Ribicoff, Conn.; Russell, Ga.; Scott, Pa.; Smith, Maine; Sparkman, Ala.; Symington, Mo.; Talmadge, Ga.; Thurmond, S.C.; Young, N. Dak.

Voting against the Ribicoff amendment: Senators Anderson, N. Mex.; Bennett, Utah; Burdick, N. Dak.; Byrd, Va.; Clark, Pa.; Dirksen, Ill.; Eastland, Miss.; Gore, Tenn.; Holland, Fla.; Javits, N. Y.; Mansfield, Mont.; McCarthy, Minn.; McClellan, Ark.; Miller, Ia.; Monroney, Okla.; Morse, Ore.; Moss, Utah; Muskie, Maine; Pell, R. I.; Smathers, Fla.; Spong, Va.; Stennis, Miss.; Tydings, Md.; Williams, N.J.; Williams, Del.; Young, Ohio.

Young Democrats Select Officers

The MTSU chapter of the College Young Democratic Clubs of America met Wednesday night to elect officers to serve during the 1967-68 school year. Those elected to these posts are: Tom Peterson of Connecticut, president; Jay Landay, Oak Ridge, vice-president; Colleen Powell, Murfreesboro, secretary; Tony Pendergrass, Murfreesboro, and David Mathis, Humboldt, ASB representative. Mr. Mario Perez-Reilly of the Political Science Department will continue to serve the club as sponsor.

The club discussed plans for the upcoming visit by Congressman William Anderson which is being co-sponsored by the College Young Democrats and the Socratics. Congressman Anderson will be on campus all morning Friday. The club meets again Wednesday night to discuss Friday's activities.

Sacred Harp Singers On Tour This Week

SOLOISTS with the MTSU Sacred Harp Singers shown above are (left to right): Lynn Moore, Linda Barnes and Barbara Robinson. Lynn Moore sings in the MTSU Concert Choir and is Treasurer in Phi Mu Alpha. A member of the Band of Blue, Mr. Moore also plays in the Brass Ensemble. He is a Music Education Major in tuba and voice. Linda Shelton Barnes has sung the soprano leads "Susanna" in Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," and "Adele" in Strauss' "Die Fledermaus." Mrs. Barnes is a soloist with the MTSU Concert Choir and Varsity Choir, and is the Vice President of Alpha Mu Gamma, the Foreign Language Society. She was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," and belongs to Tau Omicron and Phi Sigma Beta. Barbara Robinson, a Music Education major in voice, is the past president of Delta Omicron, the international music fraternity for women. Miss Robinson is a member of Phi Sigma Beta, Tau Omicron, MENC, SNEA, the Concert Choir, the MTSU Band of Blue and is a soloist with the Varsity Choir. She sang the mezzo-soprano roles of Marcellina in "The Marriage of Figaro" and Prince Orlofsky in "Die Fledermaus" (Strauss), and was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

ANN MOSS and LINDA COOK are featured here in the MTSU Sacred Harp Singers' performance of "Lollytoodum," a Kentucky folk song. Miss Cook sang Barbarina in the MTSU production of the "Marriage of Figaro," and is a member of the Concert Choir and Varsity Choir. She has done solo work also in the oratorios "Saint Paul" (Mendelssohn) and "Mass in C" (Leopold Mozart). Miss Moss (sang the role of Rosalinda in "Die Fledermaus" (Strauss). She is a soloist with the Varsity Choir and the Concert Choir, as well as a member of Tau Omicron, Delta Omicron, and MENC. The Harp Singers are on tour this week.

Jones, Gannon Receive Homemaking Honors

Two MTSU home economics majors were honored by their as-Economics Association con-sociates at the Tennessee Home tion in Nashville last week. Miss Fay Gannon, a senior from Murfreesboro, was selected as "Miss Tennessee Home Economics" by a panel of judges. She first had been selected as one of five finalists in the state in an election by the home economics chapters. She was elected "Miss M.T.S.U. Home Economics" last spring.

Miss Regina Jones of Nashville was elected chairman of the Tennessee Home Economics Association — College Chapter Section. She will serve next year and will preside at the college chapter meetings at the THEA convention in Chattanooga next May. She will also be a delegate to the American Home Economics Association convention in Dallas in June.

At the same meeting, Mrs. Clarence Greever, a member of the M.T.S.U. Home Economics staff, was named State Advisor. Miss Margaret Putman, head of the department, was elected to a two-year term as State Secretary.

Miss Gannon has earned a scholarship and has been recognized at Honors Day each spring. Named to the Dean's List, this 21-year-old graduate of Murfreesboro Central High School accomplished membership in Tau Omicron (women's honor society), Kappa Delta Pi (honorary education), Phi Sigma Beta (honorary scholastic). She has been president of Kappa Omicron Phi (the home economics fraternity) and has served as second vice-chairman of the State College Section of the State Home Economics Association. She was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and has been selected as one of four nominees from Tennessee to compete in the 13th annual "College Queen" contest sponsored by Best Food Products. Fay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Gannon, Sr., of Murfreesboro.

Miss Jones is a graduate of Nashville West End High School where she was the recipient of the Davidson County Home Economists' Homemaking scholarship. In high school she was a delegate to Girls' State, president of her FHA chapter, a member of the Beta Club, the National Honor Society, Quill and Scroll, and was business manager of the high school yearbook.

At MTSU she is currently serving as chairman of the Home Economics Chapter and as treasurer of Kappa Omicron Phi. She is also active as a member of the SIDELINES staff, the Student National Education Association, the Wesley Foundation, and the Sociology Club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Jones of Nashville.

Jensi Peck Is T.O. President

At the last meeting of Tau Omicron, MTSU's honor society for women, officers for the coming year were selected.

Jensi Peck, of Chattanooga, will succeed Nelda Mantooth as president of the organization. Serving as vice-president will be Kittie Myatt.

Other officers are: Secretary—Sandra Elam; treasurer—Lee Crowell; historian—Mary Beth Kerr; representative to the House—Tricia Duncan; and publicity chairman—Barbara Delk.

Miss Buleah Davis will again sponsor T-O. In addition, Miss Christine Vaughn will sponsor the club.

The annual Alumnae Banquet given by Tau Omicron will be held this Saturday. Miss Christine Vaughn will be the guest speaker and special entertainment will be provided by the Sacred Harp Singers.

CIARDI ASKS:

What Good is a Poem

"What Good Is A Poem" will be the theme of the lecture by John Ciardi, poetry editor of the Saturday Review and Director of the Bread Loaf Writers Conference, who will speak at MTSU Tuesday, May 11 at eight o'clock. Mr. Ciardi is the author of the weekly column "Manner of Speaking" in the Saturday Review and has appeared on the CBS weekly program, "Accent", according to Lane Boutwell, chairman of Public Programs at the University.

Mr. Ciardi was the recipient of the Avery Hopwood Award in poetry in 1939; Blumenthal Prize, Poetry Magazine, 1944; Eunice Tietjens Award, 1945; Levinson prize 1947; Harriett Memorial Award 1955; Prix de Rome, American Academy of Letters 1956.

His most recent work are "Dialogue With An Audience" and a book of verse for young readers, "John J. Plenty and Fiddler Dan".

Free Heads Circle Ks

MTSU sophomore, Jimmy Free, was recently elected Lieutenant Governor for District 3 of the Kentucky-Tennessee District at the annual convention of Circle K International held in Gatlinburg. He defeated Bob Holmes of David Lipscomb College.

As Lieutenant Governor, Free will sit on the District Board of Directors, which is the administrative and policy-making body of Circle K. Some of his duties will be to try to start new Circle K Clubs at colleges in this division and to help and work with all of the area Circle K Clubs. Free will also be visiting the other member colleges in this division: Austin Peay State College, Belmont College, David Lipscomb College, Tennessee Technological University, Trevecca Nazarene College, University of Chattanooga, and Vanderbilt University.

The MTSU delegation also received other honors. Lynn Poehler, MTSU's Circle K Sweetheart, was selected as the Kentucky-Tennessee District Sweetheart. During the convention Dicky Sadler participated in the Impromptu Essay Contest, and Bill Boner entered the Oratorical Contest, winning first place in that competition. At the close of the convention, the MTSU Circle K was named the second place club in overall activities.

Dr. Robert I. Martin, head of the Department of Economics and Finance and who is Kiwanis advisor for the entire Kentucky-Tennessee District, accompanied the MTSU delegation. Our voting delegates were Jim Beasley, Circle K President, and Terry Morris. In addition to Free, Sadler, and Boner, other MTSU delegates were: David Cornett, Roy Crowder, Jeff Hersdorfer, Larry Huddleston, Jim Miller, Mike Prichard, Sandy Safley, and Allan Walton, who served as this year's Lieutenant Governor.

The local delegation was also awarded the opportunity to host next year's Circle K convention, which will be held on our campus next spring.

"Supremes" Are Sensational! Clothes-Cues

by Regina Jones

The Supremes, currently the Number One female vocal trio in the nation, reigned supreme at the best ASB Show held on this campus in many a month.

The three girls, Diana Ross, Florence Ballard, and Mary Wilson, all 23 years old, rocked the gymnasium with their rhythmic Mo-town sound, which they all describe as "blues with a pop beat." Diana generally sings the lead while Florence sings the top and Mary the bottom.

Glittering in their silver and gold sequined gowns, the Supremes launched their program with a medley of their top hits, starting with "You Keep Me Hanging On," "Stop in the Name of Love," "Come See About Me," "My World Is Empty Without You," and "Baby Love," then they changed pace with the slow ballad, "Michelle," and switched to a faster bossa nova version of "More."

Spontaneity sparked the show when Diana, spokesman for the trio, was introducing their next number from "West Side Story," and the orchestra suddenly started playing "Back in My Arms Again." Apparently, the girls are used to such orchestral antics because they performed that number as gracefully as they did the next one, "Love Is Here and Now You're Gone."

Again they switched pace by crooning another soothing number by their friends, the Beatles, "Yesterday." Then they were off again with "You Can't Hurry Love."

A cute rendition of "Queen of the House" led into "The Happening," "Somewhere," and their Number One recording of "I Hear a Symphony."

After individual introductions, the girls performed a medley of Sam Cooke's hits, including "You Send Me," "Sentimental Reasons," "Cupid," "Bring It on Home to Me," and "Shake."

Although the Supremes have been singing together since childhood days, they have been organized as a professional group for six years.

Since they are on the road ten months out of the year, they do not get home very often. All are from big families, which may explain why the girls are so compatible. Florence is one of 12 brothers and sisters, Diana has six and Mary, three.

Although they all like casual size 3 or 5." Florence is just the opposite. "I just can't stop eating! Sometimes I get so hungry at night that I wake out of a deep sleep and have to grab a snack." Flo wears a size 10.

Mary, on the other hand, seems to have maintained her weight of 120 lbs. through it all...yet she's the one who loves to cook in her spare time! Mary wears size 7.

Diana, who calls herself "the theatrical one" explains how the girls used to dress up to go singing at parties and functions when they were kids. "We'd put on these white kind-of gym suits, bulky sweaters and big, heavy bobby socks. And wow, did we think we looked great. We'd always wear white, pleated skirts and we were always making crazy, movie-star poses because we thought we were IT!"

But now that they actually are IT, they can't stand phoniness in stars. "We like informality," says Mary.

Their favorite vocal group is the Temptations.

Of their own songs, each girl has her own preference. Mary likes "Baby Love," Flo likes "Where Did Our Love Go," and Diana likes "You Can't Hurry Love."

Another Mo-Town group which set the show rolling was the Messengers, a quintet of young musicians whose recording of "Midnight Hour" is Number 131 in the nation.

The boys met at Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis., where they were all sophomores when they decided to form a rock 'n' roll band.

They have hopes of returning to college when their fame has fizzled. Meanwhile, they "get to see a lot of the country and meet a lot of people."

Augie George, 20, from Milwaukee who plays drums, has ambitions of being a doctor when he returns to school.

Pete Barans, 20, lead guitarist from Chicago, may go into business, as well as Greg Jennings, 19, from Minneapolis.

Jeff Taylor, 20, lead singer, and Rob Leslie, 19, organist, both from Milwaukee, hope to return to advertising and designing.

Sandwiched between the Mo-Town sound was a ventriloquist act, Lester and Friend, which provided fresh entertainment for the audience.

After hearing the Supremes in the audience probably un-

Spring sunshine brings more than freckles and suntans. It brings new fashions to be worn by attractive girls. Miss Cindy Hampton is pictured in one of these new styles — the tunic dress. This dress is actually a shirt and a long overblouse and is just meant for a tall girl. To add interest, the yellow linen-look dress is decorated with a green floral border at the hem of the blouse. A standing roll collar is flattering to any face.

Cindy, a home economics major from Lawrenceburg, selected this dress from many styles found at The Village Square.

Texas Coeds Skirt The Mini Issue

(ACP) — A small but increasing number of University of Texas coeds have decided to get in step with the "What's Happening" centers of the world and to leave men they pass twisted like pretzels, straining for a good, long, lasting look, Peter Heyne writes in the DAILY TEXAN.

These are the coeds who have the courage — but often not the proportions — to wear mini skirts and dresses.

Essentially, a "mini" is a garment whose hemline ranges from three (mini-mini) to seven inches (maxi-mini) above the knee. It gained popularity two years ago on London's Carnaby Street where the Mod look still reigns.

In Eastern cities and in California, the mini look is not only in but is also fairly well established. However, in the South, including Texas, Austin, and consequently the university, women are suffering from a hemline gap that is being closed not much faster than grandma can thread rope through a needle's eye.

Mrs. Binnie Briggs, owner of Pizzazz Inc., which stocks lots of mini clothing, says, "Whenever anyone is leaving town they come in here to buy a short dress — they say they have to have one for where they are going, which is usually out of state."

Why do coeds wear minis? Other than strictly for fashion — "Simply to attract attention," says a former coed. "A lot of girls are husband-hunting and want to be noticed by the opposite sex," adds an assistant professor of home economics.

Noticed they are. "There's not a moment's doubt that you are looked at; people practically hang out windows and wreck cars to get a good look," says Mrs. Briggs, recalling the time she wore her zebra-striped fur mini down the Drag.

Most mini-wearers say they wear them primarily to parties, dances, and "just generally mess-around." Few wear them to class, since even dresses an inch above the knee can ride up embarrassingly. Teachers, at times, and short skirts in class a little troubling. "We may be teachers, but we are still men," a sociology teaching assistant says. Professors agree, however, that after a while "it all becomes part of the scenery."

Like all innovations, minis have hazards. Wearers say chief among them are bending over and falling down "in a way as not to be afraid." Most of them avoid difficulty by slipping into light tights or textured stockings which prevent over-exposure while still keeping the subject interesting.

THE GREEKS have contributed a great deal to the American way of life—especially in the form of the tunic dress!

Too Good—or Not Good Enough?

by Jim Freeman, Sports Editor

Last Friday and Saturday at Sewanee, Middle Tennessee State's powerful golf squad rolled to an easy 30-stroke win in the annual Tennessee Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Tournament. It was MTSU's seventh win in the past nine years, and about the only suspense involved was which Raider would take the individual crown.

To realize what a cakewalk it was for the charges of coach E. K. Patty, one has only to look at the scoreboard. Each team was allowed six entries, with only the lowest four being counted in the totals. The Raiders were so far ahead of the rest of the field that they could have counted their HIGHEST four scores, and still won!

As easy and as thorough as the victory was, however, it still had somewhat of a hollow ring. The win is supposed to symbolize golf supremacy in the state of Tennessee, and invitations are issued to every college and university in the state which fields a golf squad.

Three schools, the so-called "major" schools in the state, were conspicuous by their absence. I am referring, of course, to Tennessee, Vanderbilt, and Memphis State. As long as these three Big Boys are not present, the TIAC championship will lack the luster it could have.

Why do these schools decline TIAC invites? They would like for the general public to believe that they are a notch or two above the calibre of small college competition and just don't want to be bothered.

A little research would indicate the folly of this, however.

Most Tennessee schools used to compete in an annual event at Athens, Georgia called the Southern Intercollegiate. Back in 1963, Memphis State finished second, tied with Georgia, and two strokes ahead of National Champion Houston. Vanderbilt was tenth, Middle Tennessee was 13th, and Tennessee did so poorly they withdrew. Even in 13th place, MTSU finished ahead of such major schools as Georgia Tech, Miami, Kentucky, Mississippi State and Ole Miss. That year the Raiders were TIAC champs.

In 1964, MTSU finished 8th, one stroke behind Tennessee, one ahead of Memphis State, and 21 ahead of Vandy. They also left in their wake such schools as Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Ga. Tech, South Carolina, Tulane and Auburn. But the Raiders didn't win the TIAC that year; they finished second to East Tennessee State.

In 1965, Middle Tennessee finished in an eighth place tie with Michigan, six strokes behind Memphis State, five in front of UT, and a whole 30 strokes in front of Vanderbilt, who tied with Austin Peay. Middle Tennessee won the TIAC again that year.

Duel matches between the Big Three and any of the smaller schools are extremely rare, but one occurred last season. Austin Peay, the TIAC champion, romped over Vandy, 21-6.

Still, these three schools give the impression that they have better things to do. They refuse to meet the smaller schools on common ground with anything at all at stake.

It would appear from here that the real reason is not because they are too good, but because they are not good enough.

The same situation will prevail again this weekend in the TIAC tennis championships at Sewanee. MTSU is the defending champion, and one of the favorites for this year's crown. The Raiders have become quite a strong team under the coaching of Buck Bouldin the past four seasons, and can hold their own against any net squad in the state, including the Big Three.

The Big Three will once again be absent, but not for the reason they would lead you to believe.

THIS AND THAT

--Larry Majors, popular graduate-assistant coach for the MTSU grid team this past season, has announced that he will fill the position of assistant coach for the Hendersonville High football team next year.

Head coach Bob Cummings has stated that Larry will be the backfield coach for the Commandoes.

--Head Track Coach Dean Hayes says that he will stop in St. Louis going to and from Des Moines for the Drake Relays to do a bit of recruiting.

--Barry Beadles, an outstanding basketball prospect from Illinois, was a weekend visitor to the campus. Berry, who is 6-5 and averaged 22 points per game last season, says he has narrowed his choice down to either MTSU or Mississippi State.

--Speaking of basketball, the new look of the gym is almost complete, with the painting of the handrails about the only thing remaining. They will be red.

Raider Golfers Claim TIAC Crown, Adcock Low Medalist

THESE FOUR GOLFERS posted the low scores for MTSU in last weekend's TIAC tournament at Sewanee. They are, standing, Art Kraft (149) and Jeff Riley (141); kneeling, Ernie Adcock (140) and Craig Stoudner (149).

Ernie Adcock, a sophomore from Savannah, Ga., fired a four-under-par 140 to pace Middle Tennessee's powerful golf team to an easy 30-stroke win in the Tennessee Intercollegiate Golf Tournament at Sewanee last Friday and Saturday.

MTSU's team total of 579 set a TIAC record. Chattanooga was next with 609. Austin Peay, last year's champions, were fourth with 611.

Adcock had to sink a 25-foot putt for a par on the final hole to claim the individual title away from teammate Jeff Riley. Riley had a 141 total for the two-day event.

In third place was Larry Hinson of East Tennessee, who fired a 143. Jimmy Smith of Austin Peay carded a 147, the same total he had last year when he was the winner. This year it was good only for a distant fourth place.

Tied for fifth place were the other two members of the MTSU squad, Craig Stoudner and Art Kraft, at 147.

The victory for the Raiders marked the seventh time in the last nine years that the Big Blue has won the TIAC championship. Adcock's win was the fourth time that Middle Tennessee had supplied the individual champion.

Coach Elbert Patty's talented linksmen are now off until May 4-6 when they will play in the Murray Invitational at Kentucky Dam Village. The Raider linksmen are now 5-0 in duel matches, and have the NCAA Invitational championship to go along with their TIAC win.

Sports Car Club Plans Picnic Panic

MTSU's Blue Raider Sports Car Club will run a 100-mile "Picnic Panic" on the...

Raider Runners Rip Austin Peay, 89-54

Middle Tennessee's talented tracksters ran roughshod over a mediocre Austin Peay College squad, 89-54, in a meet held at Fort Campbell, Ky. last Saturday. Fort Campbell is the site of the year's OVC meet.

A strong wind prevented all records in the running events, but MTSU's Mike Stevens broke his own school record in the high jump, clearing the bar at 6-5.

Double winners for the Raiders were Chester Jennings (100, 220) and Charlie Dahlgren (mile, three mile).

Coach Dean Hayes was pleased with the performances of four men whose services he had had for some time. Mike Milner won the high hurdles, Clark Werner placed second in the 220, Mike Austin ran a leg on the winning mile relay team, and Ken Riley, the freshman basketball sensation, placed third in both the shot and discus.

Carver Grandslam Paces MTSU Over Western

Baseballers Bop Bison

MTSU's baseball team won their first doubleheader of the season, and raised their record to above .500, with a pair of wins over David Lipscomb College. The Raiders won the first contest by a 5-3 score, then took the second game, 4-2.

In both games, it was the big inning that won for MTSU. In the first game, five runs in the sixth inning accounted for the win, and in the second game, four third-inning runs spelled defeat for the Bison.

Greg Cunyningham twirled a five-hitter in the opener, as he went the route for the Raiders. He was a little wild at times, however, walking six Lipscomb batters. He struck out seven.

John Price's two-run single was the key blow for the Raiders in their uprising against Bison starter, and loser, Randy Morris. Price was two for three in the first contest.

Paul Smith duplicated Cunyningham's route-going feat in the nightcap, throwing a seven-hitter at Lipscomb. Smith enjoyed a bit more control, walking only three.

The Raider's third inning outburst erased a 2-0 Lipscomb lead, and pinned a defeat on Hal Barnes. After loading the bases, Bruce Skeen walked, Charlie Daniel singled, Chuck Machado beat out a bunt, and Rich Howell singled to give the Raiders four runs.

The batting hero of the day was Lipscomb second baseman Donnie Polk, who went six for seven in the two games. Polk also made two errors in the second game, one of which opened the door for the Raider runs in the third inning.

Netters Drop Three In Ky.

The weekend road trip to Kentucky by the MTSU tennis team was of dubious success. After losing to the University of Kentucky, 6-3, on Thursday, they traveled to Richmond for what was to have been a round-robin affair with Western, Murray, and Eastern to find out where the power in the OVC was.

The Raiders downed Eastern on Friday, 5-4, but on Saturday they lost to Murray, 3-6, and to Western, 2-7. This would seem to indicate that the winner of the Western-Murray contest would have the power, but on Saturday, Eastern beat both of them.

The picture is just as muddled now as it was then, perhaps even more so, since it has been established that anyone could win.

At Kentucky, Middle Tennessee dropped their second match of the season. Only Neil Wright and Mike Albane were able to record wins in singles play, and the doubles team of Steve Wakefield and Jim Seymour grabbed the only Raider win in that part of the competition.

Middle Tennessee will play host to a pretty strong Carson-Newman team this afternoon. The match will begin at 1:00 p.m., and will be MTSU's next-to-last home appearance of the year.

On the schedule for this weekend is the TIAC tournament at Sewanee. The Raiders are the defending champions, and will be one of the favorites again this time.

RICH HOWELL rests on third base after hitting a bases-loaded triple for MTSU in the last inning to give the Raiders a 4-3 lead over Tennessee Tech in their doubleheader at Cookeville on Monday. Howell scored himself a moment later on Eagle error. Raiders won, 5-3.

Raiders Split With Tech; Await Murray

Middle Tennessee traveled to Cookeville on Monday for a pair of baseball games with Tennessee Tech University. When the smoke had cleared, both teams had claimed a win. MTSU took the first game, 5-3, and Tech won the second, 4-1.

Once again the big inning was the salvation of the Raider nine. They erupted for four runs in the top of the seventh, and final, inning to change a 3-1 deficit into a 5-3 lead.

In the seventh, Danny Sandlin walked, as did Don Tarter and Brady Straub. With the bases loaded, Bruce Skeen popped out, but Richard Howell followed with a triple to clear the sacks and give MTSU a 4-3 lead.

Machado then walked, and in an aborted pick-off attempt of the big Raider first baseman, the ball got away from the Tech man, and Howell walked home with the insurance run.

It wasn't needed, however, as Paul Smith came on in the bottom of the inning to close the door on the Eagles.

Gary Chrisman, who pitched only one inning in relief of starter Greg Cunyningham, was the winner. Dave Pratt, Tech's all-OVC pitcher, was the loser.

In the second contest, Chrisman started and had a no-hitter going until the sixth inning. Then, with the score tied at 1-1, he walked one man, hit another, and gave up a triple for two runs.

Coach Jimmy Earle was pleased with the way the Raiders have continued to hit the ball. Sid Hatfield, the Tech coach, also thought a lot of the Raiders, telling coach Earle that MTSU was the best team Tech had played to date.

Rich Howell was the batting hero of the first game, getting two other hits to go along with his triple.

by JIM FREEMAN

Jackie Carver, a 19 year old Sophomore from Manchester, Tenn., hit a bases-loaded, pinch-hit home run in the top of the last inning to down Western Kentucky, 4-3, in the first game of Saturday's doubleheader in Bowling Green. MTSU then went on to win the second game, 5-2.

Using their trademark of the big inning, the Raiders once again put all their eggs into one basket, scoring their four runs in the first game on Carvers blast, and getting all five of the second game runs in the second inning of that contest.

Butch McGrath started the first game for the Raiders and pitched well for four innings. He gave up two runs on a ball that went through the shortstop's legs instead of being a double play.

Cunyningham relieved McGrath in the fifth, Chrisman came on in the sixth, and, after Carver batted for Chrisman in the seventh, Paul Smith closed the door on the Hilltoppers in the bottom of the frame.

Chrisman was credited with the win.

The loser was Stan Markham, Western's fine lefthander. Markham actually had a no-hitter going into the seventh. Danny Sandlin doubled. John Price walked, and Bill McKinley singled to set the stage for Carver.

Carver hit a 3-1 pitch, an outside fastball, some 325 feet down the left field line and over the fence to climax the dramatic finish.

In the nightcap, Paul Smith, with last inning help from Greg Cun-

nyningham, pitched a three-hitter to down the Toppers, 5-2.

The Raiders scored all five runs in the second inning on six consecutive hits, five singles and a double.

Coach Earle was delighted with the double win, which puts MTSU solidly in second place in the OVC's Western Division race. He was particularly pleased with the pitching, which limited Western to only five hits in the two games.

John Price, Don Tarter, and Brady Straub were cited for their hitting of late, which Coach Earle says has improved greatly.

MTSU was scheduled to play Tennessee Tech at Cookeville on Monday, and will host powerful Murray this coming Saturday. Murray, the current leader of the Western Division with a perfect 6-0 record, buried Austin Peay in a recent doubleheader, 11-3 and 23-4.

Having all week to rest, Coach Earle will be able to call on any of his pitchers against the thoroughbreds. The probable starters will be McGrath and either Cunyningham or Smith.

Middle Tennessee is now 10-7 for the year, having won their last five in succession. The ten wins represents the total output for last year in the victory column.

NOTICE

Notice to Prospective Graduates:

This is to remind you once again of the services of the Placement Office which are available to you and to encourage you to register before your graduation. We can assist you in securing desirable employment in your chosen field.

Even though you may have definite plans following your graduation, it is most important that you start your file of credentials while you are still on the campus. Your file will then be available whenever you need it for reference to prospective employers throughout your career. Credentials include: data sheet of personal and educational information, references from teachers and/or employers, photograph and student teaching report when applicable.

Forms for registration and development of your file are available in Room 210 in the Administration Building. If it is not convenient for you to visit the office, I will be glad to send the materials to you.

If you have questions regarding the Placement Service or if I can be of any assistance to you, please come by the office at your convenience.

In the original ANTIGONE by Sophocles, the young Antigone stands up against her powerful uncle, Creon the King, and is doomed because she will not surrender her position. Anouilh saw a parallel to the World War II domination of France by the Nazi forces and adapted the play to portray to the beaten French that the VANQUISHED not be humble. In his version, Anouilh saw in the character of Antigone a proud France falling to Fate.

Antigone lives again this May on the University stage. All the things that Anouilh saw two decades ago are still here.

Tickets for the production of ANTIGONE by Jean Anouilh will be issued from the south lobby of the Dramatic Arts Building. In the past the tickets were issued in the basement of the SUB but are being moved to the Theatre for convenience.

Any student wishing to see the play can receive a reservation with his I.D. card. There is no admission to University Students. The General Admissions tickets for other patrons will be the same $1.50. All tickets will be issued from the new location, or can be reserved by calling extension 288, through the University switchboard.

Only one ticket will be honored per I. D. The Production is scheduled for May 10, 12, 13. Tickets will be on reserve the week before and the week of production. Earlier reservations will guarantee better seats.

MTSU Signs Gridironers

Middle Tennessee, in its ever increasing hunt for talented athletes, has announced the signing of a football grant-in-aid by Ronnie Merville, and the inking of a basketball grant-in-aid by Don Lockridge. Both boys are from Nashville.

"Coca-Cola" and "Coke" are registered trade-marks which identify only the product of The Coca-Cola Company.

Oh-oh, better check the punch bowl.

Ice-cold Coca-Cola makes any campus "get-together" a party. Coca-Cola has the taste you never get tired of... always refreshing. That's why things go better with Coke... after Coke... after Coke.
