FROM OTHER EDITORS -- Compulsory ROTC?

(ACP)—Washington State University's 'Daily Evergreen' sums up the voluntary versus compulsory ROTC issue as follows:
 "... Three attitudes towards the compulsory ROTC issue are obvious—against, for and neutral. The attitudes are based on arguments which draw attention to three basic issues:
 "1. Will widespread voluntary ROTC prevent the army from acquiring the 14,000 officers it needs each year?
 "2. Is compulsory ROTC of significant value to the student who does not go into advanced officer training.
 "3. Does compulsory ROTC impose a serious financial and crowded classrooms burden on the educational institution?
 "Possibly the real basis for this entire controversy is an attitude expressed by a Marlborough veterans 250 years ago:
 "God and the soldier we adore
 "In time of danger, not before,
 "The danger passed, and all things righted,
 "God is forgotten and the soldier slighted."

Warm Tribute Is Directed To "Rebels"

Murfreesboro—First, there were the sweet strains of "Lorena" and the songs the Old South, sung by the Sacred Harp Singers of Middle Tennessee College.
 Then there was a stirring series of drum and fife numbers of Civil War days, given by Joe Smith, band director of the college, and Miss Sarah Jones, freshman at the college and a graduate of West High school, Nashville.
 And finally there was a warm tribute to the soldiers of the Confederate Army of Tennessee, delivered by Dr. James I. Robertson, Jr. of the University of Iowa, editor of the Civil War History Quarterly published there.
 These were the features of the second annual dinner meeting of the Nathan Bedford Forrest Round Table at MTSC. About 320 members and guests from five states were present.
 Although beaten and battered by a long series of defeats, the common soldier of the Army of Tennessee managed to keep his sense of humor to the very end, Robertson told his audience. These men were battered but not broken, he said, by the adverse fortunes of war.
 Robertson pictured General Braxton Bragg, Confederate commander at Murfreesboro, Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge, as a cold disciplinarian, despised by his troops. Bragg's successor, General Joseph E. Johnson, was described as just the opposite of Bragg, an able commander, beloved by his men. General John B. Hood, who led the army to final defeat, was described as the victim of a series of disasters, lacking the military capacity to command an army.

It was to the men of the army, rather than to the officers, that Robertson paid his highest tribute. Among the visitors were Lee Meriweather of St. Louis, 97 year old traveler and lecturer, who was present at the death-bed scene of General Nathan Bedford Forrest. Dr. Bob Womack of the education department was "commanding general" and toastmaster for the banquet.

Foreign Students In U.S. Institutions Exceed 57,000

Statistics indicate United States colleges, universities and other institutions of higher learning have more than 57,000 foreign citizens enrolled.
 This international educational program is not a one-way street, as more than 12,000 U. S. citizens will complete their schooling abroad this year, which permits them through close personal associations to project the American way of life among foreign nationals. These international educational programs promise long-range benefits politically and economically.

More foreign citizens study in the United States than in any other country, which promises a better understanding of America's philosophy aimed toward improving the lot of small nations. Inevitably they return better equipped to aid in the development of the economy and standard of living of their native lands.

Not surprising is the fact that the vast majority of foreign citizens studying in the United States come from the underdeveloped countries where schools of advanced learning covering broad fields are either non-existent or all too scarce to satisfy the educational needs.

The largest number come from the Far East, followed in sequence by Latin America, Europe, Near and Middle East, Canada and African countries.

America is accumulating a vast capital of good will among peoples abroad through these cultural exchanges, and if the world's political ills can be helped by a climate of better understanding, then the colleges of the United States are making notable contributions.

This year's officers are Barbara Rogers, president; Bonnie Slatton, vice president; Nancy Bagwell, secretary, and Marie Francis, treasurer.

The officers and other members questioned the new members on their research papers, viewed their skits, and headed the formal initiation ceremony. After this program, refreshments were served.

The society is sponsored by Miss Elizabeth Schardt and Miss Buleah Davis.

Grigsby Sisters: All MTSC Grads, All Five Teachers

Teaching was the only honorable profession girls could enter — so thought C. F. Grigsby and others of his generation. This attitude is probably the greatest single factor that motivated his five daughters to become teachers.

All five are graduate of MTSC, and all five are now teaching in Tennessee schools and have taught a total of 123 years.

A brother also taught for 12 years before joining the Navy in World War II. Another currently on the Williamson County Board of Education, operated his own school bus to transport high school students to Bethesda School before other transportation was available.

Mrs. Bond is past president of the Williamson County ACE and currently vice president of the Middle Tennessee ACE.

Magazine For "Eggheads" Seeks Two Correspondents

It Happened On Campus

By Kenneth Love

Those April showers were a welcome relief from the heat wave the campus has had the past few weeks. It not only cooled the students with the spring fever, but helped the ones with a bad sunburn. There are many varieties of getting a tan, either with the direct sun, sun lamp or a brown tan lotion. Whatever the way you choose, the object is for the skin not to get sore.

We want to remind you of the spring play the drama club is presenting this week. It is under the skillful direction of Mrs. Dorethe Tucker, head of the drama department. This play marks the end of the college career of a veteran actress, Miss Sara Jane Croft. Lots of luck to you, Sara.

ATTENTION. METHODISTS !! You and all of your Methodist friends are invited to a Southern banquet to be held at the Sam Davis home near Smyrna, I'm told. Anyone may come, but all must pay the usual buck and one-half to attend, to eat. Real southern, man.

Now that the candidates have tossed their hats into the ring and begun their hand-shaking, the race is on. The winner might be the one with the fewest promises, or he might be the biggest talker for his campaign. But there will be a winner. With so many candidates on the ballot, there should be a run-off Friday.

More Sparklers - Where? Jones!

By Kay Parker

With spring comes love, and that is what we believe to be true, since two more girls are now wearing sparklers. These two lucky girls are Jane Grooms and Mary Whitaker. We congratulate and give them our best wishes.

Josephine Webb visited Betty Finney at her home in Shelbyville last weekend. Ruth Bigger also spent an enjoyable weekend in Shelbyville, staying at the home of Pam Hasty.

Several of the Jones girls have been busy painting signs for their favorite candidates in the ASB election.

We were all very proud of Petie McPeters, who was a participant in the water show, "Greek God." We are surely happy to have talent such as this in our dorm.

Two of our girls were elected to serve on the Women's Dormitory Council for next year. Those chosen were Bertha Alsop and Nancy Johnson. Bertha has been serving on this some council for the past year.

With every passing day we realize that school is coming to a close.

Some of us will be happy and some sad, but all will be awaiting that rest from studying. Whee America is that wonderful land where it's trashy to sit on the porch in your undershirt, but gracious living if you've got nothing on but shorts."—Tom Dodds.

College, a magazine subtitled "Entertainment and Enlightenment for College Eggheads," will appear at college bookstores and newsstands across the country this September. According to editor-publisher David Preiss, College will become as popular with students as College Humor, a national magazine which aroused great campus enthusiasm during the 20's and 30's but did not return after World War II. He adds, "We do not intend to mimic College Humor or any other magazine; it is our belief that college students today are interested in more intelligent and creative extracurricular pursuits and will read and contribute to a magazine they can respect, identify with and afford."

The staff is presently overstocked with fiction, poetry and humorous works, but they seek non-fiction dealing with the arts, academics, athletics and one 5,000-word survey of the benefits, drawbacks and peculiarities of a specific college or university. They will also reproduce unpublished works of art in any medium by nationally unknown artists.

Besides contributors, College seeks student correspondents, a man and woman from each campus interested in reporting local news and trends of national significance. Applicants accepted as College correspondents receive free subscriptions and are listed on the staff page of the magazine.

Interested students and faculty may submit queries or material to College at 1822 N. Orleans, Chicago 14, Illinois. Return postage and envelopes should accompany all material to guarantee reply in two weeks. While subscriptions are not solicited at this time, the staff intends to issue College monthly, excluding July and August, at 40 cents a copy.

Rutledge Ramblings

Church Groups Go To Camp Retreats

The weekend of the 24th was one of retreat. The Baptist student group spent the weekend at Camp Linden in West Tennessee. Members of the group from Rutledge were Adelia Johnson and Molly Lynch.

Attending the MSM retreat, which was held in Crossville, were Rue Nell Anderson, Mary Lou Crosby, Holland Bratton and Sara Jones.

The lobby of Rutledge Hall has been in full bloom with beautiful roses. Annette Thomason received twelve red roses and very graciously left them in the lobby for all to enjoy.

Several girls from Rutledge have worked very hard and faithfully in preparation for the annual water pageant. Members of "The Greek Gods" cast from Rutledge were Mary Muse, Lois Patton, Annette Thomason, Betty Jo Neese, Liz Walling, Nancy Smith, Nonny Bassett and Faye Bloodsworth.

Rutledge is sorry to lose one of her dormmates. Bebe Bramblett will be commuting from her home in Macheater for the remainder of the semester.

The Midlanders, MTSC's own dance band, will provide music from nine 'till one at the annual Junior-Senior Prom this Friday night.

While the group often plays at college functions of this sort, it also performs at various occasions in other areas throughout Middle Tennessee.

Organized three years ago under the supervision of Mr. Horace Beasley, a member of the music department faculty, the band contains fifteen members. This year the group also has a vocalist, Walter Anderson. Besides making public appearances, the band provides training and experience for boys who desire to play with a group of this sort.

Due to the standard of musicianship possessed by members of the group, the Midlander band continues to serve the college by gaining publicity and prestige.

Chatman, Main Speaker, Will Address Executives

Walter Chatman, member of the business department staff, will be the principal speaker at the afternoon meeting of the Independent Telephone Company executives of Tennessee and Kentucky on May 18.

The meeting, scheduled for the Noel Hotel, will be attended by more than 100 managers, accountants, supervisors and owners of Independent Telephone Exchanges from the two states.

Mr. Chatman will speak on the subject, "Office Personnel Selection, Training and Supervision."

Indoctrination, compensation, counseling, health and welfare of workers for the exchanges will be the theme of Mr. Chatman's address.

The Old Timer

"One thing that keeps America on the move is the lack of parking space."

Church Has Banquet

Fifty-one members of the Church of Christ study group on the MTSC campus enjoyed their annual steak dinner at the James K. Polk Hotel last Thursday.

Dr. Wyman Wiser was toastmaster for the evening, and Bill Carpenter, champion after-dinner speaker from David Lipscomb College, was the principal speaker.

Seven Faculty Members Aid In Career Day

Career Day at Tracey City this year attracted more than the usual number of Middle Tennessee State College teachers for participation. Invited to take part on the program were Dr. Francis Riel, Dr. J. Eldred Wiser, Mrs. Henrietta Wade, Jere Farley, Neil Wright, Dr. Richard Kirksey and Lane Boutwell.

All participated on various phases of the April 20 program at the Grundy County high school.

These are the silver wings of a U. S. Air Force Navigator. As a flying officer on the Aerospace team, he has chosen a career of leadership, a career that has meaning, rewards and executive opportunity.

The Aviation Cadet Program is the gateway to this career. To qualify for this rigorous and professional training, a high school diploma is required; however, two or more years of college are highly desirable. Upon completion of the program the Air Force encourages the new officer to earn his degree so he can better handle the responsibilities of his position. This includes full pay and allowances while taking off-duty courses under the Bootstrap education program. The Air Force will pay a substantial part of all tuition costs. After having attained enough credits so that he can complete course work and residence requirements for a college degree in 6 months or less, he is eligible to apply for temporary duty at the school of his choice.

If you think you have what it takes to earn the silver wings of an Air Force Navigator, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Ask him about Aviation Cadet Navigator training and the benefits which are available to a flying officer in the Air Force. Or fill in and mail this coupon.

NEWS FLASH! Monohan Confesses Responsibility In Sun-Burn Charges

By Sharon Brooks and Maxine Smith

Have you seen all the sun-burns so many co-eds are sporting? It's surprising how many of them are the result of too much basking on Monohan's popular sun deck, which has recently become the gathering place for the girls from all the dorms.

All the Monohan girls are anxiously awaiting the Junior-Senior Prom. Many of them are helping with decorations for this festive occasion. Pat Beasley and Mary Boyd were last seen making oriental flowers.

Monohan Sports Politician

We are proud to have Betty Willard as a candidate for vice-president in the ASB election.

"Happy birthday, dear Barbara" could be heard ringing through the halls last week when a group of her friends gave Barbara Rogers a surprise birthday party.

Billie Jean Chrisman found a mouse on Patty Andrews' bed, but Mrs. Patterson came to the rescue. Don't be too hasty if you see a little ball of fur scurrying by your feet, because all rats aren't rats. One of them may be Herman. If this is the case, please return him to Cecile Mayberry.

Amelia Hinds received a nice present last week. She is now the latest of the Monohan girls who are sporting sparklers.

Daryl Miller is having as her guests this weekend Carole King, Carol Smith, Bobbie Sue Garner and Jimmie Sue Elam.

Congratulations, T. O.!

Monohan is proud of its seven newly chosen members of Tau Omicron. They are Sharon Brooks, Rosalind Crawley, Cecile Mayberry, Maxine Smith, Pat Turner, Betty Willard and Jerry Williams. Also initiated was Sylvia Williams of Murfreesboro.

May Dean Coop called the doctor about Jerry Williams' sick guppies; they died anyway. Ask Peggy Prince what she did with them.

Four Sewart Airmen Study During Slack Working Hours

One day last week, a couple of college men broke away from a large group of students intent on a deep discussion in front of the Andrew L. Todd library at Middle Tennessee State College, and hurried across the campus.

"What's your hurry?" said one as the two men made their departure.

"We have to get to work. See you at the test tomorrow morning."

What the majority of students in the discussion did not know however was that these two men were not holding down part-time, after school jobs. Far from it, since both are U. S. Air Force airmen who are holding down a full time job, a full time education, and in one case, a full time family.

But these airmen are typical of the some dozen military personnel at Sewart Air Force Base who are double-timing it to take advantage of the educational opportunities offered by the service. In their quest for knowledge, they average eight hours on the job, and up to eight hours in school.

The question is where do they find the time to eat, sleep, study, and be a family man.

"In my case," answered A/1C Andre B. A. Dunaim, "I have such a job in the Air Force where my commanding officer will allow me to study when I'm not busy. In the sign-out facility at Sewart where I work from midnight to 8 a.m. the number of people coming in is limited and I can study. I guess I'm luckier, though, than some of the other fellows."

This was true. In the case of A/2C Harold Caldwell of Detachment 16, 3d Weather Squadron, the work is not as slow during the

Coughing Your Head Off? Take Heart: You're Not Al

Each year unknown millions in the northern hemisphere of this world of ours catch colds. And one of the consequences of the common cold is the common cough. So, if you've been coughing your head off lately, take heart: you're in good company. The cough is one of the oldest and most universal miseries known to man.

Though the cause of the common cold is still unknown, the cough is no mystery. It is defined by the experts as, "a sudden, noisy expulsion of air from the lungs."

But it is only the other day—as the history of the human race goes—that coughs were understood at all. Coughing has been variously attributed to demons, witches, jealous enemies, angry ancestors, the evil eye.

In the middle ages, doctor-astrologists attributed the cough to a sinister omen from the heavens—a conjunction of Mars and Mercury, or the appearance of shooting stars. And as late as the Victorian period in England, coughing was attributed to disappointment in love.

Actually, coughs fall into two medical classifications: the "useful" cough and the "useless" cough.

The "useful" cough helps to clear the respiratory passage, makes breathing easier during and after a cold. It loosens the accumulation of mucus and other secretions and aids in their elimination. Because the "useful" cough is working for you, and not against you, it provides relief, and even pleasure.

The "useless" cough, however, is usually caused by pressure on the windpipe. It's often a nervous reflex, caused by irritation of the respiratory system. It is dry, unproductive, and does nothing except make you feel tired. The "useless" cough irritates an inflamed respiratory tract and can become very painful.

Sounds simple enough, but the cough has resisted treatment for most of man's history. Remedies have been extraordinarily varied—and all of them failures. Cures have included such items as: the juice of a clove of garlic that has been boiled and baked; syrup made of vinegar and sugar; boiled eucalyptus leaves; the eating of a roast mouse. Sufferers from coughs have been sweated, bled, cupped, exercised, forced to lie immobile. They have endured high temperatures and ice packs. They have been starved and stuffed and purged. And they went right on coughing.

It is a fairly recent development to have a medicine for a cough that actually works.

Today, modern science has replaced the witch-doctor, and logic has replaced superstition as a means of uncovering knowledge of what causes disease. If you are buying a bottle of cough syrup at the corner drug store—rather than eating a roast mouse—it's due to the remarkable advances in our knowledge of the body and how it works.

It's Title Time Again!

This week-end, at Athens, Georgia, scene of the annual Southern Intercollegiate golf meet, Middle Tennessee State's golfers, along with participants from many, many more colleges and universities, will face a common test—to tour the some 6,500 yards of rolling terrain at the Athens Country Club course in something similar to par 36-36-72 figures.

Such an event will bring the title of "best collegiate golfer" in the southeastern U. S. to some deserving player, but for MTSC this is the stepping-stone into a month of top-flight championship competition. During this same week-end, the Blue Raiders' track squad will journey to Cookeville for an engagement with the best in Tennessee track and field talent in the annual TIAC meet.

Then next week, at the Riverside Country Club course in Chattanooga, the Raider linksmen will again face stiff opposition from a field of Tennessee Intercollegiate members and will be out to defend their team title won by a whooping 17-stroke margin a year ago.

And still again, two weeks hence, the Raiders will close out their spring sports schedules with the busiest two-day stretch of the season. The golf team will compete in the OVC at Johnson City, but the track and tennis squads will settle down in the friendly atmosphere of their own backyard and play host to the other conference teams.

And How Will The Raiders Fare?

To use the performances of the regular season as a sort of prognostication of things to come is suicide in some respects. For one, competitors will have the added pressure of a big meet occupying their sensitive minds. This is something in accordance with what crack shot-putter, Parry O'Brien, calls "the influence of the 'senior-psyche.'" He believes that what an athlete does in practice is anonymous with what he will do in pressure-packed competition, and the presence of a "superior" in the same meet will greatly hinder one's mental attitude towards calm concentration.

In the case of MTSC, this so-called "senior-psyche" could be represented in the form of Memphis State in the TIAC track meet and Murray State in the OVC. However, there are also numerous individuals in each event who might be exceptionally good despite their team's low all-around strength.

In regard to golf, the added "burden" might be the fact that both the TIAC and OVC, plus this week's Southern, will be held on courses that are vastly superior to the Stones River Country Club home location. That plus the fact that practically every institution in the southeast will be represented in Athens is enough pressure by itself.

However, Coach E. K. Patty may have one of these handicaps beaten halfway already, but whether this was done by design is not known. A look at the schedule will show that the golf team played at Chattanooga and Nashville, both with stringy fairways on their last two outings, and this extra "practice" may well prepare them for a fine showing.

A New Look—

Two innovations will be presented this year when the OVC parade comes to town. The advent of night track meets as well as tennis also is being given a thorough scrutiny. It seems that the recent meet here with Western Kentucky had tremendous success under the lights, and more of the same is the forward outlook if such attendance turnouts are maintained.

Tennis is about to follow suit, as it has been revealed that lights will be installed above the new asphalt courts in time for the OVC finals.

With such happenings here, and with such fan appeal, one of the largest crowds to witness an OVC meet is not at all likely.

This And That —

—Despite an only fair over-all record, Coach "Buck" Rolman's baseball outfit can still win the OVC title by merely winning the 6 games required for the title. Home games with Murray and East Tennessee and away tilts with Western, Morehead, and Eastern, plus the already won TPI game are the only necessary victories needed for the crown.

—As was mistaken here in the last issue, Bonnie Slatton is a member of the tennis team. With the advantage of playing at home, the squad could surprise in the OVC meet despite being rather luckless in their regular season play.

—Two real "sleepers" on this year's golf outfit are Gary Head, from Springfield, and Randy Woodward, from Lewisburg. Since both are only freshmen, a bright outlook is the forecast for their fine play.

Floundering Raiders Hopes Fading In OVC Baseball Race—

If Middle Tennessee State's baseball Raiders are anticipating a high finish in the Ohio Valley League this spring, their hurlers are going to have to bear down and pitch and their swingers are going to be pressed into a hitting must at the same time. So far this slate, which is halfway over, the squad hasn't been supplied with the combination of these two.

Sadest among many sad moments so far has been the troublesome hitting of the outfit and the failure of some of the personnel to come around as expected. The left side of the infield has spotty fielding where the hitters are playing, and poor hitting with good fielders in the line up. Also, an outfield position hasn't responded as hoped.

There have been some bright spots on the clubs festive agenda through the first 10 clashes. Among them is the .350 batting of leftfielder Ray Purvis, who has also driven six roundtriper blasts out of the OVC parks and is playing some fine defensive ball. In our and many more fans' opinions, this fleet footed Purvis is the most improved boy on the club.

Maybe the luck-man was jabbing the club in the tonsils in a couple of the games or in maybe more. The tide could have easily been turned in the Tennessee Tech contest, as on run was the verdict a week back, and against Taylor University in a 3-2 loss on the local base paths. With a little luck on your side, team, you'd have been riding in cloud nine. Let's back Coach Rolman and the boys in this final crucial push towards another OVC crown.

A local news source recently stated that experience was the biggest problem confronting the club in its so-far-poor season. But we will have to disagree fully with that statement, because they forget this same ball club played here all last season and these veterans, with the exception of first base, one catcher and a short stop, have had very much experience diamond-wise. So we would have to cite the fact that the other league schools especially are much stronger than a year ago and throw more punch at the ball club.

Two Bradley County Stars Top List of Football Grants—

Highly sought quarterback Louie Alford and 220-pound tackle, Bill White, who led Bradley County to the number two rating in the state high school grid polls this past season, were among the list of 15 prospects to sign MTSC football intentions for next season.

Also among the crew were two of Nashville's most sought linemen, guard Bobby Sexton of Cohn and tackle Tony Adcock of Madison, both of whom took all-city and all midstate honors. Two local Murfreesboro lads were among the names too, T. McFerrin, a speedy 150-pound halfback, and the top center, Jerry Eatherly.

Rounding out the group were halfbacks Ken Winkler of Nashville Bellvue, Bobby Ballou of LaFayette, Tennessee, and Jim Dende of LaFayette, Georgia. Three fullbacks were named L. E. Claiborne, LaFayette; Frank Lawrence, Huntsville, Alabama, and Larry Leahon, Largo, Florida. Other linemen were guard Gerald Hodgen, Huntsville, Alabama, tackles Jack Armstrong, Sevierville, and Ken Forte, Columbia Military Academy. It appears that the Raiders' glamor in the Tangerine Bowl is still glowing.

Nashville's Number One Cage Prospect Signed By Raiders—

MTSC lured 6'6" Buddy Lever to a basketball grant last week and in so doing got what most experts rated as the top cage prospect to come out of the NIL this year. Lever was a standout on East High's cage squad and averaged well over 20 points a contest his senior year, this past season.

Mentor Diddle, Jr., followed up the previous announcement with the news of the signing of Liberty High School's jumping jack forward Eddy Hobson. David Cowan, a 6-4 forward from Ferguson, Kentucky, will transfer from Lindsey Wilson Junior College and enter MTSC next fall, and that was welcomed by the athletic department. Other players known to have signed MTSC cage grants are Centertown's Bill Cunningham, who poured in points this season at a 28-clip per contest rate, and Sparta High's standout Jerry Allen.

Winding-Up The Blues—

Rumor of a week ago had Raiders ex-grid captain Bucky Pitts going to Fayetteville High School as head football coach next season. A deserving tribute to a hometown boy.

Remember Tommy Wells, who hurled Murray States Thoroughbreds to the OVC crown two years ago, 1958, and signed a $25,000 bonus contract with the Lon Angeles Dodgers at the end of his junior year in school? This is the same Tommy Wells now pitching for the Atlanta Crackers.

East Tennessee's brilliant junior forward Tom Chilton was named a couple weeks back to the 1960 Southeast All-Region Basketball outfit of Coach and Athlete magazine. Along with Chilton was TPI center Jim Hagan, Western Kentucky's Charlie Osborne and Roger Kaiser of Georgia Tech, with Auburn's Henry Hart being the fifth man.

Livestock Judging Contest Held On College Farm

Some 600 Future Farmers of America and 100 teachers from 100 high schools in Middle Tennessee competed in a livestock judging contest held on the MTSC farm at the first of this month.

The teachers and pupils represented every county in the Middle Tennessee area at one of the largest judging contests held at Middle Tennessee in several years.

During the one day session they judged beef and dairy cattle and sheep and swine.

The college farm supplied most of the stock with the exception of the sheep, which were loaned to the college for the contest.

The Block and Bridle club at the college served lunch to those entered in the contest. Proceeds

Veteran's Club Erects Signs As Welcome To MTSC Campus

By Bill Allen

The Veterans Club has succeeded in accomplishing its main project for this year, the erecting of road signs on four of the highways leading into Murfreesboro.

These signs say "Welcome to Murfreesboro, Home of Middle Tennessee State College," and are located on the Woodbury, Chattanooga, Shelbyville and Lebanon highways.

Chairman of the project was Charles Harrell.

The club wishes to thank the maintenance department for their help on this project. The signs would have been erected sooner, but due to the inclement weather this past winter, work was delayed.

The Veterans Club deserves credit for the good work they have done on and about campus and the good job they are still doing. In past years, among other projects, the club has erected the flagpole on the football field and the directory at the entrance of the campus at the S. U. B. Also, the club has a glasses fund for the aid of any student who needs eye glasses.

Walter L. Chatman, instructor in the business department, is the club sponsor.

graduate from Sewanee Military Academy. He is a major in agriculture, a member of the Block and Bridle Club, a member of the Circle K Club board of directors, and a justice in the ASB Supreme Court. He was vice-president of his freshman class and president of the sophomore class in 1958.

Rogers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walker A. Rogers and is a pre-law major. He is vice-president of the junior class this year, vice-president of the Pre-Law Club, and a member of the Board of Directors of Circle K, Phi Kappa Delta and the college debate team.

Thelma graduated from White Sounty High School at Sparta and is an education major. She served as secretary of both the freshman and sophomore classes and is a member of the college chorus and the dormitory council. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Holman of Sparta.

Betty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Willard of Chattanooga and a graduate from Chattanooga City High School. She is an ROTC sponsor and a member of Tau Omicron, honor society for girls.

Betty has been a cheerleader for two years and was recently elected Miss Midlander for 1960.

Preceding nominations, the MTSC chorus presented a very entertaining program consisting of two parts, the first four numbers being sacred and the second group of songs being folk songs and a medley of selections from "My Fair Lady."
