Circle K Hosts Party

By Gray Hill

The Christmas season has passed but not before Circle K contributed some part to it. This began by several club members rising at 5:30 a. m. on Sunday morning, December 13, to help the American Legion sell papers.

At one o'clock of the same day, a big Christmas party for the underprivileged children of Murfreesboro which was such a hit last year began with a bus leaving to pick up fifty young visitors from whom the party was to be given this year. Upon their return, the program began by the members, their dates, and visitors being entertained by cartoons. Following the cartoons were Christmas carols including a rendition of "Jingle Bells" that sounded somewhat off key. In between the carols, the story of "The Littlest Angel" was read by Mary Pat Williams.

Ice cream, cake, cookies, and coke was the next step on the program. The merry "ho, ho, ho" of Ed "Santa Claus" Hodges was not to be held back, however. Eager youngsters with bright smiling though timid faces stole the hearts of all there as Santa distributed the packages from under the tree.

The day ended all too soon, and the youngsters boarded the bus to return home. The happiness of that afternoon gave the Christmas season an excellent beginning to all who had taken part.

ROTC Drill Unit Travels To Mardi Gras February 27

Major appearance of the year for the Sam Davis Rifles, Middle Tennessee State's famous ROTC drill unit, will occur when the team travels to metropolitan New Orleans to participate in the annual Mardi Gras celebration, February 27. The team will be airlifted to the event.

The Sam Davis Rifles were invited to participate on behalf of the Gretna Carnival Club and the invitation was accepted by President Quill E. Cope. The invitation was received because of the high reputation that the Drill Team has established. The Gretna Carnival is an integral part of this nation's major Mardi Gras celebration in metropolitan New Orleans, Louisiana.

High praise and commendation has been received for appearances in the Central high school Homecoming Parade, MTSC Homecoming Parade and pre-game activities, Blue Raider Bowl pre-game activities, the NCAA mid-east Rice Bowl game, and Christmas Parades at Hopkinsville, Kentucky; Franklin, Tullahoma, and Nashville, Tennessee. The Drill Team is commanded by Cadet SFC Robert Ealy of Murfreesboro.

Pi Gamma Mu Selects 20 Leaders For Fall Membership

The Zeta chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national society for social science majors, selected 20 students from Middle Tennessee State College for membership in the organization at the conclusion of the fall semester.

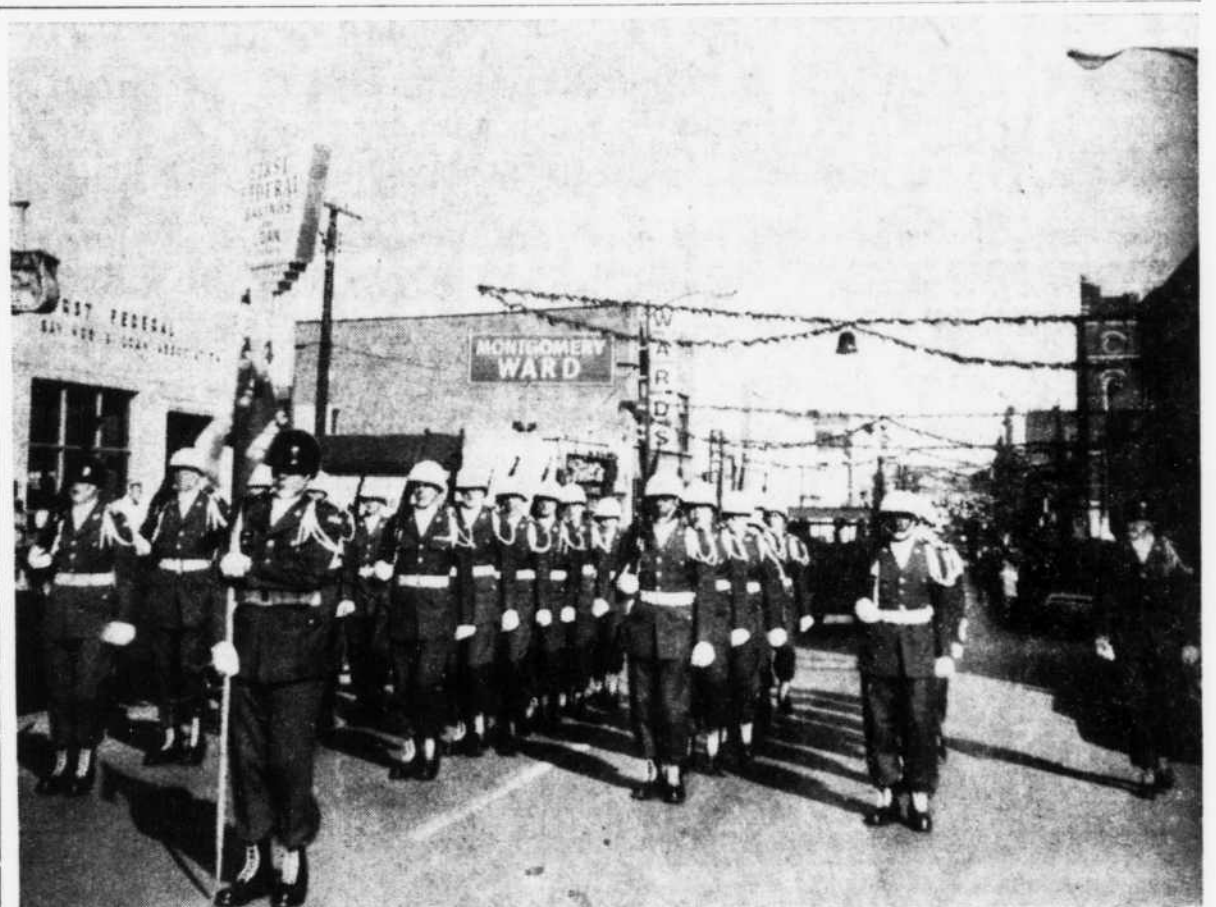

Initiates were inducted in the traditional candlelight service Thursday afternoon, January 7 with the officers acting as an initiation team.

Pi Gamma Mu is a college society for superior students in the graduate and undergraduate field of social science. The seven ideals of the fraternity emphasize scholarship, science, social science, social idealism, sociability, social service, and sacrifice.

The new members of Zeta chapter are Roger H. Busse, Waynesburg, Ky.; James Kenneth Cantrell, McMinnville; Corinne C. Carlton, Murfreesboro; Ernest Joseph Cioffi, Mt. Vernon, New York; Bonnie Marie DeHoff, Murfreesboro; Richard Joseph Hanley, Nashville; Robert R. Harriman, Crossville; M. Scott Hendrick, Pulaski; Olivia McBroom, Atlanta, Ga.; Harold B. Marsh, Petersburg; Connie Martin, Orlando, Fla.; Franklin Mashburn, Murfreesboro; John Larry Phillips, Murfreesboro; Petis Powell, Christiansburg; Larry Sanders, Watertown; Patricia F. Sharber, Murfreesboro; Glen W. Stewart, Jr., Hartsville; David Talley, Lewisburg; William W. Thompson, Murfreesboro; and Carl Vanas, Nashville.

Tom Gallagher, president of Zeta chapter, was in charge of the initiation team which included Sam MacLean, vice-president; Barbara Duke, secretary; Joan McBee, treasurer; and Allen Tolbert, sergeant at arms.

Now or Never

Final examination for the semester are presently uppermost in the minds of students at MTSC. With the coming of next week, anxieties, later hours, last minute reports, and term papers are becoming a common thing.

This period of last minute studying or cramming will determine for many whether or not they will graduate, remain in school, or achieve their goals gradewise. Freshman will experience a four-day period which requires more brain power than has ever been expected of them before. The time for "goofing off" must cease and be replaced with a serious state of effort.

With all droopy faces now evoked, let a word of encouragement be extended these poor creatures, however. Put everything you have into achieving your highest level. Never had you had such an opportunity to learn to capacity, to exercise your thinking process and memory patterns.

Do this in the right manner, however. Schedule your time next week so you can eat properly and sleep enough to give your mind the essential rest it needs in order to function at its best. And most of all, start studying NOW. Don't wait until Sunday night.

Upperclassmen will make the rounds perhaps for the final time, and they are also encouraged to put their best foot forward during final week. Use the abilities that have carried you thus far to your best advantage, and sigh with relief and not disappointment when you leave that last exam.

Good luck, everyone!

After Christmas

Christmas is over with joyful sound.
I've just finished taking the Christmas tree down.
I've cleaned our big mirror and undecked the hall.
Now soon I shall vacuum and that will be all.
The mistletoe's gone. The holly we find
Has burned in the fireplace along with the pine.
And as we go cleaning around the bare room
We sweep decorations along with the broom.
The cookies are eaten. The Egg Nog's been drunk.
The little toy battleship now has been sunk.
The stockings that "hung by the chimney with care",
Have gone to the cleaners,—some worse for the wear.
The nutshell's are being cleaned up from the floor.
While I take the silver bells down from the door.
And now the room's clean; the work is all done,
And Christmas is over with all of its fun.

Dear Editor

Dear Editor:

In the previous letter by Mr. Bill Lewis, he apparently feels that MTSC is the World's Largest High School. It also appears that he is against any type of rules and regulations. However, as he stated, we the students, are here of our own free will — and I might add that at any time we find ourselves unable and unwilling to conform to or accept the standards and regulations of this institution, we may leave as we previously entered — by our own will.

During the past two years I have been a student employee of Woodmore Dining Hall, and it has been evident to me that there are those not wishing to take their trays and place them in the designated area. Do they expect service such as is given by an exclusive establishment where prices are in accord with the service? What would our cafeteria look like if everyone chose to leave their trays scattered upon the tables? What a disgusting appearance there would be if everyone threw salt, pepper, and sugar over the tables!

Why should our ROTC Department be criticized so strongly when there also are other classes such as Biological Science (Frosh), Physical Science and Chemistry (Soph) that have labs? Aren't they comparatively the same as ROTC Drill? Our ROTC Department has many good qualities that sometimes aren't recognized — such as the student's opportunity to be taught points of cooperation, discipline, leadership, patience, and precision. It is an opportunity for those who are willing to meet its requirements and it offers many advantages.

Sarcastic dissent, disregard for rules, and contempt for regulations can bring about no great accomplishment and is no way to better a situation which you do not like.

Rules are made to protect ourselves and others from those who will not willingly recognize good intentions and acceptable behavior. Rules are not to be broken as some people tend to think. I am thankful that there is only a small minority of students as sarcastic and rebellious here at MTSC. What a disorganized institution we would have were they in majority.

In the "Letter to the Editor" which appeared in the December 15 issue of THE SIDELINES, there was begun a discussion of the proper role for MTSC to assume in the immediate future. That letter dealt with the general attitudes and convictions of the school. Although much more could be written in that vein, perhaps the time has come to deal with specific problems and solutions, and to clarify the position already taken.

I am not advocating an end to all laws. I am, rather, asking for laws tailored to the needs of the students.

I am not asking the school to abdicate responsibility for its students. In fact, I am asking it to assume even greater responsibilities. I am asking it to consider itself responsible for its graduates attitude toward and preparedness for late twentieth century social life, as well as for their attitude toward and preparedness for intellectual life.

The College's concern for its Freshman and Sophomore female students are very understandable, and are its germane actions. Allow me to point out, however, that if the college insists on sheltering the girls during all four years, those girls are going to be no better prepared for life when they leave here than they were when they arrived.

In order that its students may "try their wings" while still in school, the college should adopt much more lenient dormitory hours for JUNIORS AND SENIORS ONLY:

	12:00 M.
Sunday-Thursday	1:00 A. M.
Friday and Saturday	2:00 A. M. with permission
	4:00 A. M. with special permission

In other words, 1:00 A. M. should be the regular week-end closing time for mature students. By simply asking for permission, such an adult girl should be allowed to come in at 2:00 in the morning. For special occasions, such as cast party in drama which does not begin until after the show is over, a girl could receive special permission until as late as 4:00 A. M., provided she left word at the desk name of the adults responsible for the occasion, the address of the party, and a telephone number at which she could be reached.

It has been brought to my attention that a young lady at M.T.S.C. suspected of drinking, is summarily subjected to "discipline" on the unquestioned word of her dorm mother, even if she is no longer a minor. If this is true, it is not only against common sense, but contrary to both state and local law, which assumes me innocent until guilt is established.

The school would do well to remember that very few persons want to violate its regulations. They do so only when those regulations are very far out of line with their values and the values of their contemporaries in society. They feel guilty when doing so.

If the school wishes to convince its students that they must have a sense of guilt concerning habits which they will probably follow the rest of their lives, the current policy is admirable.

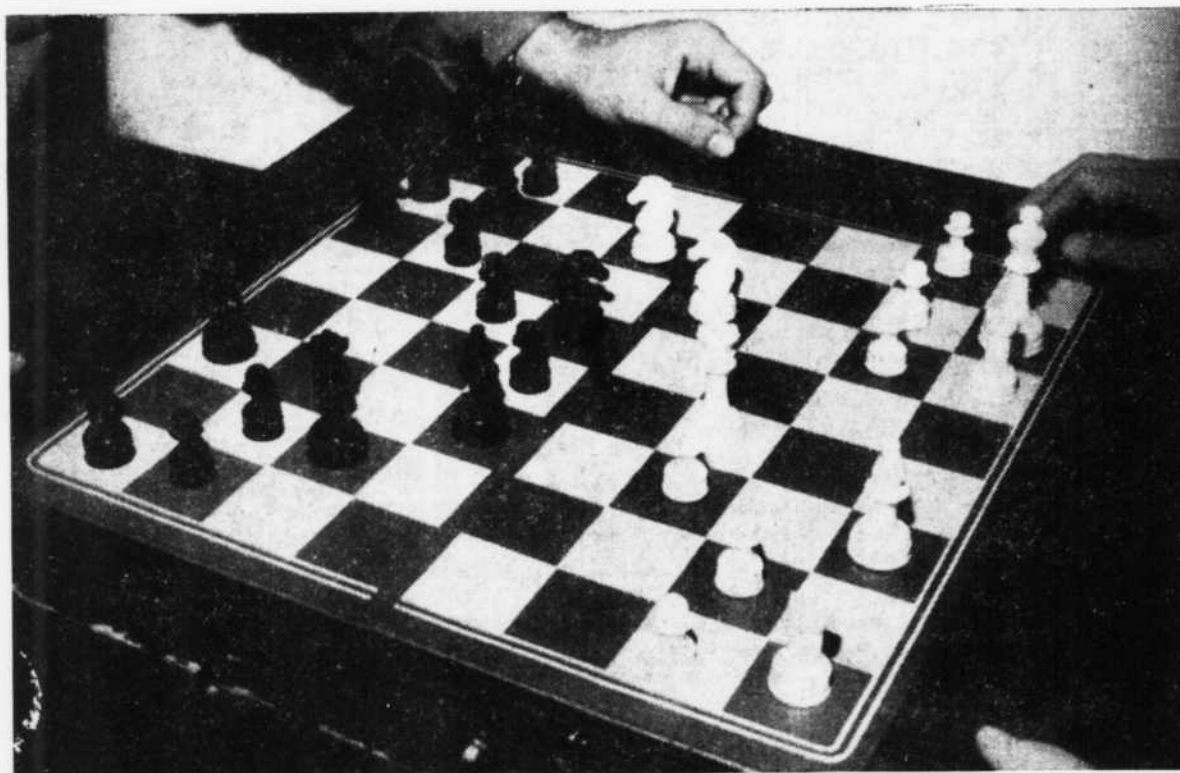

Cafeteria trays should be picked up and returned by the hired help. In this small thing, as in all aspects of college life, the institution should consider itself as existing for its students. College students do not need to be taught to pick up after themselves—they need to be taught to live in a world which waits on the educated.

The Associated Student Body, I understand, has adopted a resolution petitioning the Tennessee legislature to name the new school the "University of Middle Tennessee." Well and good. The name is far more pleasing than others that we have heard.

In conclusion, let me discuss two reactions to that first letter.

Those persons who felt obligated to "defend" MTSC to me are mistaken in their premise. If I did not basically appreciate MTSC, I would never have bothered to criticize it. The truth is that in many respects MTSC is a better school than either Sewanee or Vanderbilt, to name two with which I am familiar.

Concern for my well-being at the hands of the administration is similarly unfounded. Not only have there been no rumblings or explosions from the officials of the college, there has been no reaction of any kind. Perhaps this quiet state of affairs is not gratifying—it is disappointing. Without action and reaction, all the printed protest in the world amounts to nothing more than inked newsprint.

To those students who are "nuts" about chess the MTSC Chess Club presents the problem above for such "chess-nuts".

The problem: White is to move and mate in three moves!

This particular problem was encountered by one of the MTSC chessnuts while practicing for the recent match with the Murfreesboro Chess Club.

Faculty members and students who enjoy chess are invited to join the fun Monday nights at 7:30 in room 28 of the Science Building.

O, Yes! The solution to this problem over which puzzled hands are poised in the picture may be found on another page in this weeks SIDELINES.

Flash-on Shots

Poised at the brink of a great new year, Ray and Fay Gannon, sophomore twins from Murfreesboro, are this week's fashion models.

Fay begins her new year with a triple fashion hit. A smart suede vest over a flattering crepe blouse gives the layered look which is very popular in today's fashion. The blouse displays a slight cowl neckline that softly lays in place. Tiny buttons set off the cuffs.

Suede, which is one of this season's top fabrics, is used in the form of a slip over "V" neck vest. The vest can double as a tunic over a dress of a complimentary color. The straight lines of the vest are continued in the tailored skirt of miniature checks.

Ray models a "V" neck cardigan sweater of mohair and wool with contrasting colors. A novelty design well balanced on each side adds detail and interest.

Also modeled with the sweater is an oxford button down dress shirt which is the most popular of all dress shirts. A fashionable tie adds more personality, distinction and good taste to both the sweater and shirt. Casual slacks of wash and wear chino completes the coordinated look.

A boy's sweater wardrobe should be limited only by his budget. Although the new well-tailored cardigan with lapels and trim doesn't replace sportcoats and blazers, they are splendid for classroom wear. Almost all neck styles—V, cardigan, crew, turtleneck and boat are acceptable. A "V" neck sweater worn with a shirt and tie under a sport coat is dress up apparel for most casual affairs in town or on campus.

Ray's sweater is courtesy of Pigg and Parsons.

right in with the swing of things. She has participated actively in the departmental activities which includes working on the Home Economics Club float. Her teaching duties center around house furnishings.

Miss Campbell received her degree from Winthrop College in Rhode Island. She furthered her studies at the New York School of Interior Design and finally received her masters from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro in housing and home management.

After doing some traveling especially along the East Coast, Miss Campbell held a position on the faculty of Pembroke State College in Pembroke, North Carolina. From there she came to Middle Tennessee State College where she teaches home furnishings, housings, methods, and freshman orientation.

Miss Campbell has also taken an interest in off campus organizations. She belongs to the Dames Club, the First Methodist Church, and has the honor of membership in the American Association of University Women.

When asked what she thought of our campus, Miss Campbell commented, "I have certainly enjoyed being here. The people have certainly welcomed me. The facilities here are quite good and the students are very responsive."

Miss Campbell has no real plans for the future but does hope to eventually obtain her doctorate.

JOHN WRIGHT, MTSC ALUMNUS, HOLDS ROLE IN McHALES NAVY

John Wright, former MTSC business administrator major, was featured in a front page color photograph of the Nashville TENNESSEAN "Showcase" Sunday in company with Ernest Borgnine, with whom Johnny plays in McHale's Aavy TV show on the ABC network.

A full page write-up on Johnny's success was carried on page 15 of Showcase. He was married to Brenda Davis, another former MTSC student, in Las Vegas following the filming of an episode of McHale's Navy.

A native of Charleston, West Virginia, Johnny has been "on stage" since he was five years of age. His father John Robert Wright, Sr., is a member of the "Johnny and Jack Tennessee Mountain Boys" group. His mother who appears under the stage name of Kitty Wells, has been for 12 years the "queen of country music". Two sisters Carol Sue and Ruby Jean, sing professionally as a pop duet under the name of the Wright sisters.

Johnny is the "Tennessee country boy" in McHale's Navy. While a student here he played occasionally with the Grand Ole Opry and did rock and roll and pop records.

The Wrights say they will return to Middle Tennessee when McHale's Navy is put in drydock.

Harlem Magicians Appear

by Bert Wakeley

Speaking of basketball, there are some real "kings" of basketball coming to Middle Tennessee State. I'm speaking of course of the Harlem Magicians.

The Magicians are headed by the famous Marques Haynes, "The greatest dribbler in the world!" Also on the team are Josh Grider, one of the original Harlem Globetrotters, and Sweetwater Clifton, another Globetrotter who is also famous in the pro-leagues. Paul Martin is a 6'8" center of the magicians who can do anything.

In 1955, the owner of the Harlem Globetrotters sold Haynes to the Philadelphia Warriors. Haynes refused to report to the Warriors, and, instead, organized his own team — the Magicians.

Now there are four of the original Globetrotters on the Magicians. They have played a total of 2172 games as of the end of the '63-'64 season. They have only lost 8. Fantastic? Wait until you see them to answer. Not only are they extremely good, but also extremely funny. This will be a game well worth attending.

Raiders Sign Top Mid-Tenn Prospects

Three Murfreesboro Central grid stars were among the eight outstanding high school prospects signed to Raider grants-in-aid during the holiday period.

Latest Tigers to ink grant applications are Dickie Thomas, all-Tennessee quarterback and Don Warren, All-Tennessee guard. Team mate Gary Gardner, who also played outstanding guard for the Tigers, was signed last week. Thomas was one of the most sought after high school players in Tennessee.

John Major, all-Mid-State center from Lebanon, has also signed to play as a Raider. The 190 pound, six foot Major, was another highly regarded college prospect. Ken Thompson, all-NIL tackle from Glenciff and Ron Willis a 198 pound tackle from Nashville West were NIL players secured by Murphey-Hayes et al.

Dan Majors, a six foot, 195 pound fullback from Tullahoma made the all Mid-State as a sophomore at Tullahoma and then moved to California where he played as a junior. He did not play football last year but is regarded as a top flight college tackle prospect.

Rounding out the octette of 1966 freshman Raiders is Vinson Harper, a 6-2, 190 pound end who made the all-Knoxville team as an end at Knoxville South.

'65 Tennis Schedule Previews Exciting Season

The 1965 Middle Tennessee tennis schedule has been released by the Athletic Office and indicates that the Raider Netmen will have their work cut out for them this Spring.

Missing from the slate this year are such past opponents as Birmingham Southern, Florence and Belmont and replacing them are such tennis Goliaths as Louisville, Murray, Western, and Bellarmine.

Granville S. Bouldin, local attorney and social science instructor at the college is tennis coach.

David Lipscomb college, a real power in Tennessee Collegiate Tennis in the past two years, returns to the schedule this season after an absence of several years. Two opponents are listed who are completely new to the MTSC tennis slate — Vanderbilt and the University of the South.

Traditional Raider rivals TPI, Austin Peay and Chattanooga are again listed, and the Netters will compete in the TIAC tournament as well as the annual OVC tournament which will be held at East Tennessee this year. This year's schedule also includes something of a tennis "first" in the OVC — a two-day quadrangular meet at Murray, Kentucky in which the Blue Raiders will play matches against all three of the strong teams in the conference.

ROTC Bloodmobile Proves Successful

Rutherford county will remain on "blanket coverage" with free blood for everyone in the county as a result of two successful visits by the Red Cross Bloodmobile on December 1 and December 8 at Middle Tennessee State College.

With a total quota of 520 pints for the two visits, 324 pints were donated on December 1 and 232 pints on December 8. Although last year's total of 592 was not exceeded, the total of 556 pints surpassed the quota by 36 pints.

The blood drive at the college was sponsored by the Track and Sabre Club of the ROTC unit of MTSC. By agreeing to donate a pint of blood, a cadet is excused from one drill and the company with the highest percentage of donors in each battalion is excused from a drill.

Members of the Track and Sabre Club assisted by loading and unloading the Bloodmobile's equipment, and the female sponsors of each unit assisted by helping the nurses take care of the donors.

Ft. Campbell Commander ROTC Cadet Speaker

Major General Beverly E. Powell, Commanding General of the 101st Airborne Division of Fort Campbell, Kentucky, will be the speaker for the sophomore ROTC cadets on 2 February 1965.

Lieutenant Colonel James Chrietzberg, professor of military science at MTSC, has invited General Powell to speak to the sophomore cadets in the interest of better understanding of the importance of the advanced ROTC program to the nation and to the individual participating. General Powell's address is expected to emphasize the Army's need for junior officers and the advantages of a reserve or regular commission available to college graduates under the ROTC program.

Pile Leads Freshmen For Total Points

Tom Pile, a 6-7 center from Rochelle, Illinois, is leading the Middle Tennessee State College freshman team in scoring this season. Pile has seen action in five of the six contests and is scoring at a 16.6 points-per-game clip with 83 markers.

Close behind is Bill Swain, a 6-6 center-forward from Madison. Swain has tallied 96 points in six games for a 16.0 average.

Other double figure scorers are forward Fred Woody (Sante Fe) 15.2, and Herbert Owenby (Sevierville) 12.3. Owenby, who was sidelined for three games with a football injury, plays guard and forward.

The fledgling Raiders have a 3-3 record going into the post-holiday season.

Other members of the freshman squad are Mike O'Rourke, guard, Loganport, Indiana; Larry Needham, guard, Columbia, Tenn.; Preston Cathey, guard, McMinnville, Tenn.; John Ghibaudy, Cario, Illinois; Lynn Parker, guard, Montone, Ind., and Bill Pettus, forward, College Grove, Tenn.

Blue Raiders Hit Road For Next OVC Opponents

Middle Tennessee State Blue Raiders tangles with two of the Ohio Valley Conference powers in an important road trip Saturday and Monday nights.

Coach Bill Stokes' quintet challenges Morehead State on the first stop in Blue Grass territory, and follows with the Monday clash at Eastern Kentucky.

Coach Bobby Laughlin's Eagles will be trying to end a two game losing string. The Eagles went into the OVC tournament at Louisville during the Christmas holidays with a perfect record of five wins, but were dropped by eventual tourney champion Murry by a 89-82 score. The Eagles lost their second contest in seven starts last Monday to Eastern Kentucky, 82-77. Last season, the Raiders pulled the big upset 92-85 on the Morehead floor. It was only the second win the Raiders have ever recorded at Morehead.

MTSC's main task will be stopping high scoring Harold Sergent and big Henry Akin. Akin poured in 25 in the losing effort against Eastern.

On Monday, the Raiders will face towering Eastern Kentucky. Eastern's front line of Dennis Bradley, Bob Tolan, and Eddie Bodkin shows 6-7, 6-8 and 6-5. The first two reserves are 6-8 and 6-9.

Coach Stokes said, "This trip could go a long way in determining what kind of season we are going to have. If the boys show the same kind of effort they had against Austin Peay, we could do pretty well."

Five Blue Raiders are scoring in double figures. Mike Milholland leads the parade with a 13.5 average. Others are Ray Kempf (12.7), Jim Spencer (12.5), Phil Meadows (11.8) and Bobby Gardner (10.2).

Austin Peay Game Reset For Jan. 23rd

The Austin Peay basketball game has been rescheduled for Saturday, January 23 instead of February 27. The 13th district high school tournament will be in progress at MTSC during the week of February 27.

A preliminary freshman game will be played with Austin Peay at 6 o'clock January 23. The Austin Peay yearling defeated the Baby Raiders 85-81 in Clarksville Tuesday night while the varsity was defeating the Governors 77-73.

Last home game will be with Western Kentucky on February 18.

Middle Tennessee opened its Ohio Valley Conference play with an 82-77 win over the Governors of Austin Peay at Clarksville last Monday, Jan. 4.

Jim Spencer was the big gun for the Raiders with 23 points. He was followed by Ed "Boom-Boom" Cannon with 14, Ray Kempf with 11 and Phil Meadows with 10.

This was a game in which the score was tied 18 times before Phil Meadows hit a jumper with 6:08 left on the clock to put the Raiders out in front to stay 67-65.

Coach Bill Stokes called this the best game the Raiders have played this year, and the best road game for some time.

Coach Stokes said that the Raiders improved road showing was due to the team being very well prepared mentally and the teams ability to change to a different defence.

The Blue Raiders season record now stands at three wins and five losses. Let's hope the trip into Blue Grass Territory improves on the record of the Raiders.

Athletic department has announced a change in MTSC basketball schedule. The game scheduled with Austin Peay for February 27 has been moved up to Saturday anuary 23.

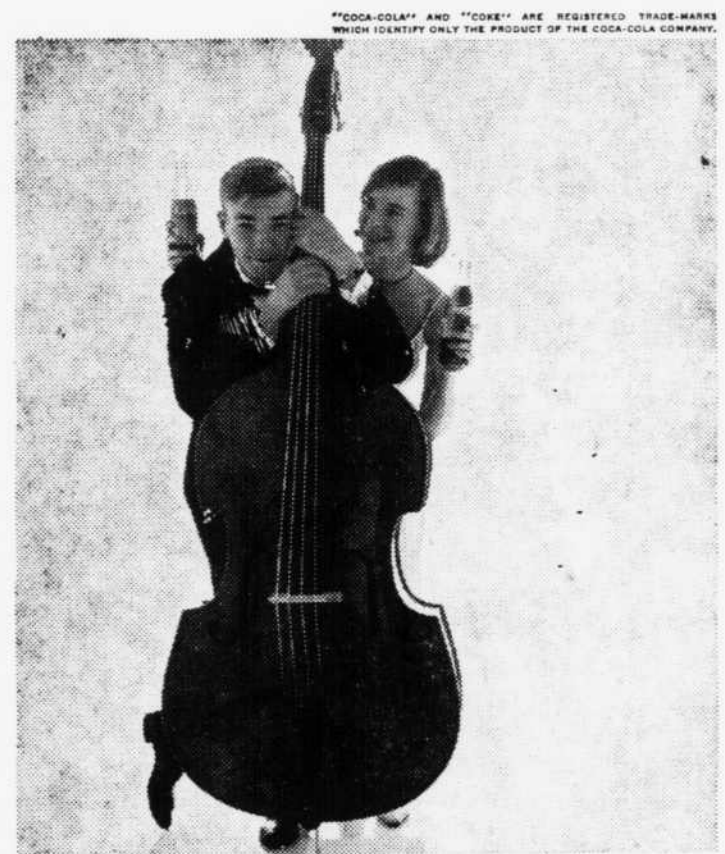

This now gives the Raiders two home games during semester break. It would be nice if our basketball team did not have to play with the gym empty. So you students who can try to come see our team play. It will be a big boost to the team and it will also help school spirit. The games will be played on Saturday, January 16 against TPI and on Saturday, January 23 against Austin Peay. So all you who can attend please do so and support your team.

Midlander Contest Feb. 11

Thirty-five or more Middle Tennessee State coeds are expected to participate in the Miss Midlander contest scheduled for February 11 in the new theatre building. Any organization or dormitory on the campus may sponsor an entry in the contest for the distinctive honor as official representative of the college yearbook.

Danny Holder and Bonnie Puckett, business manager and editor of the annual, are working under the direction of Dr. Homer Pittard in preparing the format for the event.

The contest in past years has been held as a part of the talent show but this year was set up as a separate effort in order to combine the pageantry of a personality contest with a program of professional entertainers. Dave Overton, popular master of ceremonies of WSM Radio and TV, will supervise the program on February 11 at 7:30. The young ladies will compete in three areas of fashion wearing evening dress, campus wear and swim suits.

All of the girls will appear on the Jud Collins Noon Show on WSM TV Channel 4 on Monday, February 8. Miss Tennessee has been invited to participate in the program. Professional entertainers will include some of the outstanding performers in the Nashville area.

ASB Changes Movie Policy

In keeping with the policy of bringing you better entertainment with a more professional atmosphere, your ASB has taken another step to increase your weekend entertainment.

As you have experienced in your own home town motion picture theatre, many future ASB movies will be presented from beginning to end uninterrupted by reel changes during the middle of the film. This is done by using two projectors instead of the single projector as used in the past.

In the weeks to come you will have a wide choice of motion picture entertainment to choose from. Among the coming films, first on January 30 at 7:30, 40 Pounds of Trouble starring Tony Curtis, Suzanne Pleshette, and Phil Silvers in Eastman Color. Next, an award winning movie, The Key, starring William Holden and Sophia Loren. Finally, the movie that made Henry Mancini's motion picture background music famous, Experiment in Terror, starring Glenn Ford and Lee Remick will be shown.

Admission to all these films is a special student rate well below the price of a regular theatre charge. These films are shown in room 304 of the Student Union Building.
