Dropouts Total Almost 500

Approximately 200 new students and transfers are included among the more than 4,200 students enrolled at Middle Tennessee State College for the spring semester, according to Dean John Weems. Preliminary registration figures released last week show that through Saturday noon, January 30 a total of 4,160 had enrolled. This compares with 4,631 who registered for the fall semester.

With 181 members in the January graduating class and nearly 500 withdrawals for personal and academic reasons, more than 600 of the fall semester students did not return for the spring.

Currently there are 2,510 men and 1,650 women students. Of these 1,663 are classified as freshmen, 1,038 as sophomores, 583 as juniors, 588 as seniors and 280 as graduate students. Others are classified as special students. The freshman class has 947 men and 716 women; the senior class 339 men, 249 women; sophomore class 682 men, 356 women; and the junior class, 345 men, 238 women.

Spring Plans Made By IA

The members of the Industrial Arts Club have made plans for several outings during the spring semester. Several field trips to local industries in Murfreesboro and neighboring cities are scheduled along with a banquet and a picnic, the latter to be at Center Hill Lake.

This year has included many service projects performed by the club. They include refinishing desks for the Murfreesboro Red Cross Chapter, purchasing newspaper racks for the Sidelines, assisting the ASB in preparing the travel board in the Student Union Building, and devising a number system for the rooms in the Industrial Arts Building.

Any minor or major in industrial arts who is interested in joining the club may attend the meeting in the center of the I.A. Building at 4:00 next Tuesday.

March 20 Scheduled For Teacher Exams

Less than ten days remain for prospective teachers who plan to take the National Teacher Examinations at Middle Tennessee State College on March 20, 1965, to submit their registrations for these tests to Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, Dr. James A. Martin, director of guidance, announced today. Registrations for the examinations must be forwarded so as to reach the Princeton office not later than February 19, Dr. Martin advised.

Bulletins of Information describing registration procedures and containing registration forms may be obtained from Dr. James A. Martin, Room 216, Administration building or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, New Jersey.

Each candidate will receive an admission ticket advising him of the exact location of the center to which he should report.

PLAN TO STUDENT TEACH? APPLY TO MR. NUNLEY NOW

Students who are working for a minor in secondary education and who plan to do student teaching any time during the 1965-66 academic year, must file their application before this mid-semester ends, March 19, 1965. Applications are located in room A-119 and may be filed in the same room. Joe E. Nunley, Director of Student Teaching

STUDENT DIES OF INJURIES RECEIVED IN AUTO CRASH

Robert (Bobby) Louis Rowland, a nineteen-year old sophomore at MTSC, died of injuries received Saturday night, January 30, in an automobile accident near Overall Creek Bridge on U. S. Highway 41 in Murfreesboro.

Mr. Rowland, a former Central High School football and basketball player, was the son of Louis and Maurie Rowland of 516 N. University Street, Murfreesboro. He was the first accident fatality in Rutherford County for this year.

Evaluators Visit Campus

A team representing the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education will be on the Middle Tennessee State College campus February 7-10. It will examine the teacher education program from top to bottom and make its report to the Washington, D.C. office of NCATE.

The findings will be examined by a central office team, and the MTSC program will be given a rating. It is the exception rather than the rule when an institution is approved entirely by NCATE. In more than half of its evaluations some form of tentative approval is given and suggestions are made for improvement, according to Dr. Will Bowdoin, director of the School of Education.

Members of the visiting committee, which began work Sunday night, are Dr. Samuel B. Peavey, University of Louisville; Dr. Helen M. Reed, University of Kentucky; Dr. Allen G. Anderson, Western Kentucky; Custer B. Reynolds, Adbury College; Mrs. Grace M. Council, Appalachian College, A. B. Cooper, State Department of Education; Dr. Fred W. Gupton, Bristol City Schools.

Bills Reach General Assembly

Two bills now pending in the General Assembly of Tennessee will vitally effect the future of the college.

Representative John Bragg and Senator Whitney Steagall have companion bills in the House and Senate to change the name of MTSC to Middle Tennessee State University. The bill has passed second reading in the House and is now in the hands of the Judiciary committee.

The Senate may act on third reading this week.

If Governor Clement's two-year budget proposal is approved, MTSC will receive $6,484,000 in State funds. These will be supplemented by student fees and other local revenues.

The budget calls for $2,893,000 for 1965-66 an increase of $527,000 over the current State appropriation. In 1966-67 the college would receive $3,391,000.

This fiscal year the budget is $3,286,000 for operating costs alone. Of this amount $2,226,000 comes from the State and $1,020,000 from local revenues.

President Quill E. Cope has indicated that $2,874,000 of the proposed State appropriation would be allocated for capital outlay. The two projects already tentatively approved by the State Board of Education, contingent on such appropriation is the renovation of the main section of the old Administration Building and the construction of a new science building.

Where Does It Start

During the past weeks an alarming number of students have resigned from the Air Force Academy either voluntarily or under pressure. The reason for this abdication is a very embarrassing one; they were caught cheating.

The embarrassment and loss of respect which inevitably accompanies these withdrawals cannot be described. The permanent mar on their records and the disgrace felt by both students and parents when names appear in the hometown papers is punishment enough by itself.

But the startling fact is that in proportion, only a very few students who cheat are ever actually caught. Not just in the Air Force Academy but in colleges all over the United States down to MTSC in Murfreesboro, test papers are exchanged, book reports are bought and sold, and information is given freely. Often times whole classrooms conspire against a professor.

But even more despicable is the reality that the average student feels neither guilt or the least bit of remorse, and he is seldom embarrassed by being caught. This lack of honesty reflects poorly upon the character of the student generation, but they cannot be blamed entirely.

Students who cheat are only demonstrating what they have learned in their experiences in a modern world. It is sometimes said that education begins in the home, and more especially is this true when the whole of an adult society exaggerates and even brags about its deeds of immorality. Dishonesty is a common practice in adult society. Everyday parents and others who are in positions of leadership follow petty immoral practices. This does not refer to the big headline crimes which appear daily in the newspapers, but to such practices as cheating on expense accounts, lying on income tax returns, refusing to pay parking tickets, stealing papers from news racks, and a thousand other daily occurrences. This practice of legal dishonesty is continued every day in politics, on the job, and even in the church and law enforcement agencies.

There is no criminal punishment for these crimes. There is no penalty whatsoever except that the next generation will follow in its parents' footsteps.

Tribute To Churchill

"Come then: let us to the task, to the battle, to the toil—each to our part, each to our station. Fill the armies, rule the air, pour out the munitions, strangle the U boats, sweep the mines, plow the land, build the ships, guard the streets, succor the wounded, uplift the downcast and honor the brave. Let us go forward together in all parts of the Empire, in all parts of the Island. There is not a week, nor a day, nor an hour to lose. I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears, and sweat." So spoke the gallant Winston Churchill in the early, trying days of World War II; spoken not only to his beloved English people but also to all freedom-minded peoples everywhere.

The American people tried to show their appreciation to Sir Winston Churchill for all his wonderful deeds when, through their President, John F. Kennedy, in 1963 they declared him an honorary citizen of the United States. This was the first such degree bestowed since George Washington granted the same honor upon the Marquis de Lafayette following the Revolutionary War.

But it will be the people of Great Britain who will remember Winston Churchill the best and in the fondest fashion. They realize that had it not been for Sir Winston Churchill their "Finest Hour" may very well have been their "Final Hour."

The faculty and students of Middle Tennessee State College salute the memory of Winston Churchill as he becomes part of history—a history to which he will be so much a credit.

Finian's Rainbow Named Success

by Creed Crowder

The Broadway musical which was so successful there, Finian's Rainbow, was also a smash hit on our campus last week-end. The cast, chorus, and orchestra of more than 100 played to near capacity crowds three nights in the new, spacious Dramatic Arts Auditorium. This was the first time the orchestra pit has been utilized and the first time that scenery has graced the new stage.

Lynn McGill and Kay Thomas were excellent as they played opposite each other in the lead singing roles. Dr. Ed Howard and Mr. Bob Jones, cast in the lead acting parts, kept the audience howling with their interpretations of the Senator and Finian, respectively. Their being faculty members added to the "hardy-har-har" atmosphere. Sharon Potter danced her way flawlessly through the pot-of-gold story, and Tommy Horne carried his share of the load well.

While the finished product was tops, Mrs. Dorethe Tucker put in numerous hours working the actors into that highly-polished state. Mr. and Mrs. Neil Wright struggled with the singers and musicians until all were hitting the right notes at the same time. The hard working stage managers for this production were Jan Allred and Virginia Branum. Harold Knowles did a tremendous job as head carpenter in building the set, too. One of the most amazing things about the entire musical was the way in which Albertine of Nashville whipped those non-dancing students into almost professional shape.

All of the stage and light crews, along with the backstage people, are to be commended as they worked together as a unit to make this play as professional as the original Broadway show version. Many times I feel that the "behind-the-scenes" people should be the ones eligible for academy awards since most spectators don't realize the work they've done to make the presentation click as a whole. The students and general public of the area will be raving for months to come, and justly so, about the most entertaining musical put on by those MTSC students.

... And All That Jazz

by Creed Crowder

It seems that purchasing the Yankees was not enough for the Columbia Broadcasting System... their sister firm, Columbia Records, has just bought out the famous Fender Guitar and Amplifier Company for 13 million dollars. You can bet that some companies are now busily looking up the definition of the word "monopoly."

A few of the current rock and roll artists will later go on to become millionaires and become permanent in their field, if they have a speck of talent. Take an English fella named John Barry. Back in 1957 he was leading a rock and roll band, then became personal manager for England's Adam Faith, and next became a record producer; but guess what he's doing now... writing all of the music for the James Bond flicks. He has composed the scores for "Dr. No," "From Russia with Love," and the current 007 favorite, "Goldfinger." His orchestra records the soundtracks, too.

I'm sure you remember the hit record "G.T.O.", but would you believe that the whole thing was the product of one young man? A record producer tells this story... "Buck" Wilkins of Nashville, who has many friends on this campus, wrote the song, sang all the parts, and played all of the instruments on the session... this was done through a process of multi-records and overdubbing the individual parts to get the final sound. When "G.T.O." became a smash, Wilkins had to form Ronny and the Daytonas to go out on personal appearances since he is still in college.

A recording artist just returned from New York recording sessions to tell me of a discovery he made there. The Kingsmen, of "Louie, Louie" fame, are actually two different groups. The Kingsmen you

Letters To Editor

(Editor's note: The following letter was received by Gene H. Sloan, director of public relations and Sidelines sponsor at MTSC, from Clancy Biegler, director of alumni affairs at Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio, and is one of which our students and faculty can be proud.)

Dear Mr. Sloan:

I can't thank you enough for your letter of December the 18th. All of us here at Muskingum are proud to know that our boys created such a fine impression. Although our boys were beaten by a very fine Middle Tennessee State College football team, they did conduct themselves as gentlemen and after all, this is probably more important than the outcome of the game.

May I return your compliment by saying that never have we experienced finer hospitality than shown by your students, staff, and citizens of Murfreesboro. Everyone "out did" themselves to make us comfortable. It was truly real southern hospitality at its best.

Dr. Miller, our President, and other members of the faculty, staff and student body who traveled to Murfreesboro asked that I extend best wishes to all of you for a most prosperous and happy New Year.

With personal regards,
Clancy Biegler

hear on records are really Bill Hailey and the old Comets, but the touring Kingsmen are actually a group of college students. This is done so that Hailey and his group can remain behind the scenes. The Comets hit it big in the early days of rock and roll with "Rock Around the Clock" and "See Ya Later, Alligator." Alligator, we'll see you next issue!

Dear Editor,

There has been a great deal of comment lately upon the social life at "The World's Largest High School." I cannot concur with the radicals in either group, but I can offer a solution to this problem.

A total breakdown of the present situation, which is advocated (more or less) by one of the groups, would indeed be a foolish thing. On the other hand, a more liberal attitude might be more desirable. The administration has no way of knowing what the student body desires other than the attendance at school-sanctioned activities. To illustrate this point, imagine the uproar abandonment of athletics or fun-nights would cause.

Therefore, I think if we want the administration to realize that we really are maturing college students, and that we have the same interests as our brethren in larger institutions, we must show them by our interest.

This year the Sophomore Class has attempted to bring something entirely new to the MTSC campus—a FORMAL dance. This type of dance is as much a part of college life as that eleven o'clock history class or that early morning cup of coffee in the T-Room.

The Mid-Winter Formal has had much preparation, and should prove to be one of the big social events of the semester. The decorations and refreshments will be a welcome change from previous Mid-Winter dances. The Formal will give us a needed opportunity that we really are the young adults we claim to be. I hope to see a large turn-out on February 12.

Flash-on Shots

By Rita McWhorter

Formal wear receives special attention this week due to the upcoming events planned on campus. The sophomore class is sponsoring a Mid-Winter Formal to be held February 12 in the Tennessee room. Girls are looking for dresses that may be worn not only to a dance but in one of the beauty contest held on campus. Boys are wondering whether to invest in a dinner jacket or tuxedo.

Glenda Rains, a sophomore from Nashville, expects an evening ensemble of spectacular elegance. A sequin over-blouse is brought closely in at the waist to give a flattering blouson effect. The flattering low scoop neck line also gives special appeal found in today's fashion.

Men also have fashions to choose from their formal wear. George Atwood, a junior from Nashville, models a black tuxedo that is considered to be less formal than a swallowtail coat or dinner jacket.

Black with satin lapels gives distinction only a tuxedo can offer. There are also beautiful colors and designs that may be appropriately worn as a cummerbund.

Although formal wear for men will be appropriate, a dark suit will be acceptable at the Mid-Winter formal. Dances give one an opportunity to really show off their favorite formal wear. Now is the time to enjoy such occasions on campus.

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH

Today I begin my eleventh year of writing this column in your campus newspaper.

I wasn't sure I'd be coming back this year. After a decade of doing this column, I had retreated to my country seat, tired but happy, to enjoy a nice long rest. But last night as I sat on my verandah, peaceful and serene, humming the largo from A Long Day's Night and worming my dog, a stranger suddenly appeared before me.

He was a tall, clean-limbed man, crinkly-eyed and crooked-grinned, stalwart and virile. "How do you do," he said. "My name is Stalwart Virile and I am with the Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blade people."

"Enchanted," I said. "Take off your homburg and sit down." I clapped my hands sharply. "Norman!" I called. "Another chair for Mr. Virile!"

"Another chair for Mr. Virile!"

Obediently my dog trotted away and returned directly with a fanback chair of Malayan rattan. He is the smartest dog in our block.

"I suppose you're wondering why I am here," said Mr. Virile, seating himself.

"Well, sir," I replied, my old eyes twinkling roguishly, "I'll wager you didn't come to read my meter."

You can imagine how we howled at that one!

"That's a doozy!" cried Mr. Virile, finally catching his breath.

"I must remember to tell it to Alice when I get home."

"Your wife?" I said.

"My father," he said.

"Oh," I said.

"But enough of wit and humor," he said. "Let us get down to business. How would you like to write a campus column for Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades?"

"For money?" I said.

"Yes," he said.

"My hand, sir," I said and clasped his. Warmly he returned the pressure, and soft smiles played upon our lips, and our eyes were moist with the hint of tears, and we were silent, not trusting ourselves to speak.

"What will you write about in your campus column?" asked Mr. Virile when he was able to talk again.

"I will take up the burning issues that vex the American undergraduate!" I cried, bounding to my feet. "I will explore, without fear or favor, such explosive questions as 'Are roommates sanitary?' and 'Should proctors be given a saliva test?' and 'Should capital punishment for pledges be abolished?' and 'Can a student of 19 find happiness with an economics professor of 80?'"

"And will you also say a pleasant word from time to time about Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades?" asked Mr. Virile.

"Sir," I said simply, "what other kind of word except pleasant could I possibly say about Personna Blades, which give me more luxury shaves than Beep-Beep or any other blade I might name?"

"Another of my products is Burma Shave," said Mr. Virile. "Can you find it in your heart to mention Burma Shave occasionally?"

"But of course!" I declared. "For is not Burma Shave the whisker-wiltingest lather in the land?"

"Yes," he admitted.

And then he shook my hand again and smiled bravely and was gone—a tall silhouette moving erectly into the setting sun.

"Farewell, good tonsorialist!" I cried after him. "Aloha!"

And turned with a will to my typewriter.

From The Sidelines

by Butch Rutherford

On January 23 the Raiders were to play the Governors from Austin Peay. A large crowd was not expected at the Raider gym as this game was being played during the semester break.

The small crowd which turned out for this game saw the Raiders obliterate three school records in smashing the Gobs 125 to 95 when Coach Stokes installed a new starting line-up. This line included Dan Midget and Jack Sutter at guards, Jim Spencer and Billy Martin at forwards, and Mike Milholland at center.

Mike Milholland, 6'5" senior from Bluffton, Indiana, was to break two school records and give what Coach Stokes called, "Probably the best individual performance ever staged in the Raider gym."

All that Mike did was score 44 points which broke the school record of 43 set by Bob Burden in 1960. Mike hit on 14 of 24 from the floor, and made 16 of 19 from the charity line.

If breaking the scoring record was not enough, Mr. Milholland also hauled down 32 rebounds, erasing the old standard of 31 set by Bennett Jent in 1963. Stopping here, Mike left the game with five minutes showing on the clock.

The Raiders by scoring 125 points smashed the old single-game mark by 14 points. The old record of 109 was set against Lipscomb in 1960.

Billy Martin, having switched from guard to forward just days before poured in 25 points for the Raiders. Martin fouled out of the game with 15 minutes left.

Coach Stokes attributed the switch of Martin from guard to forward to the Raiders' fantastic success. Coach Stokes says that Martin gives the Raiders quickness and speed at forward which enables them to run.

The other three starters were also in double figures. Jack Sutter netted 18 points; Jim Spencer and Dan Midgett added 10 each. Also, seven other Raiders found the scoring range in this game. As a team, the Raiders hit on 46 of 98 field goal attempts for a 46.9 per cent accuracy. They also hauled down 85 rebounds. But this was still Mike Milholland's game.

E. T. S. U.

Not to be denied during the semester break, the Raiders two nights later hit the century mark again and downed East Tennessee State 100 to 99.

Unlike the Austin Peay game, the ETSU tilt was nip and tuck all the way. This was a game in which the score was tied ten times, and neither team ever managed more than a ten-point lead. And this margin was accomplished only once when the Raiders led the score 75-65 midway in the second half.

Again Billy Martin and Mike Milholland led the attack. Martin, before fouling out with 9 minutes left, poured in 28 points. While Milholland added 25 points and led the rebounding with 12, Jim Spencer hit for 18; Jack Sutter, 16; and Dan Midget, 8.

Jim Spencer put the game on ice for the Raiders by hitting two free throws with 16 seconds left to play, making the score 100 to 97.

The victories over Austin Peay and East Tennessee were the first OVC victories of the season for the Raiders on their home floor.

Even with two back to back wins the Raiders were still plagued by a weak defense and personal fouls. On defense the Raiders are surrendering 96.2 points a game. It seems the only way for them to win is outscore their opponent.

'Army Has Well Educated Leadership' Asserts Gen. Powell

"You must measure up as a man in every respect to serve your country in the Army today," Major General Beverly E. Powell, commanding general of the 101st Airborne Division, Fort Campbell, told more than three hundred sophomore cadets in the Middle Tennessee State College ROTC program at a Tuesday morning Assembly.

General Powell listed the advantages and disadvantages of a career as an officer in the United States Army for those cadets who will soon signify their intention to become senior cadets with a commission in prospect or who will complete their ROTC program at the end of the sophomore year.

"The services offer a challenge in a world of conflict," the distinguished speaker stated. He pointed out that the Army needed educated officers. Nineteen per cent of the 100,000 officers in the regular army and the AUS now hold graduate degrees. Seventy five per cent of officers hold a college degree, and 19 per cent of the other officers have had some college work. He pointed out that the enlisted man also was an educated man as evidenced by the fact that 75 per cent were high school graduates and that 23 per cent have had college training, three per cent of whom are college graduates.

The services, according to General Powell, offer additional opportunity and encouragement for advanced study, a wide range of skills and abilities, personal and family security, a keen sense of accomplishment, an opportunity to travel, a close kinship among those of common interests and a certain amount of excitement and glamour.

"However the best officer is the one who does not say, 'What's in it for me,' but, 'What can I offer my country?'" General Powell declared. He pointed out that service personnel would never become wealthy, that they would face certain privations and be denied some of the pleasures associated with civilian home and community life.

Martha Lunn Reigns As Queen, April 2

Miss Martha Lunn, sponsor of the First Battalion of the ROTC brigade, will rule as Queen of the Military Ball, April 2, 1965. Miss Lunn of Nashville is the daughter of Mrs. Mary C. Lunn. She is a sophomore home economics major. Four alternates chosen as her attendants are Emily Nicholson, junior from Ashland City; Michelle Meyer, freshman, 725 Templeton Drive, Nashville; Mandy Gentry, sophomore, Charlotte Pike, Nashville; and Ginger Raulston, 412 Oak Avenue, South Pittsburg.

The Track and Sabre Club of the college has announced that Miss Mandy Gentry, Brigade sponsor, will be the representative of that organization in the Miss Midlander contest on the evening of February 11.

Traditional "pinning of the bars" completed the ceremony of commissioning eight new second lieutenants by the department of military science at Middle Tennessee State College Sunday afternoon. Those participating were from left, John R. Sullivan, Jr., Mrs. John Sullivan, Sr., Nashville; James L. Singleton, Mrs. Sallie Singleton, Donelson; Bobby G. SAFETY AND SKILL THEME SET FOR SPORTS CAR CLUB

"Safety and skill in driving" is the theme put forth by the Blue Raider Sports Car Club. In promoting this theme the club holds rallies, auto-crosses and gymkhanas.

In its second year of operation the club has held two rallies. The first rally was a Hare and Hounds with James Weihe and Jesse Raine "riding off" with the honors. The second rally was won by Bill Lewis and Larry Crawley. Future plans for the group include a 100-mile rally and a safety campaign.

Officers elected at the first organizational meeting last fall were Larry Taylor, president; John Jernigan, vice president; Shirley Givens, secretary; and Pat Badacour, treasurer and representative. Mr. Jesse Raine is faculty advisor.

Library Contest Ends Friday

February 12 is the final date for students to file a declaration of intent to participate in the 1964-65 Student Book Collectors contest for undergraduates sponsored by the MTSC Library Committee. Prizes totaling $100 will be awarded the three students who have the best collection in the opinion of the judges. Applications MUST be filed with Miss Catherine Clark, MTSC librarian by Friday of this week.

Dr. Roscoe Strickland stated that students would have April 23 to comply with contest rules which include the preparation of a bibliography of books in their individual collection, bibliography of books they wish to purchase in the near future and a brief essay of not more than 500 words that explains the special interests of the student and the purpose of the collection.

Young Democrats Plan Agenda

by Olivia Flynn

The Young Democrats Club on campus is looking forward to many activities in this spring semester and in the 1965 political "off-year." President of the energetic organization, Bill Rutherford, emphasizes that these so-called "off-years" are excellent times for membership drives, lecture series, special projects, long-range planning, and constitutional revisions."

On the agenda for the spring semester and of special interest to any student is the club's pledged support of and participation in the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Memorial Drive in Middle Tennessee. They will work along with other groups and individuals in this area to raise funds for the library in which will be housed the Kennedy papers and other effects of the late president.

Reflecting on what they deem a very successful fall semester, the club's activities included active support of the Democrat candidates in the 1964 campaigns. A high point of these activities came in Nashville when President Johnson recognized the Middle Tennessee State College banner and halted his motorcade to speak to the group. The President told the members who were assembled there that he was "greatly encouraged by the interest and participation of America's Youth in politics." The club is particularly proud also of the pictures taken of Mr. Johnson with the group.
